Massive Task Involves 850 Employes

RONSON Corporation of Pennsylvania begins the massive task of moving all its plant operations from East Stroudsburg into its modern, new million-dollar structure at Delaware Water Gap.

General Manager Milton Pohl disclosed yesterday that first phase of the moving will involve office equipment and records of the accounting, purchasing and research and development departments.

All other offices will be moved after the Harris St. plant ceases operations Dec. 21, Pohl added.

The Spruce and Henry St. plants will be closed Dec. 14 and dismantling of equipment will begin the following day. By concentrating on those two sites, the general manager explained, it will permit Ronson to keep the Harris St. plant open one week longer than if all operations were to be halted at once.

Some 850 Ronson employes are affected by the move. A considerable number of these will be employed during the annual year-end inventory, also scheduled for the next few weeks, and some will also assist with the moving, Pohl announced.

Manager

The local manager said Ronson hopes to complete the moving except for the plating department and have the new plant operating in about a month.

Because of the large amount of plumbing and other work connected with setting up the plating department in the Delaware Water Gap building, Pohl indicated it would be several weeks after the new plant opens before the plating department will be back in operation.

Pohl said it was the company's earnest desire to resume all operations as quickly as possible. He pointed out, however, that with the moving coming at the same time as the usual year-end shutdown for physical inventory, the period of idleness this year will be longer than usual.

The inventory itself is a major job for it entails a physical count of all raw materials, items in production and finished goods on hand, Pohl explained.

Production

At present, Ronson production is scattered over three factories and three warehouses. Under the new setup at Delaware Water Gap, all facilities will be concentrated in one building and on one floor.

Present floor space totals 75,000 square feet. This compares with 110,000 square feet in the new plant. The increase permits room for present and future expansion together with better facilities for employes in the nature of individual lockers, a modern cafeteria and less crowded manufacturing conditions, Pohl said.

Spruce St. plant in East Stroudsburg is devoted to the assembly of table lighters, Adonis pocket lighters and accessories.

All pocket lighters other than Adonis are assembled at the Henry St. plant.

The fabrication plant on Harris St. houses these departments: press; tool room, soldering, plating, polishing, engine turning and some light machine work.

Workers Issue Warning To Russians

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 7 (AP)—New strikes and street fights swept Budapest today. Workers told the Russian-imposed government to quit jailing their leaders or face another outburst of violence.

The Central Workers Council issued a proclamation charging that continued jailing of leaders would end in "a general strike, bloodshed and a new national tragedy."

The workers demanded an answer by 8 p.m. over Budapest radio. The hour passed without the station mentioning the workers' statement.

A street fight broke out at almost the same site as Thursday's clash that took three lives by official account and 17 according to unconfirmed reports.

A Russian armored car stopped in the crowded area and picked up a young Hungarian. About 100 Hungarians immediately gathered around and began to argue.

Friendly

Two more Russian cars stopped, but the crews were friendly and smiling. They drove off. Then the argument with the police started.

The whole Western Railway Station was soon surrounded by Hungarian police with tommyguns at the ready.

Police charged the crowd, swinging clubs and firing in the air.

"We were not demonstrating, we were not marching," said one Hungarian. "We just stood here talking as we were going home.

"See here. That's a bump a Hungarian policeman's truncheon raised on my head. If these cops think this is the end of it they are mistaken.

"There are going to be things like this happening every day around here. We've got a right to stand in the streets and talk.

"These bums, the Communist police, are not going to take this away from us—or over our dead bodies."

Eyewitnesses said police carried several truckloads of men and women from the scene of the clash.

Several other disturbances were rumored in the capital.

The Central Workers Council reported there were sporadic and spontaneous strikes in several factories.

Torch Sparks Set Pier Fire

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP) — Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr., said tonight Brooklyn's disastrous pier blast Monday was caused by acetylene torch sparks setting a fire which set off 37,000 pounds of detonant cord fuses.

The waterfront disaster claimed 10 lives and injured 246 persons. Pier 35 was destroyed with the loss set at 15 million dollars.

Cavanagh, in making the first official announcement regarding the cause of the fire and explosion, said officials came to this conclusion: The shipment of detonant fuses "stored ... on the pier, and exploded to complete fire in cargoes of rubber, alcohol, lacquer and varnish, became heated and detonated and was the competent and producing cause of the tragic explosion."

Authorities have said that the fuses, manufactured under the trade name "Primacord" by the Ensign Bickford Co., of Simsbury, Conn., were stored on the pier for shipment to the West Coast.

Burlap

Cavanagh said questioning of ship riggers, working in the vicinity, disclosed that sparks from their acetylene torches fell onto burlap - wrapped foam rubber stored on the pier. The resulting fire, Cavanah said, spread later to the fuses stored on the pier.

The fire commissioner said the riggers had "admitted" using the torches during the course of repair work on the roof of the pier immediately above the rubber cargo.

Earlier, Dist. Atty. Edward S. Silver of Brooklyn said in a statement that a study by three Columbia University scientists indicated that detonating fuses in cord form had caused the pier blast.

Silver's statement came only a few hours after the company had announced it will take legal steps to counter a fire department ban on any further shipment of the fuses from the piers.

The company said that in the past 20 years it had shipped "hundreds of millions of feet" of the fuse cord without one instance of its exploding in transit.

The fuse cord is used to set off explosive charges in quarrying, mining and general blasting operations.

All the shipments, the company said, have complied with the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the U.S. Coast Guard.

Jury Fails To Recommend Any Mercy

MINEOLA, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—Angelo LaMarca was doomed to death by an all-male jury tonight for the July kidnap slaying of baby Peter Weinberger.

The 12 men on the jury, all of them fathers, found the 31-year-old defendant guilty of kidnaping and also of first degree murder. They did not recommend mercy in either case, thus automatically condemning LaMarca to die in the electric chair.

LaMarca was standing erect as jury foreman John W. Connelly, 48, a father of four children, delivered the verdict. The jury had been out for six hours and 24 minutes.

The defendant's knees buckled and two court attendants seized him to keep him from falling to the floor.

His wife, Donna, 31, a frail brunette and herself the mother of two small children, collapsed and was carried from the courtroom. She had fainted a few hours earlier when the case went to the jury at the end of a month-long trial but had insisted on returning to the courtroom to hear the verdict.

Trial Judge Mario Pittoni scheduled the automatic sentencing of death for Dec. 14.

Vigil

The 32-day-old kidnapped baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger, kept a vigil while the jury debated LaMarca's fate and were present when the verdict was returned.

Mrs. Weinberger's eyes filled with tears, but neither she nor her husband would make any comment on the outcome of the case.

Pittoni called the 31-year-old LaMarca's sanity the "major issue" in the case and gave the jury four possible verdicts on each of the two counts of kidnaping and first degree murder.

They were: Guilty as charged, which carries the death penalty; guilty with a recommendation of mercy which would have the effect of sparing LaMarca's life; innocent by reason of insanity, or a flat finding of innocent.

LaMarca admitted taking the 32-day-old baby from the patio of its Westbury, N. Y., home the rainy afternoon of last Independence Day and abandoning it almost at once in a Long Island honeysuckle thicket a few miles away. The child's body was not found until Aug. 24, the day after the FBI arrested LaMarca.

Defense

The slight muscular defendant told the jury from the witness stand earlier in the trial:

"I just don't see how I could have done such a thing when I have got my own children to think of."

LaMarca is the father of a boy, Vincent, 9, and a daughter, Vivian, who was 6 last Sunday.

The defense built its case around the insanity plea. It claimed LaMarca was an average, normal, hard-working husband and father until last spring when the burden of mounting debts drove him out of his mind.

Remember Pearl Harbor? It Happened 15 Years Ago

By Leonard Randolph

HOW LONG is 15 years?

A generation, you might say. Time enough for two wars. Time for a million violent deaths, 10 million births or more.

In human memory, those fifteen years can be an eternity.

December 7, 1956 came and went with quiet precision.

It was only slightly less silent in nature than that strange, numbing Dec. 7 of 15 years ago . . . That was a Sunday.

Because of this, there was no newspaper published on Dec 7. And on Dec. 6 — the day before — Monroe County had gone blithely about its business, only slightly prepared for the shock of awakening.

Headlines in The Daily Record on Dec. 6 already contained the grim germ of prophecy — even though the main, banner head was devoted to another kind of warfare in another part of the world.

The banner headline said: "Nazi Stand Along the Mius Totters." This was the major story of the day.

A secondary headline, running the full length of the front page, told Record readers: "Japs Plead For Time and Excuse Indo-China Action."

Japan, on that day, was still maintaining that she had acted within her rights in taking military action in the Far East. The President of the United States, meanwhile, told reporters that Japanese answers to diplomatic correspondence were evasive.

There was nothing vague in the "answer" from the Japanese the following day. Headlines in the local newspaper told the story in this fashion:

"JAPS ATTACK THE U.S." And, in smaller type: "Honolulu and Pearl Harbor Bombed."

The "European War" had been relegated to the third headline on the front page. It said: "Russians Break German Lines On the Moscow Front."

An Associated Press dispatch told the story of Pearl Harbor like this:

"War between the United States and Japan exploded violently in the Pacific today as waves of Japanese bombers twice attacked Honolulu, inflicting apparently great loss in life and property and bombed the tiny U.S. base at Guam, midway between Hawaii and the Philippines.

"In London, Prime Minister Churchill summoned parliament for a joint declaration of war with the United States against Japan.

Polish Government Settles Troubles With Catholic Church

WARSAW, Saturday, Dec. 8 (AP) — The Polish government and the Roman Catholic Church today announced a sweeping settlement of their differences. It includes an agreement to restore religious education to the state schools.

The settlement was the outcome of four weeks of negotiation by a joint state-church commission set up after the release of Poland's primate, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski.

The cardinal was released on Oct. 28 after three years of house arrest imposed by the pre-Gomulka Communist government.

The agreement includes these points:

1. An arrangement to restore religious education to grade and high schools for children whose parents request it.

2. An agreement allowing chaplains to work in hospitals and prisons.

3. A government commission for exiled priests and nuns to return to the western territories which Poland regained from Germany after World War II.

4. Church recognition that the state has a theoretical voice in church appointments. It is understood—although not written in the agreement — that the state has agreed never to veto appointments in the church.

A communique on the joint commission's talks said Poland's new government wants to end all the hinderances to full freedom of religious life.

One Dies, 50 Injured In Train Fire

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—An electrical flash sent flames billowing through the first car of a wooden elevated train loaded with rush hour commuters today, killing the motorman and injuring 50 passengers.

The four-car string of 50-year-old coaches carrying some 300 Evanston suburbanites to their jobs in Chicago's downtown district coasted a quarter-mile with those in the lead car fighting to escape flames one described as "shooting as if from a flame-thrower."

Several of the injured were cut severely, burned and crushed as they smashed windows with their fists and plunged to the rocky right of way to escape the fire.

First Arc

The motorman, 47-year-old Ralph Cullen, apparently was killed or incapacitated by the first electrical arc flame which hit his cab about 200 feet north of the Howard St. station—a point where the power mechanism of trains is usually switched from overhead trolley to third rail.

The front of the jammed car was ablaze as it coasted through the station where passengers lined the platform waiting to board it.

Clark Reports Expenses

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7 (AP)—U. S. Sen.-elect Joseph S. Clark, Democrat, reported personal expenses of $7,532 to the state Election Bureau in his successful campaign against U. S. Sen. James H. Duff, Republican, defeated for re-election at the Nov. 6 election.

Treasury To Borrow Billion Dollars

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Administration officials appear to be sharply divided over the amount and kind of financial assistance which America's allies in Europe may need in their present economic crisis.

This became evident today as the Treasury announced it would borrow a billion dollars on short-term bills this month. This borrowing is to raise cash which, among other things, may be used to help meet Britain's dollar needs.

Differences

Very little of the billion, however, would go to Britain directly from the United States. Most of it would go through the International Monetary Fund in the form of a dollar loan against Britain's own assets. It would not involve any aid at all in the usual sense of giving money or goods to a foreign country.

Differences in administration estimates of the situation apparently are based on different estimates of Europe's need.

Italy Cancels Entry Visa

ROME, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Italian government today dealt a humiliating diplomatic blow to Russia by canceling the entry visa of high-ranking Mikhail Suslov "in the interests of public order."

The slap in the face to Suslov, a secretary of the Soviet Communist party, came as he rolled through Eastern Europe in a train en route to address the Italian Communist party's 8th national congress opening here tomorrow.

The Italian government earlier had refused permission for Suslov to land here in a TU104 jetliner direct from Moscow.

Warning

The clear warning to Russia to keep its fingers out of the Italian political pie climaxed mounting anti-Soviet feeling in Italy.

Italians were appalled at Soviet ruthlessness in Hungary. Parades and anti-Soviet demonstrations followed the Budapest fighting in most of Italy's big cities.

Slight, scholarly-appearing 50-year-old Suslov is rated as the Kremlin's expert on relations with Communist parties abroad. There has been recent speculation that he visited Budapest and advised on suppressing the Hungarian revolt.

United States May Ostracize Hungary's U.N. Delegation

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—The United States was reported tonight pushing a proposal that the General Assembly ostracize Hungary's delegation unless that country admits U.N. observers.

Delegates who attended a private 17-nation meeting on what to do next said U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth argued for rejection or suspension of that delegation's credentials if the Soviet-backed Hungarian government remained adamant.

They said Belgian Ambassador Fernand Van Langenhove promoted a milder proposal to rebuke the Soviet government and Hungarian authorities for disregarding the Assembly's previous resolutions on Hungary.

The latest of these, adopted early Wednesday, allowed them only three more days to give their consent to the entry of U.N. political observers into Hungary.

Like earlier resolutions, it also called for withdrawal of Soviet troops and cessation of deportations of Hungarian citizens.

No official reply had been reported from either the Soviet Union or Hungary as the deadline of midnight tonight approached.

Russia Rejects Proposal

Signal Depot Jury Recesses

SCRANTON, Dec. 7 (AP) —The federal grand jury which returned indictments against six men yesterday in its investigation of the irregularities at the 33 million dollar U.S. Army Signal Corps Depot at Tobyhanna was in recess today but will resume sessions Monday.

Indictments presented to Federal Judge John W. Murphy yesterday were against John P. Gilboy, Scranton businessman and contractor, and Frederick J. Raff, Hartford, Conn., heating contractor, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government.

Joseph J. McHugh, Robert K. Malloy and John Durkin, all officers of Local 229, General Drivers Union, charged with extorting money from contractors at the depot.

The sixth indictment was against Frank P. Laurelli, Philadelphia.

Philippines Voted Into Council

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—Eastern Europe lost its seat on the Security Council today to the Philippines, backed by the United States in the latest East-West row of the General Assembly. The Soviet Union protested vehemently.

The Philippines polled 51 of the 74 valid ballots cast during the secret voting. The Soviet candidate, Czechoslovakia, received 20 votes, Afghanistan, Spain and Yugoslavia one each and one country abtained. Four members were absent. This gave the Philippines one more than the two-thirds vote required for election.

First Time

Yugoslavia, which resigned from the Council in accord with a deal breaking a 35-ballot deadlock with the Philippines last year, will give up its seat Dec. 31 and the Philippines will serve the remainder of the normal two-year term.

It will be the first time since the Council was organized in 1946 that a country from Eastern Europe has not occupied one of the six nonpermanent seats. The Soviet Union is one of the five permanent members.

The nervous relatives were all gathered in the lawyer's office eagerly waiting for him to read Uncle Jasper's will.

The attorney began: "Being of sound mind, I spent all my money."

Cancer Plagued Lawyer Argues Case Before United States Supreme Court---Then Dies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — A Washington lawyer, knowing he was dying of cancer, kept his date with the Supreme Court Wednesday by arguing his last and most important case.

The lawyer, Prew Savoy, 57, had fortified himself with six pints of blood and made what Justice William O. Douglas called a "heroic presentation."

Today, Savoy was found dead in his apartment in northwest Washington.

Savoy had been operated on in February and the surgeons removed one lung. They gave him three to 18 months to live. Part of the work he did for his last case was in a hospital bed. It was reported by associates who said "he did a magnificent job."

In an hour-long presentation to the Supreme court, Savoy argued on behalf of Jose Soriano, a Filipino, who seeks $119,765 for goods delivered to guerrillas during the Japanese occupation of the Philippine Islands.

Court Of Claims

The U.S. Court of Claims here rejected Soriano's claims and he appealed to the Supreme Court. Savoy argued that the United States was liable to Filipinos for such supplies. The case was taken under advisement by the Supreme Court.

Because the Supreme Court clerk's office knew Savoy had been ill, the justices were asked to arrange their argument schedules so that Savoy could complete his argument on Wednesday afternoon.

Some 35 other claims cases, involving several million dollars, hinge on the court decision in the

In his appearance before the court, Savoy was ashen-faced and coughed frequently.

The nine justices, aware of his condition, limited their questioning to one or two perfunctory inquiries. The court marshal had a trained nurse waiting at the rear of the chamber.

His office reported Savoy "just made it out of the court," rushed home and went to bed.

E. S. Methodist Pageant Tomorrow

NATIVITY PAGEANT, "The Star Still Shines," with Mrs. Philip Hardaker as Mary, will be presented tomorrow in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m.

The pageant combines with the classic language of the scripture, the traditional carols and pantomime to portray the birth of the Savior. The cast contains 37 members.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hornibrook, directors of music, have prepared several choral groups of the church for participation in the pageant.

Committees numbering more than 40 people have been cooperating in the preparation of the stage and the costumes. The pageant is in its 15th year of continuous presentation.

In the 11 a. m. service the carol girls and the chancel choir will have special anthems and the other children's choirs will participate in the responses of the service.

Pastor, Rev. Harold C. Eaton will preach on the theme, "The Fulness of Time."

Welcome quartet tomorrow morning will be Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Frantz and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Treible. The kindergarten during morning worship this week will be staffed by Mrs. Robert Ace, Mrs. Thomas Carmella and Miss Leila Macklin. The flowers for the day are being presented by Mrs. Howard Cramer and Miss Marguerite Cramer in memory of Howard Cramer; and by Mrs. Charles Fisher in loving memory of Margaret Weston Casey.

Because of the preparation for the pageant, there will be no Youth Fellowship meeting.

Marius L. Bressoud

Former Marine To Speak At Church

ANNUAL ADVENT Corporate Communion for the men and boys of Christ Episcopal Church, Stroudsburg, will be celebrated tomorrow at 8 a.m. by Rev. Charles A. Park, rector, assisted by the Rev. Thomas Shoesmith, the former rector of the parish.

The Stroudsburg Methodist Church will commemorate the day with special music and a sermon on "The Living Word" by Rev. Roger C. Stimson. The Senior and Youth choirs will sing under the direction of Mrs. Harold Treible. Mrs. William Metzgar will play special Christmas organ music.

The church-time nursery will be conducted by Mrs. William Savitz and Mrs. Caroll Doll, Jr. The Alter Flowers will be given by the Philathea Class in memory of departed members.

At the Vesper Service the Community Chorus will present a Christmas Musical under the direction of Mrs. Harold Treible. Miss Ann Meredith will accompany the chorus on the piano. Mrs. Treible will play the organ, and Rev. Stimson will conduct the worship service.

Communion To Be Administered

CRAIGS MEADOWS—Holy Communion will be administered during the 7:30 p.m. vesper service Tomorrow at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Smithfield.

Pastor William Wunder will preach the sermon and also officiate at the communion. All members of St. Paul's are urged to receive the Advent Communion. Sunday School at 10 a. m.

Leader Endorses Job Training

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7 (AP)—Gov. Leader today endorsed a plan to give on-the-job training to state employes during the next two years.

"The training programs are necessary to meet shortages of trained workers and also to give state employes the opportunity to learn new skills and earn promotions," the governor said.

Rev. Blatt To Direct Sermon

ZION EVANGELICAL AND Reformed Church will celebrate the Second Sunday in Advent tomorrow.

Church School, under the direction of Edgar Hall, general superintendent, and Clinton Warner, associate superintendent, will begin at 9:45 a. m.

The subject of the minister's message at the 11 a. m. service will be "Christ's Transforming Power."

The combined junior and youth choirs will sing, as well as the senior choir. Both choirs are under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Dunn. Mrs. Lucy Quig, church organist, will be at the console.

Ushers

Ushers at the service will be Hugh Altemose, Harry Hoffman, Henry Koehler and Levi Marsh. Scott Horn will serve as acolyte.

The flowers in the alter vases will be furnished by the Hibschman Bible Class in memory of departed members.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bonser will be host and hostess for the service and Mrs. Dorothy Phillips will be in charge of the nursery for pre-school age children beginning at 10:45 a. m.

The regular monthly meeting of the consistory of the church will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m.

Paul Pegors

Missionary To Speak At Baptist Church

CONGREGATION of the First Baptist Church, East Stroudsburg will both welcome and bid farewell to its newest missionary in a special service tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Pegors of Minneapolis, Minn. and their three children will be sailing for East Pakistan this month. As missionaries under the Conservative Baptist Foreign Missionary Society they will receive a substantial portion of their support from the Baptist Church.

Growing Number

The Pegors will supplement a growing number of missionary families presently laboring among the Moslem People in East and West Pakistan.

The inclusion of this family in the missionary service of the church and school will increase the number of specific foreign services maintained by the church, including the full support of a missionary to Bolivia and the major, but not exclusive, Sunday School Leper Mission Projects which expended gifts total $1,282.12 this year.

Protection To Be Key Of Sermon

MAN'S GOD-given protection and power will be brought out at Christian Science services tomorrow by the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God the Preserver of Man."

Keynoting the lesson-sermon is the Golden Text from Ephesian (2:8): "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (215:12): "Whatever is governed by God, is never for an instant deprived of the light and might of intelligence and Life."

Passages

Scriptural passages will include the following from Psalms (16:5, 6, 8): "The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou maintainest my lot. The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage . . . I have set the Lord always before me; because he is at my right hand, I shall not be moved."

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the services at 11 a.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, corner of 8th and Monroe St., Stroudsburg, Pa.

Rev. Hays To Bring Message

HENRYVILLE — Rev. Clifford E. Hays will bring the message at the regular worship service at Pocono Union Church tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

His sermon is entitled "The Poor." The church choir will present the anthems.

On Sunday, Dec. 23, at 7:30 p.m., Rev. Hays will conduct a candlelight service in the church. The public is invited to attend.

The regular Christmas program presented by the children of the Sunday School will be given on Friday, Dec. 21, at 7:30 a.m. Names will be drawn tomorrow for the exchange of gifts. All children are urged to be present.

Mrs. Miller To Speak

MRS. INGER Miller, a native of Copenhagen, Denmark, will address the Lutheran Youth of Grace Church, East Stroudsburg, at 6:45 P. M. tomorrow in the chapel. Douglas Metzger, president, will be in charge of the devotional period. All teen-agers of the parish are cordially invited to attend.

Newman Club Plans Party

REGULAR WEEKLY meeting of the Newman Club was held last Tuesday in St. Matthew's auditorium. William Gibbons was appointed External Affairs Department chairman.

Maureen Flynn, chairman of the Christmas party committee, reported on her group's progress. The party will be held for the residents of the Monroe County Home. Cars will leave from the college at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday.

Study

Discussion groups studied and answered questions which had been submitted by club members.

Club members were reminded that tomorrow is the feast of the Immaculate Conception and a holy day of obligation.

Following the business meeting, Rev. John Esseff distributed leaflets and explained the significance of the Advent wreath.

Sunday School Lesson

Scripture—Romans 8
By Newman Campbell

I FEAR that this lesson is going to be a somewhat difficult one to interpret to young children. The older ones will gain much in studying Paul's words to the Romans and applying his teachings to their own personal lives.

Dr. Wilbur Smith, editor of the Sunday School Notes suggests that the teacher might tell of an experience of his, when he was taken by a friend to visit a man of wealth who lived in a house that had not been painted or repaired for years; whose garden had not been tended, fruit trees were uncared for, fine furniture was unused, beautiful books had been put away and never read, and the man himself, past 80 years of age, was living frugally though his wealth totalled $2 million!

He had been liberal in giving to the Christian cause, but how much more good would he have done if he had made his home a comfortable place for himself to live in, and a hospitable meeting place for the people of the church and for visiting missionaries, preachers and Christian people, generally, who needed such hospitality.

Wealth

With all that wealth how much good he could have done with it, if he had helped the poor and unfortunate. And how much happier he would have been if he had let the Spirit of Christ of which Paul writes, guide him!

We all know that from early childhood through our entire lives we are fighting divers temptations. When we are young we are trained in ethical conduct by our parents. For most of us the pattern of our lives, whether for good or evil, is set by our training in the home and by the examples of parents.

Even so, we may, and often are tempted to do wrong—not to commit crimes possibly, but to be selfish, inconsiderate of others, quarrelsome, etc.

How do we overcome these urges? God always helps us if we pray to Him or to His Son, Jesus. The example set by Christ when He was on earth will help us. Just think, "What would Jesus do?" When we are about to utter a falsehood, say something cruel about another, pick a quarrel, or do any one of the unkind things that we all do occasionally, and we will not give way to these temptations.

Paul wrote to the Romans that, "There is no condemnation" to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

True sons of God are led by the Holy Spirit. You will remember that this Spirit led Christ into the wilderness; this same Spirit led Andrew to bring his brother Simon to Jesus. If we are led by this same Holy Spirit, we too many became true sons of the Father, God, and temptations will not be allowed to make us fall into sin.

"Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities; for we know not what we should pray for as we ought; but the Spirit itself maketh intercessions for us with groanings which cannot be uttered." This Spirit is one of the Trinity—God the Father, Christ His Son, and the Holy Spirit.

"And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to His purpose."

When tragedy strikes a family, this may be difficult to believe, but faith in the goodness of God and His help in time of trouble, can still triumph over disaster. Paul writes, "If God be for us, who can be against us?"

"Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril or sword?"

WHEN I GROW UP . . .

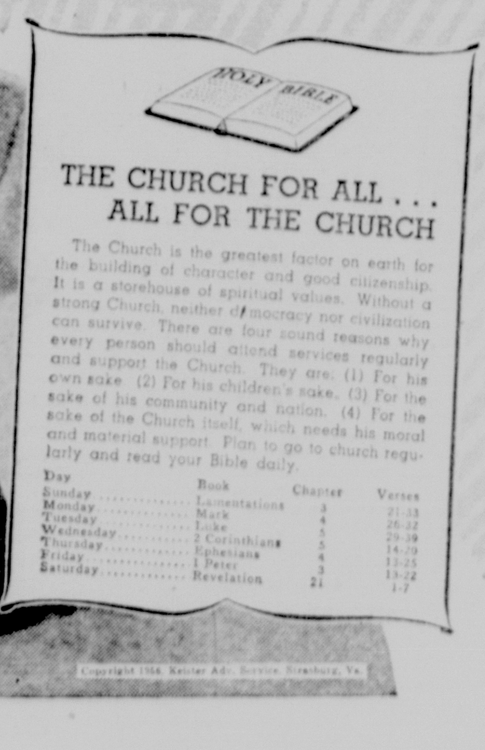

Magical words these, "when I grow up"—full of promise, replete with confidence. What youngster hasn't uttered them?

This lad is no different. He looks into the future that will be his when he grows up, and the world is his oyster, intact with pearls.

This month he wants to be a flier. Next month he'll want to be an engineer, spanning bridges across great rivers and wide chasms. The month after that he'll see himself as a surgeon, scalpel poised between skilled fingers. And the month after that—who knows?

For youth is ever changing, ever restless. That's why it is so important that youth's naturally impulsive nature be held fast by an anchor that is good, firm and permanent. They need a faith that will sustain them whether they become doctors, fliers, or engineers. The Church provides this faith, this anchor.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ronson's New Plant Advances Long-Range Progress Policy

Transfer of Ronson Corp. of Pennsylvania operations from three scattered facory sites in East Stroudsburg to a spanking new plant in Delaware Water Gap is a mighty important step in maintaining Ronson's role as the world's leading cigarette lighter manufacturer.

Ronson has managed to keep its product at the top of the heap in spite of increased competition at home and vicious price-cutting from abroad.

This has been possible only because of the superior quality of its lighters, the fact that its engineers have continued to design new models and new styles that have constantly been pace-setters in their field, and because of Ronson's sales department being alert to exploit the many advantages offered by the locally made lighters.

Ronson has faced a heavy handicap in striving to hold down its operating costs due to the far-flung nature of its holdings in East Stroudsburg. It not only has three factories in which it produces its lighters, but also has the extra burden of maintaining three warehouses at scattered locations.

Low-cost efficiency, so necessary in meeting today's stiff competition, is just not possible under such a set-up.

All of this will be changed when Ronson begins work in its new Water Gap plant next month. Lighter production will all be in one central area, instead of three, with warehouses for storage of raw materials and finished products in the same building.

The new plant is large enough for future as well as present expansion, a factor which assures this community a major industry for many years to come with prospects good for further growth.

Ronson's 850 employes are numbered among the region's most substantial citizens. The vast majority of them are skilled or professional workers.

By offering working conditions at Water Gap that are greatly improved over the old plants, Ronson can continue to attract the best in skilled labor as new employes are added to the present force.

In planning the new building, every consideration was given to the men and the women who plan and produce the world-famous Ronson lighters. This is in line with Ronson's theory that contented workers put out quality goods at a cost which allows the company to compete in the world markets at a reasonable profit.

Such an attitude, we venture to guess, augurs well for the future of worker-management relations at Ronson.

A stranger is impressed by the fact that here is an organization run by youthful executives—men with the modern approach to today's industrial problems, men with the imagination and know-how to press straight forward.

They are men with courage and faith in the future of this region, as exemplified by their decision to build a million-dollar factory in an area that was hit by the 1955 flood.

Perhaps these qualities spell the basic reason for Ronson being able to progress in the face of strong competition.

The prestige that accrues to this community through Ronson's decision to contrate all its lighter production here cannot be measured in dollars and cents. But we can be sure that letting the world know that Delaware Water Gap is the home of Ronson lighters will have tremendous value in furthering our interests, both industrially and resort-wise.

Ronson's name stands out throughout the world. Surveys show that a Ronson lighter ranks second behind a Coke bottle in recognition tests. The name Delaware Water Gap is also world-famous, having been a tourist attraction for many years. Ronson, by choosing the Gap as its future home, has brought two big names together in a way that promises great things for both.

We, meaning everyone in the Pocono Mountains, welcome Ronson's decision to build its permanent home in our midst rather than accept offers that it undoubtedly received from other localities. Prosperity for the company and its employes and every success that is possible for the new plant are our humble wishes.

Beginner's Luck At Fishing Off Shores Of Bahamas

When a woman, whose knowledge of fishing extends to packaged flounders in the freezer and no further, gets a chance to accompany a party of top-drawer anglers over some of the best fishing grounds in the world, it's enough to cause strong fishermen back home to bust out crying.

I was that woman the other day on Andros Island, 15 minutes by plane from Nassau, Bahamas. So eager was this party to be off with their spinning reels, stringers, strainers and whatever, so contagious their enthusiasm, I could see it was no time to admit that fish haunts in Fresh Creek held no fascination for the traitor in their midst.

That our boat was in charge of a renowned yachtsman and angler did little to increase my confidence about keeping secret the fact that I couldn't look live bait in the eye. As the native guide knitted one, purled two, affixing morsels of conch and crab to my ghastly hook, our skipper patiently explained the simple art of casting this revolting object toward the prey—the wily bonefish. My ability to cast improved along with the others' ability to dodge the flailing pole.

Bonefish were soon sighted some yards distant through the crystalline waters. Folks, wily is hardly descriptive of these habitants of the briny. They were insufferable snobs. Pretended they didn't even notice us, even when I fell out—that is, when the boat tipped over.

On Andros, natives sing "there's hard times a-comin'." The bonefish would have been well-advised to join this chorus. We came to fish and were not to be gainsaid, however impertinently treated by our prey. Came the moment of a precise cast, all conversation and breathing ceased. The sea-going eight-pounder was supposed to accept the bait. But none of them took the challenge.

Fish everywhere, and none hungry! Great glumness descended on all but me, who was madly practising the cast in all directions, hoping to avoid hooking one of these monsters. My worst fright was upon casting into a coral reef 100 feet away—whew! For a moment I was afraid I had got a fish. While the guides labored to untangle my line, I recovered my senses enough to collect pretty shells for the children's goldfish bowl back home. Made a nice break in the monotony.

Ah yes, one member of our party eventually boated six beauties. You can guess who that was, can you not? Beginner's luck, they said. Fishing, I learned, is fantastic fun once you overcome a tendency to view the sport from the standpoint of the bait.

Wife, Daughter Influenced Ceylon Ambassador's Vote

Washington, Dec. 7—Two women were chiefly responsible for neutralist Ceylon voting for the American resolution demanding that the Kremlin's lackey government in Hungary permit a UN mission to conduct a first-hand study of conditions there.

These influential persuaders were the wife and daughter of Ceylon's Ambassador R.S.S. Gunewardene.

Also playing a decisive role in his far-reaching decision was Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.), leader of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a member of the U. S. delegation to the UN.

Mms. Gunewardene and her daughter exerted themselves in behalf of the historic U. S. resolution independent of Senator Humphrey. At the time all others were unaware they were jointly endeavoring to prevail on the Ceylon diplomat to abandon his persistent neutralist stand and vote for the American proposal. But their unknowing united efforts carried the day.

Following are the highlights of this unsual backstage episode:

At the height of the tense Assembly battle over the U. S. resolution, Humphrey went to Gunewardene and made a personal plea for his support. The two men have been warm friends since the Minnesota Senator effectively aided Ceylon on a serious trade problem involving rubber, its main export commodity.

"I am very distressed by your apparent opposition to taking this measure regarding Hungary," said Humphrey. "I thought you were a real friend of mine and my country."

"Oh, I am, I can assure you," said Gunewardene. "My country and I have not forgotten and will always be grateful for your invaluable help when we needed it."

"Then why is it that you are going to vote against my country's resolution to send UN observers to Hungary?" asked Humphrey. "Is that really your position; is it the policy of your country to do a thing like that?"

"Yes, that has been our policy," admitted Gunewardene.

"I can't understand it," exclaimed Humphrey. "I am shocked and astonished. How can you and your country take such a position? You have always told me that you stood for freedom and self-determination by all people; that you are opposed to aggression wherever it occurs. Now you say that you're not going to do a thing to back up these beliefs."

The Ceylonese diplomat listened in brooding silence.

"Can it be," continued Humphrey, "that what is really at the bottom of your viewpoint is hatred of the British; that this is what motivates your policies and not the ideals you have so ardently expressed. Here are Hungarian men, women and children fighting and dying for the things you told me you stood for. Certainly the least we can do is help them in this very small way through this UN resolution.

"But what happens? You tell me it is the policy of your country to oppose this measure. I find that extremely difficult to believe. Knowing you, I am sure that you are a true friend of freedom and democracy, and that you do not condone the outrages that Russia is committing in Hungary any more than I do."

"You are right, Senator," declared Gunewardene. "I do not condone that for one moment, and neither does my country. Those are terrible things being done to the Hungarian people."

"Then the only thing for you to do is to vote for our resolution," pointed out Humphrey.

"Senator, you talk just like my wife and daughter," replied Gunewardene solemnly. "When we discussed the Hungarian tragedy at dinner, they spoke just as you do. And I must say, they were very persuasive, just as you are."

"Then you will reconsider and vote for our resolution?" pressed Humphrey.

"I will give that careful thought," promised Gunewardene.

"And while you are doing that," grinned Humphrey, "keep in mind that you can't vote against your wife and daughter, and your best friend in the U. S. Senate."

"It will be extremely difficult, I can assure you," laughed Gunewardene.

Hours later, when the roll was called, the Ceylonese Ambassador made history by reversing his country's long-held neutralist stand and voting for the U. S. resolution condemning Soviet despotism in Hungary.

Note: Senator William Knowland (R., Calif.), another member of the UN delegation, has the backing of all his colleagues on his criticism of India's Ambassador Krishna Menon. Knowland sharply assailed Menon for his open pro-Soviet bias and zeal. Menon complained about this blast, but it had the approval of the entire U. S. delegation.

George Sokolsky Says

We Entrust Intellectual Development Of Our Children To Underpaid Teachers

When taxes consume a large part of everybody's income and steadily, certain elements in the community find themselves earning less and less in the purchasing power of their take-home pay. Some industrial contracts include escalator clauses which protect the purchasing power of the wage; such escalator "cost-of-living" clauses rarely appear in the salary scales of professionals.

However, those who have fixed incomes of any form, find that the value of their income is constantly being reduced. The same is true of white-collar workers, as they are called, who live on fixed salaries, sometimes determined by statutes which limit pay not by a measure of the cost of living for the particular type of employe but by the will of a legislative body.

With regard to teachers, I have received many letters objecting to any arithmetic which indicates that a teacher is paid for 52 weeks work. Some say that a teacher works only 40 weeks a year but is paid for 52 weeks.

It is to be hoped that the critics are wrong. A teacher, whether in the kindergarten or a university, not only teaches but has to learn. A teacher who stops learning has nothing to teach; he or she becomes empty-headed and useless. It must therefore be assumed that a teacher's salary also includes continuing-learning time.

Let me cite an example: a teacher of physics, during the past decade, has had to do a lot of studying on the subject of atomic fission so that he knows what he is talking about in the classroom and if the students ask questions. This requires an enormous amount of technical reading which cannot be done as one watches a movie show. It is necessarily slow and laborious.

1957 is called the Geophysical Year. Many important scientific developments are being brought into the news about which students in high schools and colleges ought to know more than is casually reported in the press.

A professor of physics, geology, geophysics, astrophysics, astronomy, etc., has needed to prepare himself for this special year. He might have used a Summer or a sabbatical year to travel to some other country or to serve on a team doing some special task, or attending lectures or seminars. Often there is no additional pay for the time put into intellectual tasks, and yet without special work, the teacher stagnates.

I have twice listened to President Theodore Hesburgh of Notre Dame speak about the need for increasing faculty salaries. It is not that learned men have become more mercenary in the present era than they used to be in another age, but that the cost of living, the cost of taxes, the cost of books and magazines, the cost of educating children — all these have gone up for the learned as well as for the man who is not learned.

As a matter of fact, the truck driver, who may have been a college football player or who may never have been to a college, may find that his wages and fringe benefits bring him more for his family than a professor who knows how to build an atomic reactor.

I have before me a table of salaries for university teachers in California who have had seven years of college education and hold a Ph. D. This could have cost the teacher's family more than $10,000, depending upon the colleges attended and the cost of living in those colleges. The annual salaries for those seven-year trained Ph. D's, ranging from instructor to professor, run from a low of $4512 a year to a high of $9,281 a year before taxes. Deduct taxes and the pay is still less.

A bit player in Hollywood would reject such a salary; a strip-teaser would laugh if offered such pay. But we entrust the intellectual development of our next generations to men who have to dress like gentlemen and who have to maintain a position in the community but whom we pay so little that they must be concerned about how to make ends meet.

When the intellectual leaders of the community are driven down to the proletariat, the danger is that their conscious or subconscious worries and dissatisfactions are bound to be passed on to the students. And that needs to be thought out.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, has discouraged from the Pentagon the exchange of Christmas cards between military and civilians. Is this a mobilization against jingle writers and pictures of sleighs, camels and snow covered red barns? There are lots of things to snarl up routines at the Pentagon, but we don't think Yuletide greetings are among them. But you never can be sure about Army red tape. The business of getting off a Christmas card could conceivably run into an operation along the following lines.

1. A Pentagon officer sees holly in a window and decides Christmas must be near. He write a letter to another chief asking verification. The letter is filed and forgotten.

2. He decides to go ahead and buy some cards, but places the matter of securing samples in the hands of a secretary. The secretary is suddenly transferred to Hawaii.

3. He sends out an assistant secretary to find out what happened. This one winds up in Korea.

4. The officer decided to choose his own cards but wants assurance of his authority. He writes a letter to a superior asking if it is okay for him to take time out to select Christmas cards. He gets a reply reading, "Your inquiry regarding wedding anniversary greetings is being processed."

5. He dictates another letter explaining his inquiry was about Yuletide, not wedding cards. The reply gets lost in NATO but ultimately comes through saying, "In re Inquiry B-6578 relative to Subject WA 07445 the entire matter of candles for Christmas Trees is in the hands of the Secretary of Defense."

6. He decides to buy his own cards, anyhow, even if it means a courts-martial. He decides to address them in his office but can't locate the officer as it has been renumbered during his lunch hour. He finally finds the office but can't find his pen and ink.

7. He hears his pen and ink were transferred to an office four flights up through a clerical error.

8. He communicates with this office and ask if's his pen and ink are there? A reply comes through informing him that such an inquiry must be sent through different channels.

9. He concludes that sending a Christmas card is too great a project involving top secrets and drops the matter.

County Residents Donate $100 For Hungary

Red Cross To Speed Up Drive

PEOPLE OF Monroe County want to give tangible expression to the sympathy and admiration they feel for the people of Hungary, Charles Bensinger, chairman of the Monroe County Chapter of the Red Cross, pointed out at the meeting of the board of directors held last night.

Without special appeal or solicitation, $100 in contributions have already been turned in to local Red Cross headquarters, and forwarded to National Red Cross for the five million dollar quota necessary to aid the Hungarian refugees, it was reported.

Bulk of the meeting last night was devoted to the mechanics of the local campaign for Hungarian relief. The county quota is $905.

Pointing to the tremendous emotional appeal of the drive, Bensinger was optimistic about reaching the quota in short order. The board decided against a personal solicitation campaign, since they thought voluntary contributions should pour in when residents knew just how to do it.

Contributions may be sent directly to Red Cross headquarters, Stroudsburg, as the first contributions have been. In addition, it was decided to place Red Cross containers at stategic locations in which contributions could be dropped.

Meeting

Bensinger, with J. L. Cohen, Mrs. Clifford Heller, and Chester Miller, will meet to discuss ways of publicizing the campaign, which will be devoted to the care of more than 100,000 refugees from Communist terror in Hungary.

Meanwhile local Red Cross activities continued unabated according to the reports. The two visits of the Bloodmobile during November has brought the county within sight of its quota for the first six months of the Blood Donor year, Roy Mikels reported.

The home service activities during the month included 14 cases, 12 of which involved active service men or their families, and 45 requests. On their behalf 11 telegrams were sent and 14 long distance calls, and there were 93 office interviews, Mrs. Clifford Heller reported.

Echoes of the Hungarian situation also came in the home service report where local residents are seeking Red Cross aid in trying to learn what has happened to relatives in Hungary.

The volunteers, too, have been busy with a total of 94 volunteers giving 916 hours of service during the month. Mrs. Walter Dreher, vice chairman of volunteer services, gave detailed reports of the hours given by Gray Ladies, canteen, motor corps, nurses aides, staff aides, registered nurses, doctors and recruitment personnel for the blood bank visits and the hospital during November.

4,993 Baptized Lutherans In County

A RECENT SURVEY of Monroe County's 16 Lutheran parishes revealed the denomination had 4,993 baptized members in the county at the end of 1955.

The study also showed there was a composite confirmed membership of 3,537, and a total communing membership of 2,430.

"More than half of the total communing membership of the county is affiliated with the two congregations of the twin boroughs," according to Rev. William F. Wunder, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, who conducted the survey.

Grace Church's communing membership was reportedly 682, while St. John's Church, Stroudsburg, listed its at 803.

Other Lutheran congregations and pastors follow: Rev. Herbert F. Gernert Jr., Zion, Middle Smithfield and St. Mark's, Minisink Hills; Rev. John Robinholt, St. Matthew's, Kunkletown, St. John's, Effort and Salem, Gilbert; Dr. Edward T. Horn, St. Mark's, Appenzell, St. John's, Scotrun and St. Paul's, Tannersville.

The Hamilton charge was until recently served by Rev. John Bergstresser, who was called to Holy Trinity Church, Northampton. It is composed of St. Paul's, Kresgeville; Mt. Eaton, Saylorsburg, Christ (Hamilton), Sciota, St. John's, Bartonsville and Zion, Brodheadsville.

In addition to serving as pastor of Grace Church, Pastor Wunder also serves at St. Paul's Church, Craigs Meadows.

Former Local Resident Dies In Hazleton

E. B. (PETE) Stegner, 75 of Hartland Park, Hazleton, former resident of Stroudsburg, died Thursday at 11 a.m. in St. Joseph's Hospital there.

A machinist by trade, he learned his profession in the Erie Car Shops in Stroudsburg and had more recently been employed by PP and L. He retired 10 years ago.

Mr. Stegner was a member of Emmanuel's Reformed Church in Hazleton; Berwick Masonic Lodge and the Lehigh Consistory. During his residence in Stroudsburg he played for the baseball team in this area.

Mrs. Ridgeway Testifies

DEPUTY Prothonotary Florence Ridgeway testified in Huntington County court this week.

Mrs. Ridgeway was subpoenaed to appear in the same case as that in which Prothonotary N. Henry Fenner testified on Tuesday. She took with her records and books pertaining to the case.

Commitment

The case involved a juvenile commitment.

Mrs. Ridgeway was subpoenaed because Fenner was not in the county office at the time the youth's case was handled and filed by local authorities.

City Officials Issue Warning In Clinton

CLINTON, Tenn., Dec. 7 (AP) — City and county officials laid down a stern warning today against any effort to disrupt reopening of Clinton High School Monday morning on a continued integration basis.

Police Chief Francis Moore, who is a member of the Anderson County School Board, told the teachers he would see that no loiterers prowl around the school grounds or interfere with orderly resumption of classes.

His 13-man police force will be available for duty, along with any outside help he may need, Moore said. At present, he told newsmen, he does not anticipate any difficulty.

Representative

A representative of U.S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford attended a joint session today between the school board, teachers and law-enforcement officers.

Sixteen white men and women, arrested on criminal contempt charges, will face U.S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor at Knoxville Monday morning, about the time school reopens here.

The group was rounded up Wednesday and Thursday on warrants charging them with interfering with orderly integration of the school in violation of Taylor's injunction of last September.

R. G. Crossno, school board chairman, said he would maintain close contact with the Federal Bureau of Investigation for several days.

He said a representative of the board will address high school students Monday morning to explain the federal court injunction against trouble-making.

Officials said some white students had been wearing "keep our white schools white" buttons in recent days, but they expect such buttons to disappear. Spokesmen said such display might be interpreted as violating the injunction.

A relative quiet appeared to have settled over this east Tennessee town of 4,000 for the weekend period.

Servicemen Benefit By Hospital Rule

WIVES and children of uniformed servicemen living in Northeastern Pennsylvania may use civilian hospitals at government expense under a program to be administered by Hospital Service Association of Northeastern Pennsylvania, George T. Bell, executive vice president, announced yesterday.

Bell said the Blue Cross Commission, national coordinating agency of Blue Cross Plans, had recently signed a contract with the Department of Defense, activating Public Law 569, known as the "Dependent Medical Care Program," which was passed by the 84th Congress.

Contract

It was pointed out by Bell that the commission had signed the contract on behalf of the various Blue Cross Plans who will handle the program, and that Hospital Service Association has signed a subcontract with the commission to administer the program throughout the same 13 northeastern Pennsylvania counties which it customarily serves.

The new law became effective yesterday and allows dependents care in civilian hospitals at government expense. In the past, the Federal Government has provided medical care in military facilities when available.

Bethlehem Council Adopts Tax

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP) — An earned income tax effective Jan. 7 was adopted on final reading today by the Bethlehem city council.

The levy is computed on the basis of one percent of gross earnings and one per cent of net profits in the case of unincorporated businesses and professions.

Revenues

The tax applies to salaries, wages, commissions and all other revenues. Both residents of Bethlehem and non-residents are covered.

The Bethlehem program is patterned after the federal income tax system with fines of six per cent on the annual interest rate and a penalty of one half per cent on the unpaid balance of the tax owed each month.

Payroll deductions are to be made by employers and businessmen and professionals not covered by the deductions are required to file earning declarations.

Farmers Urged To Cast Farm Ballots

ALL "ELIGIBLE" farmers should be sure to cast their ballots in the corn referendum to be held Tuesday throughout the commercial corn area, according to David H. Griffith, chairman of the Monroe County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Voting places in Monroe County are Chestnuthill High School, for the following townships: Chestnuthill, Polk, Eldred and Ross.

The other voting place will be the County ASC Office, located in the Court House, for the following townships: Hamilton, Tobyhanna, Tunkhannock, Coolbaugh, Jackson, Pocono, Price, Paradise, Barrett, Smithfield, Stroud and Middle Smithfield. The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Group

"Eligible farmers," according to the chairman, includes each person in the commercial corn area who in 1956 was engaged in the production of corn and entitled to share in the proceeds of the crop as owner, tenant, or sharecropper.

However, a landlord with a standing rent, cash rent, or fixed rent tenant, is not eligible to cast a ballot in the corn referendum. Where a group of several persons such as husband, wife, and children participates in the production of corn, under the same lease or cropping agreement, only the persons who signed or entered into the lease or agreement are eligible to vote.

Low Bid For Pike Project

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7 (AP)—The state Highways Department today awarded highway construction and improvement contracts in these counties:

Bradford—Widen 7.92 miles of Route 187 between Rome and Wysox, Irving N. Loomis and Sons, Montrose, $713,958.

Luzerne - Lackawanna — Construct a bridge over Choke Creek; Wagner Construction Co., Kingston, $63,990.

Same Time

At the same time the department received an unofficial low bid on this highway project:

Pike — Construct a metal pipe arch bridge over Walkers Lake Creek two miles north of Twin Lakes; Keystone Pavement and Construction Co., Lake Ariel, $31,619.

Bangor Man Claims Loss

BANGOR—An aging man whose property was ordered "cleaned up" by borough council on complaints filed by his neighbors three months ago, this week claimed that cleanup men took away "a little black suitcase."

George M. Nagle, 65, says that the suitcase contained, among other things: $2,700 in U. S. Savings Bonds and "also $12 cash silver money." Nagle also said the suitcase had "my U. S. Army Service Record, my deed to my property and many other sentimental papers of value."

Nagle first reported the loss of the bonds to Bangor police chief Glenwood T. Lewis on Oct. 24. At that time, according to Lewis, he said nothing about a suitcase, money or other items and listed the amount of bonds at only $2,000.

Police began an investigation, Lewis said; found nothing. Lewis said the police assumption was that the bonds (and the suitcase) may have been picked up and taken to the borough dump, then left there.

If this were true, the items could have been picked up my any one of a number of persons who have what are known as "scavenger's licenses" to rummage through the borough dump. These licenses are issued on a yearly basis, officials said. Persons are allowed to keep what they find, if they are licensed.

Letter

In a letter to The Daily Record, Nagle says that the suitcase disappeared while he was away for four days in Harrisburg.

The issue is the latest ramification in a running dispute between Nagle and (1) his neighbors and (2) borough council which has spanned much of the past seven years.

Council heard the latest in a series of complaints from persons living in the 717 S. High St. (Nagle's home address) area at its September meeting. At that meeting, council voted to hire a contractor to remove an undesirable condition at Nagle's home on complaint of neighbors. The contractor (from out of the borough) was hired.

At the latest council meeting, a committee reported that the "situation" had still not been cleared (or cleaned) up, officials said.

Council then began puzzling over its own dilemma in the case.

So far, council members figured out, the borough has spent $3,000 or more in trying to clean the issue up.

Hawaiian Girl Confers With Officials

JOCELYN PILAPIL, the 18-year-old Hilo, Hawaii college girl who fled from her country to Mountainhome in the hope of marrying her Marine Corps fiancee, yesterday conferred again with Federal Probation Officer William E. C. Speare in Scranton.

With Miss Pilapil at the conference were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shaller, Mountainhome. It is their nephew, Pfc. Roger Rake, that the girl intends to marry next week if Rake arrives home from Hawaii on schedule.

No Attempt

Probation officials, meanwhile, said that so far as is presently known, there has been no attempt to deport the girl and that they are carrying out their investigation for information purposes at the moment.

The Shallers, yesterday, began an effort to contact probation officials in Hawaii. Mrs. Shaller told reporters that their one concern is that "all this publicity won't spoil the chance these two young people have to work things out with each other".

45 Hungarians Stay 'Down Under'

MELBOURNE, Australia, Saturday, Dec. 8 (AP)—Forty-five Hungarians who came to Australia for the Olympic games chose freedom and stayed here today when their teammates headed for home. More may defect en route to Budapest.

Of the 175 athletes, coaches and managers from Hungary, only 130 are going back. The others elected to seek political asylum rather than return to their revolt-torn homeland under armed Soviet domination.

Youth Ruled Offender

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—John McNally, 16-year-old financial messenger accused of stabbing a Pennsylvania youth during a tour of Wall Street last Oct. 16, was adjudged a youthful offender today.

General Sessions Judge Edward J. McCullen set sentencing for April 26. The youthful offender treatment spares McNally a criminal record.

The Bronx messenger was accused of stabbing Richard J. Wynd of Tunkhannock, Pa., in the abdomen after Wynd took issue with remarks McNally made to girls in a touring party. Wynd was one of 76 high school students visiting the financial district.

Wilkes-Barre Man Convicted

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7 (AP) — A Wilkes-Barre man was convicted today by a U. S. District Court jury of burglaries at post offices in Elwyn and Sellersville, Pa.

The panel of five men and seven women deliberated four hours before returning guilty verdicts on four charges against Leonard Novak, 38, one of four men who participated in the crimes.

Railroads Extend Rates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The nation's railroads today extended until June 30 reduced furlough fares for military personnel traveling in uniform at their own expense. The reduction had been scheduled to end Jan. 31.

The extension was announced by Earl B. Padrick, chairman of the Interterritorial Military Committee of the Assn. of American Railroads, which represents all railroads in the East, South and West.

Military personnel on furlough can obtain tax-exempt roundtrip fares at the rate of 2.025 cents a mile or less in coaches, including regular stopover and baggage privileges, Padrick said this is a saving of up to 1 cent a mile.

WHY RETURN?—Jackie Bourbonais is sending the folks back in Boston this message from sunny St. Petersburg—"come on down, the water's fine," Jackie hopes she won't have to leave Florida soon.

FOR GOOD WILL—Four touring Japanese airline stewardesses present a scroll to Edward McCormack, president of Boston's city council, during a stopover on their tour of the United States. While there, they appeared on several TV shows.

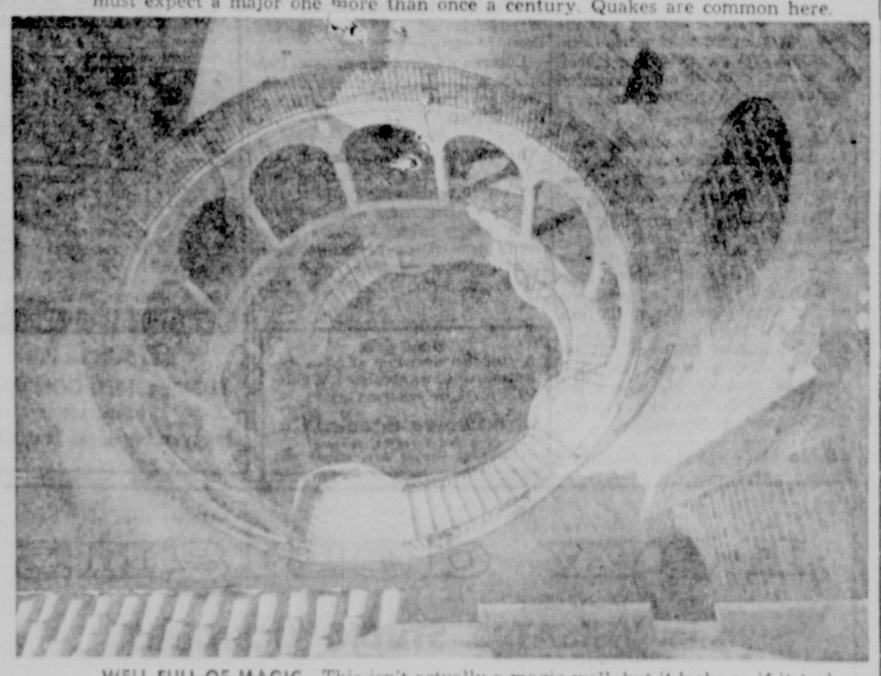

A FAMOUS BATHTUB—One of the most interesting archaeological finds ever made was this layout of Queen Eurydice's reception room with King Nestor's bathroom in foreground. This is bathtub in which, according to the Greek poet, Homer, Telemachus, son of Odysseus, was bathed. Site is near Pylos, Greece.

A DOOMED CITY?—This is a photo of Wellington, capital and seat of government of the dominion of New Zealand. It is a city marked for destruction. Geologists say it sits in the middle of New Zealand's "hottest" earthquake belt and must expect a major one more than once a century. Quakes are common here.

NEW LIFE FOR ANDREA DORIA SURVIVOR

WHEN THE STOCKHOLM drove her reinforced prow 30 feet into the starboard quarter of the Andrea Doria last July 25th, movie actress Ruth Roman and her 3½-year-old son, Richard, were among the ill-fated liner's passengers. After an agonizing separation they were reunited. Recently, when Ruth married Buddy Moss in Panama, she decided to go by ship so that she could help erase any bad memories that her son might still have. Richard didn't get off the ship when Bud and his mother went ashore to be married, but went through the Panama canal with his nurse. First and last photos in this layout are "clinching" evidence of real-life happy endings.

WELL FULL OF MAGIC—This isn't actually a magic well, but it looks as if it took a magician to plan and build this remarkable structure. It's the International Rotunda of the Mission inn at Riverside, Calif. It is an unusual interpretation of Spanish architecture. What a spot for a big dueling scene in an action movie.

NOT 'GAS MASKS'—New types of civilian protective masks (formerly gas masks) are demonstrated at chemical exposition in Cleveland. The child is wearing a mask that looks like Mickey Mouse and one at right is used especially in hospitals.

Three Members Of Ronson Corporation Bring 88 Years Of Experience To Water Gap Plant

AMONG THE 750 employes of Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania who will soon move into the new plant at Delaware Water Gap are three veterans with a total of 88 years of service with the company.

Joseph Reilly started with Ronson on Dec. 13, 1929 as a timekeeper in the main building in Newark. He later moved into the Accounting Department as function expanded, and later to the Production Control Department.

Eventually he became Senior Cost Estimator with the Engineering Department, and is at present a cost accountant in the Accounting Department in East Stroudsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Reilly and their daughter live at 128 Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg. He plays golf and enjoys reading. Reilly is 53 years old, and is a member of the local Industrial Management Club.

Reilly is a native of Newark, N. J., and lived there all his life until moving to East Stroudsburg in 1954.

Mathew Colello joined Ronson on Oct. 3, 1928 as a Sprayer in the Newark plant. In 1938 he was made Foreman of the Spray Room. He was made Supervisor of Inspection in 1941, and is at present General Supervisor of Inspection with the Quality Control Department here in East Stroudsburg.

Colello's wife and three children still live in Newark, and he makes his home at 31 Stemple St., East Stroudsburg, during the week.

He is 47 years old, was born in Castel Vetre, Italy, and became a naturalized citizen in 1918. He enjoys playing golf, and raising tropical fish and birds.

Manuel Deus has been with Ronson since April of 1923. He joined the operation in Newark as a Foot Press Operator. He was made Foreman of the Assembly Department in 1933, and Superintendent of the Center St. Plant (Newark) in 1950.

Since joining the operation in East Stroudsburg, Deus has been Superintendent of the Spruce St. Plant.

His 33 years with the organization makes him the oldest member of the Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania in terms of length of service.

Deus is married and has one son. He and his family live on Milford Road, East Stroudsburg. Born in Havana, Cuba, on Feb. 6, 1908, Deus came to this country in August of 1921, and is a naturalized citizen. His chief hobby is learning how to play golf, and he is a member of the local Industrial Management Club.

POS Of A To Celebrate Anniversary

PATRIOTIC ORDER Sons of America will celebrate the 109th anniversary of their founding which occurred Dec. 10, 1847 in Philadelphia at the then "Native American Hall" Ridge Ave. below Spring Garden St. Celebration will take place today.

At various periods of the day annual meetings of the Fraternity's Executive Committee, Trustee Board and Chalfont Home Administration Board will be held.

Several Programs to be finally considered during sessions are the last two of a series of Christmas parties for the Junior Department of the Order, Dec. 14 at Willow Grove Methodist Church, assisted by Washington Camp No. 73 of Willow Grove and the Montgomery County Association, and on Dec. 15 at the Philadelphia headquarters, assisted by the Philadelphia Past Presidents' Association.

Arrangements

Final arrangements will also be made for the annual Christmas party for the guests of the Order's Home for Aged which is scheduled for Dec. 18.

Special consideration and action is to be given to plans which have been presented by various committees for reorganization and development of subordinate units looking toward a State-wide membership advance within the next six months. The best for immediate use is to be chosen and issued to the Order in Pennsylvania.

The celebration will open with a tour to the grave of Dr. Reynell Coates, Founder of the Order, who is interred at the Friends S. W. Burial Grounds, Marshall and Powell Aves., Upper Darby. State vice president, H. Taylor Pugh of Trooper, Montgomery County, will preside there at 2:30 p.m. Frank S. Doerrman, National President of the P O S of A from Birdsboro, Pa. will address this open air meeting.

The night highlight will be the 109th anniversary banquet at State headquarters, 1317-19 N. Broad St. This is to be at 6:30 p.m. The address will be delivered by Hon. Walter D. Cougle, prominent counsellor at law of Trenton, N. J. State President John A. Arner of West Milton, Pa. will conduct this affair.

Viewing the Screens

"YOU'RE ON YOUR OWN," a new type of audience participation show, starring Steve Dunne as emcee, will premiere over CBS Television Saturday, Dec. 22, at 10:30 p. m. Participants' rewards will be based on their own resourcefulness—not on their knowledge of any particular subject. The answers to all questions will be found somewhere in the television studio—in a directory, telephone book, record album, etc., all of which are readily available to the contestant.

"Safety Is Our Business," a special program on the highway driving dangers which will become acute during the holiday season, will be broadcast on ch. 6 and 7 tonight from 7:15 to 7:30. The program will feature films on highway safety and panel discussion of traffic hazards.

The battle for the 8 p. m. spot is still on between Perry Como and Jackie Gleason, and tonight while Perry is offering such guests as Guy Lombardo, Spike Jones and the members of the Look magazine All American Football Team, Jackie will be seen in a full hour 'live' "Honeymooners" sketch, "Finder's Keepers," supported by his regular stars Art Carney, Audrey Meadows and Joyce Randolph. In addition, the June Taylor girls will be seen in a dance specialty. The Gleason show is on ch. 2 and 10, while the Como program can be seen on ch. 3 and 4.

Sports

College Football at 2:15 p. m. on ch. 3 and 4—Pittsburgh vs. Miami.

Kiwanis Club To Install New Officers

BANGOR — Installation of new officers of the Kiwanis Club will take place Thursday, Jan. 3. This was announced Thursday during the dinner meeting at the Colonial Hotel. Ladies Night also will be observed on that date.

Plans were reported completed for the inter-club meeting next Thursday. Professor Aurie N. Dunlap, of Lehigh University, will be the speaker, discussing the Suez situation and Far East. Members of the local Lions and Exchange Clubs will be guests. George I. Godshalk is the progrem chairman.

Report

William Zackey reported on the District 17 reorganization meeting which he and Dr. Anson Hamm, secretary, attended at Kmmaus last Saturday morning. He also thanked the Christmas lighting committee, comprised of Ernest Turtzo, chairman; James Drury, Thomas Naylor and Carl Messinger, for a job well done. All of the community decorations as sponsored by the club are up and operating, it was noted. The lights will remain on until after the holidays.

Zackey, vice-president, presided. Lt. Edward Knox offered the invocation. Turtzo was the song leader and Drury the pianist.

A film, "The Story of the Main Street Merchant," projected by Chester Garis, Bangor Area Joint High School student, contributed to the program.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Mixed vibrations. Don't let them confuse you. Advance purposefully toward your objectives. Curb inclinations to outbursts of temper, arguments. Maintain calm, poise.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Develop your latent talents; no one else can do it for you. You are a good organizer with a steady building capacity; put this trait to good use. In free time really relax, rest.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mercury in benefic aspect. Finish up whatever you can in true, individualistic manner. Don't delay where you know you are right. Make use of your dexterity and analytical mind.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Be wary of schemers, purveyors of get-rich-quick deals. Be sure that what you plan is both worthy and workable. Your sympathetic understanding helps the afflicted and infirm.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Your planetary aspects promise an interesting and stimulating day and should inspire your best endeavors. Difficult and unusual ventures are sponsored.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—You are very active mentally. Channel your efforts to best advantage under this day's fine rays. Promote success through energetic, discerning action. Circulate among friends and associates agreeably.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You've seen many examples of how people can do great things with little equipment or encouragement — often against tremendous obstacles. Look into your habits and tactics today.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Note Libra today. There is so much good you can do—even though you may think you are already going well—if you will try harder.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Don't waste one minute of this day or week-end or you will regret it. Of course, healthy recreation and needed rest are in order, but so are humanitarian obligations.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—You can do more now than you may think. Because of others' contention or irritability you may not believe it possible to mold the day, but just try. You will be happily surprised.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius—You, Capricorn and Pisces have unusually fine planetary configurations under which to go forward rapidly, constructively. Don't let foolishness dim your ambitions.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—With all your ingenuity and resourcefulness, start this day believing you can succeed, and back that faith with sturdy endeavor. Don't dawdle; don't think too much about pleasures.

YOU BORN TODAY: With your artistic and practical sense, you appreciate fine work, can plunge wholeheartedly into plain labor, too. You dislike superfluousness, like to work in a precise manner. If you develop your best traits, you will work consistently, play hard but also intelligently, and still find time to assist others. Don't speak too quickly, disregarding consequences; avoid unwise gambling.

Birthdate: Horace, Roman poet.

Religion Faces New Questions

By Paul Carlson

RELIGION has even won its place on the "Hit Parade!"

You can find scores of bobby soxers merrily whistling "I Believe," "The Man Upstairs," "Count Your Blessings," or "Open Up Your Heart." And all of these lilting tunes have been recent juke-box hits.

Billy Graham and Oral Roberts are packing thousands into auditoriums throughout America to hear their evangelistic messages.

Scores of religious books are being published and millions of them are being sold.

However, more than one church leader has asked the question: "Is the religious boom a spiritual bust?"

"Much of this apparent revival of religious interest seems to place the emphasis on using God for our own purposes of success, of health, of freedom from burdens and strains," the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherill, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, commented recently.

Dr. J. Richard Sneed, pastor of the First Methodist Chruch of Los Angeles, put it this way: "Businessmen are in the 'religious buying market;' they seek to recapture missing elements and they are wholly unapologetic for their intense quest for depth, purpose and assurance which will bring serenity into the midst of their hectic, turbulent lives."

The most distressing factor, in the minds of many religious leaders, is that the "faith" many people are seeking is centered in themselves and not in God. Moreover, the "faith" of which they speak has no corresponding moral responsibility.

"Religion without morality is no religion at all," commented Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, president of the National Council of Churches, recently.

Because of the seriousness of the problem, The Daily Record has asked two area clergymen to express their views on the subject:

REV. RICHARD ASELFORD, Church of the Good Shepherd, Milford: The emphasis in much that passes for religion today is not Christian as this term has been traditionally understood. It confuses because it oversimplifies. Religion, and what it means to be religious, is not susceptible of the reduction it has been made to undergo. Nor does it improve a situation to stand a matter on its head.

The idea that God is interested in the personal wellbeing of people is not what is wrong. The error that appears is that of getting our procedure the wrong way round; making the individual wellbeing of first importance, whereas individual wellbeing is more a by-product than a principal end.

This may be fairly easily shown by indicating the contrast between praying that God wil help us get what we want and praying that we may learn to do what He wants. The idea that God is to climb on our bandwagon or even to push it, puts Him in the position of being our servant instead of our being His servant.

That God sustains His servants is true. That He will supply all their needs is true also. But that God's servants are those who do His will seems to be almost altogether overlooked. Yet it is for the doing of His will that His servants pray their needs may be supplied. These needs arise from the necessities of the program in hand; namely, the establishment of His reign in the hearts and minds of men and women.

When some business man testifies that he prayed for guidance in regard to the purchase or sale of some stocks and bonds, or of a whole business, to form a judgment of the religious value of his experience we would need to know something of the motive prompting his profit-seeking.

If the motive is one of personal gain, it could be true that he was chiefly concerned "with miserable aims that end with self." Into this kind of "service" it cannot with propriety be supposed that the mind and will and power of God may be pressed.

To apply indiscriminately to all comers the words "My God will supply all your needs" is an abuse. Though the parallel is made these words are not applicable in the same wide way as the words of our Lord that God makes "the sun to shine, and the rain to fall upon the unjust as well as on the just." That the blessings of Nature are shared by all cannot be gainsaid, but that "the natural man perceiveth not the things of the Spirit of God" is also true.

Right here is the point on which the whole matter turns. When we blur the distinction between the natural and the spiritual, we introduce confusion. And that, precisely, is what has been done. We ought not to think of spiritual experience as being unconditioned. Yet this is the danger in which we stand as a result of what are, probably, wellmeant efforts to bring religion "down to the people."

REV. FRANCIS BARRETT, St. Matthew's Catholic Church, East Stroudsburg: Recently I read an article on the pros and cons of salacious and obscene literature. A very worthy doctor and prominent judge of a superior court discussed the issue and its consequences on society. You read these issues in every magazine and newspaper. Issues of morality are discussed as to their consequences, their contributions, the freedom of expression, freedom of the press and so on.

In all these programs, panels and discussions there is one glaring fact that is overlooked. To most of these issues there are not two sides. The showing of indecent films is wrong, the printing of salacious literature is wrong, alcoholism is wrong. If we want to discuss the issue from two points of view, we can discuss it from the points of right and wrong. But bad things are bad, and good things are good.

The trouble with a great many people today is not a loss of a definite faith, but the loss of clear thinking. The moral law is a law, and an expression of the mind and will of the Law-giver. When the moral law of God is violated, there are consequences and punishments to be meted out to the guilty party else right would be wrong, and wrong could be right as far as a free human being is concerned.

If the way man uses his free will has consequences as to his happiness and unhappiness in this life and in the next, then a clearer understanding of the Law of God and the Will of God in man's regard is more important to man than any other educational program that can be offered him. His freedom, his happiness and his life depend upon this knowledge.

How many we hear who say, "Religion is alright for him, he's made that way." What a total misunderstanding not only of religion, but of himself does this person have. Religion is for everyone because everyone has free will, and with that free will can choose to be happy, or choose to be sad.

This is so because he can choose to do what is right or choose to do what is wrong.

Therefore to a compromising world that views all of life and the principles of morality with the compromising color of gray, the greatest lesson that it can learn is the lesson of the Law of God, the moral Law of the Ten Commandments. Because here a clear line is drawn, it is the clarity of black and white, the clear law of right and wrong. Only when we know clearly what we must do, and what God expects of us, will we be able to come out of the gray fog of psuedo-liberalism into the blazing light of right and out of the abysmal darkness of wrong.

We priests sometimes can be accused of only condemning the bad and failing to encourage the good. Therefore I'd like to recommend a very well done and a wonderfully timely movie, "The Ten Commandments." Here the cinema has been used well to promote the forceful expression of the law of God. See this movie.

There will be a Sunday School Board meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Moore on Tuesday, Dec. 11 at 8 p.m.

The Pocono Community Chorus will sing at the Canadensis Methodist Church on Monday, Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Four Injured In Accident

LANSDALE, Dec. 7 (AP)—Four men were injured in a truck-automobile collision that occurred in dense fog near here today.

The four, all of whom were treated at North Penn Hospital, were Robert Perry, 21, of near Perkasie, the truck driver; Harry Bennett, 19, of near Doylestown, a passenger in the truck; Michael Costa, 21, of Ambler, and Dominic Mazzeo, 19, also of Ambler, a passenger in Costa's car.

Police said the crash occurred when Perry attempted to make a left turn from Welsh Road onto the Bethlehem Pike in lower Gwynedd Twp.

Manufacturers Plan Meeting

JACK BURNS, of Allentown, will address the monthly meeting of the Monroe County Manufacturers Assn. at the Penn Stroud Hotel on Monday at 6:30 p.m.

He will explain the procedure for setting up government-subsidized training programs in plants.

Paul McBride will be program chairman.

Newfoundland

Mrs. Ellsworth Brink, of Bethlehem, enjoyed a visit from her mother and brother, Mrs. Cora Christ and Samuel of South Sterling.

Close Contests Mark Meeting Of Chess Club

MITCHELL Stackhouse, W. Main St., Stroudsburg, one of the organizers of the Stroudsburg Chess Club, was at the regular session on Thursday night at the office of John M. Price, club president.

Stackhouse responded by winning a strenuous game from Earl Weiss second ranking contender for the title of club champion, now held by Joseph Kushner, Stroudsburg. Stackhouse also defeated William P. Deering, winning two games from the latter.

Weiss also defeated Sidney Kushner, one game and A. J. Vlossak, Mount Pocono, three. Vlossak retaliated by taking one game from Weiss. Vlossak also beat Price.

Deadlock

Deering defeated Sidney Kushner one game and Louis Mondelle in two engagements, a third resulting in a tie.

Club champion Kushner stuck staunchly to his guns, defeating Louis Mondele in three consecutive onsets and winning two long, hard games from Harold James. James, the number one contender for the championship, turned the tables on Kushner in one well fought and protracted game.

Three-Point Buck

WILLIAM SANDERS, of 513 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, killed a three-point, 125-pound buck while hunting in Greene Township, Pike County.

Greetings In Music For Music Club

Musical Christmas cards will form the theme of the Christmas program of the Music Study Club on Tuesday, Dec. 11, at 7:45 at the Stroud Community House. Mrs. Charles Allen has arranged the program around "Christmas Greetings" with carols sung from Christmas cards.

The Decemettes of Stroudsburg High School under the direction of Numa Snyder will sing several selections. Miss Susan Warner and Mrs. John McConnell will be soloists.

Refreshments and a social hour will follow the program.

VFW Aux. Supper Before Meeting Monday Night

The VFW Auxiliary to Thomas P. Lambert Post 2540 will hold a meeting on Monday night, Dec. 10, at 8 p.m. A covered dish supper will be held at 6:30 p.m.

Christmas gifts of $1 will be exchanged after the meeting. Members are asked to put their names on the gifts.

Initiation of new members will be held.

Altar, Rosary Bazaar Proves Successful

The annual Christmas Bazaar of St. Matthew's Altar and Rosary Society was very successful. Special awards were made to Mrs. Bernadette McDaniels, fruit cake and orchid plant; Bill Garris, afghan; Oscar Pue, turkey dinner; Mrs. Louise Bleck and Susan Gretkowski, knitted stoles.

A vote of thanks was given those who took part in the bazaar and the chairmen and co-chairmen:

Mrs. Truman Burnett, general chairman; Mrs. Michael Chaffier, Mrs. Guy Nicholais, novelty; Mrs. Emanuel Deus, Mrs. Arthur Bomberger, Christmas; Mrs. John Sweeney, Mrs. Henry Baustien, aprons; Mrs. Peter Sabinski, parcel post; Mrs. William Queenan, potted plants; Mrs. Walter Casola, Mrs. John Sullivan, sweets; Mrs. Helen Besecker, kitchen; Mrs. Albert Scavo, Mrs. Joseph Ciami, afghan; Mrs. Robert Ludgate, stole; Miss Rose Paula Kennedy, turkey dinner; Patricia Viechnicki, fish pond; Mrs. Arthur Henning and Mrs. George Hack, door prizes.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

As the stories of Christmas meetings come flooding in, I never cease to marvel at the ingenuity of program chairmen in working up different approaches each year.

For instance, this year, the Music Club will use the greeting card theme with carols from the Christmas cards. Out in Gilbert, the Salem Guild used the story of the Christmas hymns to center the attention.

At the Shawnee Presbyterian Church, slides of the paintings of the Nativity by the Old Masters will provide a focal point, and down in Bangor, the Woman's Club will have a dramatization of Bible Stories given by a speaker in authentic Biblical costume.

There are scores of other approaches—all leading to the same destination. But as you gain a different impression of a town of you enter it by one road or another, so a different approach to the old, old story can often illuminate a section that another approach may throw in the shadow.

Hostess chairmen are equally ingenious in weaving the greens and Christmas theme in their tea table decorations so that no two are ever alike, but all are lovely.

One thing, though, I hope they won't go experimenting around with, is the refreshments. Homemade Christmas cookies—oh, as many kinds and varieties as you have members of your committee—but no fair substituting cake or strawberry shortcake.

Add a little honey to the egg-and-milk mixture you make up for French toast; helps the bread to brown, gives good flavor.

Sunshine Class Party Held At Methodist Ch.

The Sunshine Class of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church had a varied Christmas program at their meeting on Tuesday night in the church parlors with 45 present.

A gift of $200 for the Christmas gift offering for the church was received, and the class plans to give a poinsettia for the church's Christmas decorations, in honor of the president of the class, Mrs. Harry Warrick.

Mrs. Maude Stem and Mrs. Cyrus Smith, class teachers, and Mrs. Vernon Garis, chairman of the suppers served by the class, were presented with gifts. Christmas cards were signed and sent to shut-in members.

Climaxing the gift giving was the revelation of Secret Pals. The program featured a variety of readings, interspersed with group carols with Mrs. Walter Brown as pianist.

Mrs. Jacoby gave a reading, "A Christmas Moment"; Mrs. Isabelle Leedom gave a group of readings, "Is There a Santa Claus"; "Christmas Spirit" and "Christmas Time"; Mrs. Stem read "The Three Chests" and Letter to Santa Claus.

During the business meeting a "come-as-you-are" party was planned for the January meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Warrick.

Committees and chairmen were appointed for meetings for the coming year. In each case the first named is chairman:

January: Mrs. Bernice Nauman, Mrs. Charles Van Over, Mrs. Cyrus Smith, Mrs. Paul Berner, Mrs. Clarence Dupee, Mrs. Helen Grant. February: Mrs. Vernon Garis, Mrs. Isabelle Leedom, Mrs. Thomas Kistler, Mrs. Herbert Kistler, Mrs. Morris Long and Mrs. Dewey Jacoby.

March: Mrs. Carl Adelmann, Mrs. Stanley Hartman, Mrs. Irene Marsh, Mrs. Cora Arnold, Mrs. Lulu Fenner, Mrs. Howard Cramer. April: Mrs. Christine Albert; Mrs. B. K. Williams, Mrs. Sylvanus Treible, Mrs. Harry Warrick, Mrs. Clair Reynolds, Miss Sue Rockerfeiler, Mrs. Russell Imbt.

May: Mrs. Margaret Bensley, Mrs. A. L. Helmes, Mrs. Russell Transue, Mrs. Harry Sution, Mrs. Kenneth Heckman Sr. Miss Mae Ward, Miss Daisy Edinger. June: Mrs. John Becker, Mrs. Jay Peters, Mrs. Halford Risley, Mrs. Percy Rockerfeiler, Mrs. LeVan Flory.

September: Mrs. Beulah Brown, Mrs. Verdon Gilliland, Mrs. Chester Cramer, Mrs. Paul Siegenfus, Mrs. Ruth Dixon, Mrs. Ruth Bicknell. October: Mrs. Howard Eckert, Mrs. Edward Staples, Miss Lulu Staples, Miss Marguerite Cramer, Mrs. John Frederick, Mrs. Robert Decker.

November: Miss Flora Garis, Mrs. Raymond Smiley, Mrs. Harold Rinker, Mrs. LeRoy Decker, Mrs. Margaret Tickert, Mrs. Donald Lambert. December: Miss Mary Kistler, Mrs. Maude Stem, Mrs. Grady Moore, Mrs. Harry Kresge, Mrs. David Keller, Mrs. Fred Strauser, Mrs. Henry Evans.

Following the meeting refreshments were served at tables decorated in the Christmas motif by Miss Lulu Staples and her committee.

Miss Harl Engaged To W. I. Bruner

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Harl, of Stroudsburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Clara Lou Harl, to Walter I. Bruner III, of Philadelphia.

Miss Harl was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in the class of 1953 and is a senior at Temple University School of Nursing. Mr. Bruner is a graduate of Germantown High School and Temple University and is employed with Remington Rand as an electronic draftsman.

The young couple became engaged on Thanksgiving Eve and visited Clara Lou's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Harl, of Philadelphia, on Thanksgiving Day where they announced the engagement to the family.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. John W. Harl and daughter, Susan, Dr. and Mrs. Philip R. Martin and son, Philip III, of Allentown; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hohimer and daughters, Mavis and Alexis, of Croydon, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. P. Ross Martin Sr., of Sharon Hill.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mark Christmas Early With Family In England

Newfoundland An early Christmas observance with their families in Yorkshire, England, made their three week vacation a memorable one for Mr. and Mrs. David Portas, who returned here this week.

Thirty years have passed since Mr. Portas last visited in England, although Mrs. Portas spent some time there four years ago. Together, they revisited familiar places and had a "wonderful get-together" with her six brothers and two sisters, and his five brothers and sisters who live only a few miles apart.

Travel time was kept to a minimum, since both trips were made by air. Waiting in New York this week to welcome them home where their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Portas, of Canadensis, and their daughter, Miss Janice Portas, a nurse at St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem.

Old Masters Set Theme Of SS Program

Shawnee-on-Delaware — The annual Christmas party of the Shawnee Presbyterian Church will link art and music in the program to be given Sunday, Dec., 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

A choral program will accompany a film strip showing pictures of The Nativity by old masters. Music will be sung by the girls' choir, directed by Mrs. Polly Hope, the boys' choir and mixed chorus, directed by Rev. D. C. Newquist. The Interpreter will be Miss Cynthia Crawn and the Voice of Scripture, Raymond Rose. Miss Sara Hostetter is church organist.

The children's choir and cherub choir will sing a medley which will include "Happy Christmas", "Many Many Years Ago," "Angel Voices Sweetly Singing" and "Away in a Manger", with Mrs. Polly Hope directing.

Everyone attending the service is asked to bring a gift of nonperishable food, wrapped in white which will be distributed to families by the deacons of the church.

A live outdoor Manger Scene will be in place in front of the church from 7 to 7:30 and again at the close of the program. Omar Michaels will portray Joseph and Colleen Mosteller, Mary.

Everyone is invited, to the the service.

Quilters Recess On Work Sessions For Holiday

South Sterling — Quilters among the membership of the Women's Society of Christian Service will have a vacation from their weekly sessions at the WSCS Hall next week, it was decided at the December business meeting at which Mrs. Norris Scott presided.

The group will not meet on Wednesday, December 12. However, the WSCS as a whole will join the Hemlock Grove WSCS in a covered dish luncheon and Christmas party with the exchange of gifts at the Greentown Church on Thursday, December 13.

The distribution of Christmas packages among the shut-ins of the community, and cards among those who are away for the Winter, was approved.

Present for the business meeting and quilting were Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Harry Roor, Mrs. David Hause, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Hans Arneberg, Mrs. Elsie Madden, Miss Edith Simons, Mrs. Allan Robacker, Mrs. Bennett Gilpin, and Mrs. Raymond Drake.

ES Band Mothers Party Monday

The annual Christmas party of the East Stroudsburg Band Mothers will be held Monday night at 8 p.m. at the East Stroudsburg Senior High School.

Each member is asked to bring her favorite Christmas cookies for the party.

Names Omitted

The names of Mrs. Clara Leekenbusch, president of the Willing Workers Class of Zion Reformed Church, and of Mrs. Florence Gregory were omitted from the list of those attending the meeting this week.

An eggplant that weighs about a pound, and is often called medium-sized, is good for stuffing when four persons are to be served.

Special Program For Democratic Women Wed.

The Women's Democratic Club of Monroe County will hold a Christmas program and party at their meeting on Wednesday night at 8 at the Stroud Community House. Mrs. Harold Edwards will preside at the meeting.

There will be a reading by Mrs. Madelyn Maloney, and duets by Mrs. Eleanor Boehler and Mrs. Irene Besecker, and carols by the club. A 50-cent gift exchange will mark the social hour.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Floyd Butz, Mrs. John Gregory, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Louis Mansbach, Mrs. John Sanborn and Mrs. Myrtle Angle.

Dramatization From Bible For Bangor Club

Bangor Dramatizations of the best loved stories from the Bible with authentic costumes from the Holy Lands, will be presented by Miss Ardis Alling, celebrated interpreter of Biblical stories, on Monday afternoon, Dec. 10, at 2:30 o'clock during the regular Christmas meeting of the Bangor Senior Women's Club in the Bangor public library. Guests will include members of the Pen Argyl and Portland clubs.

Titled "Scenes From Our Golden Heritage," Miss Alling will present "The Story of Ruth," "The Other Shepherd," and the "Nativity."

Traditional music has been arranged by Miss Alling. For "The Story of Ruth," she has recorded the voice of a Cantor, singing, unaccompanied, ancient songs and to introduce "The Other Shepherd," the Cantor plays a traditional shepherd song on the flute. For the Nativity recordings are played from "The Messiah," sung by the Royal Choral Society of London.

As a member of an English family that founded Allingtown, Conn., and helped to found Yale University, Miss Alling before she was old enough to understand the words, listened as a daily ritual to Bible readings in her father's New England home. Her interest in Scriptures increased with her comprehension of their meaning and visits to the Holy Land brought realization of the people she portrays.

Miss Alling has studied manners and customs of Biblical heros and heroines, so that her characterizations are authentic. She brought from the Holy Land many of the colorful costumes she wears while others were especially designed for her various presentations.

Offering for Christmas

A silver offering will be received at the December meeting of the Monroe County Garden Club for Christmas use by the Salvation Army instead of an outright contribution from the club.

Orchestra Selected For Ward Party

Bangor — Sammy Canova and his orchestra, of Roseto, will provide the music at the annual Christmas party being staged by the First Ward Community Association. Canova will have a 15-piece ensemble on deck at the fete, which will be held Thursday, Dec. 20, in the auditorium at the local Jacksonian Democratic Club.

All children of 12 years of age and under in the ward will be guests at the party. A distribution of free tickets will be made by committeet personnel. The orchestra's appearance is being sponsored through the recording and transcription fund of the American Federation of Musicians, James C. Petrillo, president, in cooperation with Bangor-Stroudsburg Local 577.

Mrs. Adam LaBar Is Honored On 74th Birthday

Wooddale — Mrs. Adam LaBar was 74 years old Dec. 4. A family birthday party was held in her honor at her home. A large birthday cake had been baked by her daughters, Mrs. John Lesoine and Mrs. Ruth Cortright.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Adam LaBar, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bird, Mrs. Edna LaBar, Mrs. Howard Hallet and daughter, Mrs. Jack Ifft, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, Mrs. Ruth Cortright and sons, Gary and Ronald, Mrs. John Lesoine and son, John Jr., Mrs. Norma Warner and sons, Stevie and Donnie, Carl LaBar, and son Eddie, and Robert Mosher. Pen Argyl Jrs. Have Talk On Wills In Law

Pen Argyl Richard Kitto, attorney, spoke this week at a meeting of the Pen Argyl Woman's Club. Mr. Kitto discussed the making of wills and the law in financial matters.

Mrs. Clarence Brown presided.

It was announced that the Pen Argyl group will be entertained by the Bangor Junior Woman's Club next Monday and that a joint meeting will be held on December 17. Eight members offered their services in Christmas Seal work for the Northampton County Tuberculosis Society.

The club also decided to collect gifts for needy children from 6 to 16 years of age instead of holding its annual pal exchange. The gifts will be sent to the county juvenile detention home. The musical portion of the program included organ selections by Bert Millheim and accordion selections by Carman Communale and Robert Mistischen.

The hospitality committee consisted of Mrs. William Jackson and Mrs. David Brands. Miss Grace Dennis, Mrs. Albert Millheim, Mrs. Clarence Kindt, Mrs. Ray Vosper and Mrs. Abram Young served as hostesses.

Gideons Meet Tuesday

The Gideons of the Stroudsburgs will meet at the home of Francis M. Marvin, Bartonsville, on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

I sometimes wonder what Elsie Miller would do without me. Not that I do any work in her department. Occasionally I'll ring up a sale, if a hurried customer hands me some money and a box of candy . . . but more often than not I just stand there (probably in the way) and gaze yearningly at the big glass cases filled with milk chocolate cracker candies, pastel colored chocolate straws, creamy bon bons, or rows of pleasantly warm, mixed nuts, salty and inviting. I am, I believe, Elsie's most willing sampler . . . and also her most persistent mid-afternoon customer. All she need do is suggest tasting a nice fresh shipment of stuffed dates, and the next thing I know we in advertising are munching away, not caring a bit that it's only an hour 'til dinner.

Sometimes, when Elsie gives me a taste of this or that, I'm inclined to think she's one of my best friends. Then again I'm not so sure. Maybe she's just a shrewdy. She knows all too well my lovefor anything edible, and she's far less concerned with MY FIGURE than with HER FIGURES. Of late, however, I've been disciplining myself—or at least trying to. I've been getting on the scales on our mezzanine before visiting our main floor departments. If the hand spins past a certain point, I stay away from candy; if it stops a few pounds short, I rush down for a chat with Elsie . . . and if, as I chat, my hand sort of strays into a Keiller bag and finds one of those chocolate filled walnut crisps—well, I do have to know something about the merchandise I'm writing and talking about . . .

Yesterday I found I had occasion ever so often to stop in our center aisle and talk with Clare Coleman, I like Clare. I consider her one of the finest people I know . . . and I'm quite positive that my conversational need was not influenced even a tiny bit by the fact that she was distributing Crosse & Blackwell fruit cake and pudding samples. My weakness for fruit cake—particularly when it's practically home-made, as this is . . . and my inability to decide which of the puddings I prefer, since they're all so good, had nothing at all to do with my main floor wanderings! Of course, Clare's here again today. I'm not sure what we could discuss today that we didn't cover yesterday . . . but there MUST be something . . . business . . . the weather . . . Give me time, I'll think of a subject.

In the meantime, where's a penny for the scale?

* * *

P.S. No sampling for me today! The scales suggest that I take off a few pounds to get in shape for the puddings and fruit cake on our Christmas table. So why don't YOU do my sampling for me? Clare is a willing and generous hostess, and will be happy to help you with your holiday selections.

And don't overlook the C&B mince meat which is marvelous!—just perfect for Christmas pies and filled cookies. We also suggest a Crosse and Blackwell holiday treat box for out-of-town friends—it's beautiful, contains seven delicacies and is ready for mailing. We'll gladly send it to any address you desire.

* * *

You know something — we have another weighing machine out in front of our store. Guess I'll try it. That one on the mezzanine COULD be wrong.

Buck Invades Driveway

SOUTH STERLING—While hunters were combing the woods for buck this week, Mrs. Elvin Rake was recovering from a near "hit-and-run" attack by one of the four-footed animals in her driveway.

Mrs. Rake had just stepped from her sidewalk into the driveway, when she heard the deer coming. She stepped back and the deer missed her by inches as it raced up the driveway and across the road.

West End Motorist Hurt In Accident

REEDERS — A teen-age West End motorist was injured yesterday when his 1948 sedan overturned on the McMichaels-Reeders Road.

Treatment

After being treated at the scene by Dr. Edward T. Horn, Jr., he was removed to General Hospital where his condition was reported as good last night.

Troopers said Meckes was passing another vehicle when it turned toward his car, forcing him off the road. His auto then overturned, and was completely demolished. State Police estimated damage at $135.

Fifteen Years Flow Swiftly Through History Since Japan Launched Pearl Harbor Bombing

"Imperial headquarters in Tokyo already had declared war formally against both the United States and Great Britain — effective at dawn.

"A blackout of the Panama Canal Zone, vital link between the Atlantic and Pacific, was ordered, starting at 6 p.m. tonight."

The first reports of the attack were sketchy. They indicated that the Japanese air and naval forces had launched a full-scale attack on several U.S. installations in the Pacific. The initial AP story carried this summary of estimated damage:

Up to 350 U.S. soldiers killed; more than 300 wounded at Hickam Field in Hawaii. U.S. battleship Oklahoma set afire. Two other U.S ships at Pearl Harbor attacked. Heavy residential damage in Honolulu. Casualties not yet known. Torpedoing of a U.S. Army transport, loaded with lumber, between Hawaii and San Francisco. The Philippines had been bombed. Wake Island had been captured. Guam had been bombed. The International settlement in Shanghai had been seized. The U.S. gunboat "Wake" had been captured at Shanghai and a British gunboat, "The Peterel," had been destroyed nearby.

Monroe County, along with the rest of the nation, began a rapid psychological orientation to the war that nearly everyone knew was just outside the window.

On Dec. 9, The Daily Record ran a three-line, full-page banner. It said: "AMERICA GRIMLY ACCEPTS CHALLENGE. CONGRESS DECLARES WAR ON JAPAN. WAR FRONT FLAMES SWEEP THE ORIENT."

On this day, too, the initial stories of local volunteers for active duty began to appear. Gradually, the front page space of the newspaper lost it's last semblance of peacetime activity. Short items about the Anna Logan Society and county court cases began to disappear.

The following day's headline read: "America In the War All the Way President Tells His Countrymen and Is Sure To Win Strife and Peace."

Slowly the names of Far Eastern countries, the dry, text-book titles of tiny, flyspeck islands and atolls became as familiar as the names of streets in The Stroudsburgs. Slowly, too, the news agencies began to catch up with the enormity of the "sneak attack." The size of the casualty lists rose in a sprinting lurch, a thousand at a time.

On Dec. 11, a new name was added to the American conscience. Part of the Daily Record main headline for that day said: "Japs Land In Luzon." Hand-to-hand combat raged in Malaya. The Japanese claimed false victories — and some that were real and terrible and lasting.

Time had been swept up in a paralysis of anxiety. The hardening knots of warfare in the world were just beginning to be brought home.

Yesterday was fifteen years removed in time from Dec. 7, 1941. Only a few flags — isolated by their color and their wind-swung motion — appeared along the Main Street of Stroudsburg. There were only a few persons, apparently, who remembered this 15th anniversary.

The morning newspaper carried its own grim reminder of the spectre of war — 15 years later. The headlines said:

"Eden Wins Vote of Confidence." "U.S. Sends Strong Protest To Russia." "Rebels Battle Reds In Streets." "Use of Tanks Draws Verbal Fire." "Minefields Slow Advance Of Troops."

It was a nameless anniversary. How long is 15 years?

It takes a GIANT to move people

In the world of flying it takes a giant to move masses of people fast. In the world of selling, too, it takes a giant to move the people . . . a giant who lives in every town, the daily newspaper.

This giant not only lives in every town, but in practically every home—every day. And in the home the newspaper remains to be read, put down, picked up and read again, so that it's no trouble at all for a newspaper advertiser to make a local call every day. Daily newspaper circulation is at a new high—over 56,000,000.

Many of the ads in the paper will end up in a purse or a pocket because people habitually use the newspaper as a shopping guide. That's why advertisers—local, regional and national—spend more money in daily newspapers than they do in radio, television, magazines and outdoor combined.

To move a multitude of goods, you must move multitudes of people to action. Use "action" advertising. Use the daily newspaper.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

Massive Line, Mobile Backs Trend Of AP All-America

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—A massive, mobile line which averages 226 pounds per man and backfield repeater Tommy McDonald of Oklahoma are features of the 1956 Associated Press All-America football team.

McDonald is joined on the squad by another representative from the national championship Sooners—center Jerry Tubbs.

The remainder of the backfield is composed of brilliant tailback Johnny Majors who led Tennessee to a perfect season, versatile Jimmy Brown of Syracuse and fullback Don Bosseler of Miami, rated on a par with Doc Blanchard by Coach Andy Gustafson who worked with both.

Walton, Kramer

The ends are Ron Kramer of Michigan (216 pounds) and Joe Walton of Pitt (201). Alex Karras of Iowa (235) and John Witte of Oregon State (232) are at tackles with Bill Glass of Baylor (230) and Jim Parker of Ohio State (262) filling the guard slots.

Tubbs weighs in at a trim 206.

The team was selected on the basis of recommendations from regional boards complete through all games of Dec. 1.

Because it was considered unfair to players who gave a full measure in every game, some fine talent was excluded from the first three teams.

Arnett Shunned

Southern California Halfback Jon Arnett was limited to five games as part of the Pacific Coast Conference crackdown while Michigan State's Clarence Peaks was cut down by a midseason knee injury.

Paul Hornung, bonus pick in the National Football League, is in the second backfield with Iowa's Kenny Ploen, John Crow of the Texas Aggies and Bill Barnes of Wake Forest.

Hornung was a headliner in a losing cause, but failed to make the first team by a close margin because some Midwest board members felt he lost too much efficiency once injuries began to plague him in mid-October.

On the basis of the 1956 season, Bosseler rated ahead of Hornung, a player of unlimited potential.

The second team line has Walt Brodie of William and Mary and Bill Steiger of Washington State at ends, Paul Wiggin of Stanford and Lou Michaels of Kentucky at tackles, Esker Harris of UCLA and Sam Valentine of Penn State at guards and Georgia Tech's Don Stephenson at center.

Wiggin and Jim Swink, the Texas Christian halfback, landed first team berths a year ago along with McDonald but in the rough competition for '56 honors Wiggin finished on the second eleven and Swink on the third.

Brown Impossible

Brown proved impossible for defenses to handle because he hits with tremendous force yet can run like a sprinter for his 212 pounds. Though he scored 43 of his 106 points against Colgate in his final game, Brown was consistent. He ran for 986 yards and in the passing department was equally at home on the receiving or the throwing end.

After watching Bosseler in action, Georgia Coach Wally Butts commented: "Bosseler is the finest inside runner I ever saw. I never saw a fullback fake so effectively." Bosseler's fakes, blocks and 677 yards smashed through packed defenses are reasons why unbeaten Miami's "drive series" attack has been so effective.

Good on Defense

On defense, the transplanted Batavia, N.Y., boy is a sensation. With a game yet to play he leads the nation's No. 1 defensive club in tackles and pass defense. In five of nine games he did not allow a pass to be completed on his side of the field, in four he batted down an average of six aerials—all while backing up the line.

The first NFL draft choice of Washington, Bosseler broke up the Florida game last week with a 73 yard scoring burst on which he outran Gator speedster Jim Rountree over the last half of the distance.

Walton caught the touchdown passes that beat Syracuse, Oregon and Duke. His coach, John Michelosen, put it this way: "Walton reminds me of my wife when she goes shopping — he never quits."

Pocono Twp., Barrett, Polk Win Monroe Openers

Chestnuthill, Coolbaugh, Tobyhanna Suffer Setbacks

DEFENDING CHAMPION Pocono Township and Barrett and Polk opened up the Monroe County Scholastic Basketball League season on a winning note last night. Pocono upended Chestnuthill, 61-30, Barrett defeated Tobyhanna, 48-30, and Polk routed Coolbaugh, 78-28, to draw first blood on the 1956-57 championship flag chase.

Pace Pocono Twp.

Tannersville — Spearheaded by Burdette Peechatka, Larry Starner, Paul Frailey and Ron Martinell, Pocono Twp. registered its initial win by dumping Chestnuthill 61-30 here.

Peechatka ran up 18 points to lead Harry Werkheiser's five and Starner and Martinell followed closely with 16, 13 and 10 respectively.

Pocono Twp. went out to a 14-6 first quarter edge and kept increasing the pad, gaining 26-14 bulge at halftime, and 41-25 advantage at the three-quarter mark.

Everett and Barney were the mainstays for Chestnuthill, ripping the cords for 11 and 10.

Game Feature

One of the featres of the game was the play-making of Starner, who set up many scores besides chalking up his 16.

Chestnuthill hit on six fouls out of 18 and Pocono Township made 9 out of 21.

Pocono Twp. also won the preliminary game, defeating Chestnuthill's underlings, 54-29. Ron Shick headed the Pocono offense with 16, while LaBar topped the losers with 10.

Polk's Win Easy

KRESGEVILLE — Art Smith's Polk Township High shot out to a 24-9 first quarter lead and then coasted in to a 78-28 triumph over Coolbaugh High here last night.

Sparked by Chuck Raub's 23 tallies and Matty Held's 21, Polk had little trouble hanging up their initial win.

Polk had a halftime spread of 43-18 and 74-26 at the end of three periods.

In Double Figures

Besides Raub and Held, Polk had Joe Romasavage and Tom Carney hit the double figures with 13 and 10 respectively. Del Donna, with 13, and Pote, with 10 were the main threats for Coolbaugh.

Polk was the winner in the junior varsity tilt, edging Coolbaugh's fledglings, 21-19. Weiss and Anewalt headed the Polk junior with five each.

Barrett Is Steady

POCONO PINES—Barrett Township set a steady pace here in making Tobyhanna Twp. its first victim of the season. The final score was 48-30 in favor of Joe Murray's boys.

With Reed Gravel canning 20 points—12 of them from the free throw line—Barrett produced a 9-4 first quarter edge and a 23-12 halftime advantage.

Tobyhanna battled the invaders on even terms in the third stanza but Barrett moved out again in the fourth, outscoring their hosts, 13-6.

Costanzo Top Man

Harry Constanzo was practically the whole Tobyhanna scoring punch as he took game honors with 21.

Tobyhanna turned the tables on Barrett in the junior varsity game, winning 39-35 as Frank Altemose racked up 18. Dale Friday was Earrett's best with six.

Daily Record Trophy, Letters Presented To Stroudsburg '11'

STROUDSBURG HIGH SCHOOL'S varsity and junior varsity football lettermen and the entire Mountaineer grid squad were cited at a special assembly in the school's auditorium yesterday afternoon.

Following the awards presentations, Bob Clark, sports editor of the Daily Record, presented the newspaper's First Annual Slate Belt-Pocono Football trophy, symbolic of winning the championship in the mythical conference, to Alfred Munson, principal of Stroudsburg High School.

Munson, in turn handed over the engraved award to Whitehead. Stroudsburg, winner of the first of three legs that must be attained for permanent possession, will keep the trophy until the end of next football season, when the victor of the second leg will be decided.

Curtis Speaks

T. Manning (Can) Curtis, director of athletics at Stroudsburg, opened the program and lauded the football coaching staff of Whitehead, Vernon Hontz, George Metropoulos, Charles Winters and equipment manager John DeVivo.

He noted to the entire student body present that "we had one of the finest elevens ever to represent the school."

The Stroudsburg High Band, under the direction of John Pyle provided the music during the program.

Letter Winners

Varsity letter awards were given to Larry Buzzard, James Wallace, Douglas Shook, Ronald Stopp, Donald Stopp and George Steinhauer, all seniors.

Juniors—Richard Reiger, Larry Besecker, Ronald Phillips, Robert Kassay, Byron Weaver and Terry Bartleson. Sophomores — Fred Stout, Richard Everitt, Richard Cramsey, Noel Campbell and William Bolich.

Junior varsity awards were presented to Edward Hermans, Larry Storms, Ted Margretta, Nick LaPenna, Don Harmer, John Kintz, John Gilpin, William Hodgson and Paul Singer, sophomores.

Freshmen—Mahlon Lee, David O'Connor, Leo Frailey, Michael Honsberger, William Schoonover, Robert Ford, Todd Williems and Alfred Edinger.

Greene-Dreher Notches 5th Straight Win

NEWFOUNDLAND — Greene-Dreher-Sterling High rode to its fifth straight triumph here last night by hammering Scott Township 69-44.

The unbeaten proteges of Henry Arneberg broke loose after a comparatively tight (19-13) first quarter to defeat Scott, an entry in Lackawanna County's Northern League.

G-S, led by Captain Walt Hinds, pulled out to a 37-21 halftime bulge and led 56-30 at the end of three periods. Here Arneberg began inserting his heavy reserve corps.

Hinds High

Hinds paced all scorers, connecting for 25 markers on 10 field goals and five fouls. Bob Hagg also helped the G-S attack with 14. Croop, with 14, and Howanicz with 10 topped the Scott attack.

In a preliminary, the Greene-Dreher junior varsity defeated the school's junior class representatives, 34-26.

Dally Reveals Additions To Pin Tourney

Special to Daily Record

CHICAGO, Dec. 7—Youth took the spotlight in the 16th annual National All-Star Bowling Tournament in the Chicago Coliseum as five bowlers—all of them under 32—took over the first five spots.

While the veterans and old-timers were fighting to stay in the running, sturdy Ed Lubanski, the 27-year-old brewery employe from Detroit, moved into the top spot with 79.11 Petersen Points, while another 27-year-old, Billy Golembiewski of Grand Rapids, Mich., a virtual unknown assistant bowling establishment manager, was second with 78.37, just 24 pins behind Lubanski.

Back in third place in the men's division was two time former champion Don Carter, a 29-year-old former minor league baseball player like Lubanski who once toiled on the mound in the Northern League. Carter has 75.34 points.

Fourth place was Thomas Hennessey of St. Louis, the "Grand-Daddy" of the quintet at 31, while Dick Weber, also of St. Louis, was fifth. Weber, the qualifying leader, admits to 26.

Story Different

The story was different in the women's division as veteran Marge Merrick, a 32-year-old bowling instructress from Dearoit, took a 1.25 lead over the field.

Miss Merrick had 38.28 points while two more veterans, Stevie Balogh of Cleveland, and Jeannette Grzelak of Rockford, Ill. standings.

Daily Announces

Arch Daily, manager of the Pocono Mountain bowling tournament, who is attending the all-star, announced that several of the stars in the all-star will be bowling in his tournament.

Among these are Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., five time winner of the women's all-star crown; Anita Cantaline of Detroit, the women's defending champion; Sylvia Wene of Philadelphia, the 1954-55 women's champion, and Helen Duval of Berkeley, Cal., a finalist in this year's tournament.

Men Entered

Among the men who have entered are the entire Chicago Classic League leading Meister Brau team—Paul Krumski, Eddie Kawolies, Carmen Salvino, Chuck Hamilton, Harry Lippe and Earl Johnson.

ESSTC Swim Teams To Open Seasons Today

EAST Stroudsburg State Teachers College's men's and girls' varsity swimming teams will swing into the action for the first time today when the Normal Hill lassies take on Moravian College's girls and the Warriors tankmen of Frank Grimm host Cortland STC.

The dual meets, both scheduled for the East Stroudsburg STC pool, finds the ESSTC girls facing Moravian at 10 a.m. and the men's aquatic team meeting Cortland at 2 p.m.

Returnees

Grimm's tankmen will be headed by last year's co-captains, Frank Krystiniak and Dick Folmer, 220, 100 and 440 specialists.

Other returnees are Roy Snyder and LeRoy Soencer, and Jim Trautman, breaststroke artists; and Bill Ormiston, diver.

Newcomers slated to see action today are dashmen Bob Bright, and Bob Walters, divers Dick Black; backstrokers Ray Kressler and Bill Stauffer and distanceman Wilson Hartranft. Another possible starter is Byron Sharkey, a free-styler.

Great Past

Cortland will come here sporting great records in the past when George Breen, Olympic champ, and Jim Ball, another aquatic star, were sporting the New Yorker's colors.

Last year ESSTC boys compiled a 2-5 won and loss record. Cortland ended up with a 6-1-1 log, losing only to Syracuse University.

Industrial League To Bowl Today

THE INDUSTRIAL League will bowl today at Harmon's Recreation at 1 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Stroudsburg Garage vs. Daily Record.

Alleys five and six—Hughes Printing Co. vs. Dunn's Tavern.

West End A. C. Meets Wednesday

EFFORT—The West End A. C., an entry in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League, will hold a reorganization meeting at the Pohocopo Hotel here Wednesday, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Club president Carl E. Kresge urges a full turnout of last year's team and those wishing to join the West Enders nine this year.

Olympics Formally Close With U.S. Swimmer Queen

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE, Saturday, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Melbourne Olympic Games formally close today with Pat Keller McCormick of Los Angeles established as undisputed, but retiring queen of the diving boards, and a boyish Australian, Murray Rose, 17, king of modern swimmers.

The Star Spangled Banner rang out for the last time last night for the magnificent Mrs. McCormick who completed an unprecedented Olympic "double double" by leading an all American sweep in the women's platform diving competition. Juno Irwin of Glendale, Calif., petite mother of three, finished second and Paula Jean Meyers of Glendora, Calif., was third in a brilliant display off the tower boards.

Yanks 2nd

The United States ended its competition with 593 points and second place in the unofficial team race, behind Russia's 712 point total. The Soviets have captured 36 Gold Medals to 32 for the Americans and could add another Gold Medal today as they enter the soccer final favored over the Yugoslavian team.

Mrs. McCormick, 26, also a mother and coached by her airline navigator husband, thus added the high dive to her previously won springboard title and matched the double victory she achieved four years ago in Helsinki.

Last Meet Dive

"This was my last competitive dive," the smiling matron said afterwards. "Now I plan to attend to the business of being a housewife."

Earlier in the evening Rose, a handsome, superbly conditioned youngster who is the son of Scottish-English parents, won his third Gold Medal of the games by upsetting America's world record holder, George Breen, in the 1500 meter freestyle race, a thrilling contest of speed and endurance which brought a packed house to its feet at the swimming stadium.

Breen, 21, American champion from Buffalo, N.Y., who had set a world record of 17 minutes 52.9 seconds in preliminary trials, faded badly and finished third behind Takeshi Yamanaka of Japan.

Rose's time last night was 17:58.9, Yamanaka was timed in 18.00.3 and the distraught Breen in 18:08.3.

Comes From Behind

"Everybody will say that I left my race in the trial heat when I swam the world record," Breen said afterwards. "That is not the case at all. My coach doesn't think so and neither do I. I had plenty left when I swam my record race. Tonight just wasn't my night."

Mrs. McCormick came from behind for her diving victory, closing her performance and her career with a beautiful twisting dive on which she cut the water almost without a ripple. She finished with a score of 81.85 compared with 81.64 for Mrs. Irwin and 81.58 for Miss Myers.

Defense Will Face Offense In Pitt-Miami Grid Struggle

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP) — The University of Miami Hurricanes put their great defensive record against the University of Pittsburgh Panthers fine offensive team here tomorrow afternoon in what should be one of the season's top football games.

Unbeaten since they dropped a 21-19 decision to Texas Christian in October, 1955, the Hurricanes rolled over eight opponents and tied one in the current season, piling up 2,621 yards on offense for an average of 291 per game.

Their foes were South Carolina, Boston College, Maryland, Georgia, T. C. U., Florida State, Clemson, West Virginia and Florida.

But it is on defense that Miami is strongest, as statistics prove. Their 1956 opponents have gained 888 yards rushing and 725 passing for an average of 179 yards per game. Only 39 points were scored against the Hurricanes, who intercepted 20 opponents' passes.

Miami's foes were able to gain only 2.42 yards per try and scored but three points after touchdowns.

Pittsburgh nosed out West Virginia, then bowled over Syracuse, Duke, Oregon, Notre Dame and Army while losing to California, Minnesota and deadlocking Penn State, 7-7.

Pitt Record

The Panthers scored 128 points against this rugged opposition, and gained 2,523 yards while their nine foes scored only 91 points.

Miami uses the same teams on offense and defense, alternating to give players a breather. Capt. Don Bosseler, Miami's blockbusting fullback, is not only a power on offense but is generally regarded as one of the best defensiv backs in the country. Tom Pratt, 200-pound senior right guard, is easily the Hurricanes' best lineman.

Tomorrow's game will be televised nationally (NBC) with a 2:30 p.m. (EST) kickoff.

Picked On SE Eleven

ATLANTA, Dec. 7 (AP) — Tackle Lou Michaels, University of Kentucky junior from Swoyerville, Pa., today was named to the 1956 All-Southeastern Conference football team.

Ten players on West Virginia's freshman football team weigh 225 pounds or more.

PCL 'Boosts' Requirements

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 7 (AP)—The Pacific Coast Conference boosted scholastic requirements for football players and other athletes today.

Approved by faculty representatives for athletics from the nine member schools, who take official action for the PCC, was a new rule requiring a "C" high school average for out of state students to be immediately eligible for athletics at a member institution.

Sugar Seen Headache To Promoters

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP) — Ray Robinson could have six busted ribs and a dented clavicle. He might be running a high fever from an acute attack of flibberty-jibbets, complicated by galloping whiffelities.

The reaction of the fight fans would be a few thousand well chosen words, which freely translated would come out: "Oh, yeah?" yeah?"

The point is that this once remarkable champion has hollered "wolf" so often that when he really comes up with something that might cause him to ask for a postponement of a bout his critics are skeptical.

Cold

The latest episode in the career of this promoters' headache is his coming down with a cold necessitating the delaying of his title defense against impatient Gene Fullmer. The bout was scheduled for Madison Square Garden Dec. 12. Now it is reset for Jan. 2, maybe and perhaps.

With a doctor and a member of the New York State Athletic Commission agreeing that the champion really did have the sniffles, there is no reason to suspect that Sugar Ray stuck his head in an icebox to create the condition so he would have more time to worry about the meeting with his eager opponent.

Robinson would be the first to admit the public has a right to be skeptical of his motives. He knows he has been among those absent on more than a few dates when he was scheduled to engage in fisticuffs.

He gave us a curt, and probably logical, reason for his all too frequent requests for postponements, indicating that if he had one foot through the ropes and felt a twinge in his little finger he'd turn and stride back to the dressing room. "I don't enter a ring unless I feel I am in top condition," he said with finality.

"That's a little tough on promoters, and opponents, and fans, but that's the way it is. On at least one occasion he waited until a few hours before a scheduled fight to announce he wasn't feeling up to par. That was in March, 1955, when he was booked to meet Georgie Small in Boston.

Nothing New

These delaying tactics are nothing new to the unpredictable veteran. He has used so many different excuses that he must sit up nights trying to devise new ones.

Here are just a few of the postponements, cancellations, and just no-show affairs in which he was involved:

July, 1950—Fined $1,000 by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission for failing to meet Jose Basora.

November, 1949 — New Haven bout canceled. Claims injured shoulder.

Named Baseball's Coordinator

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—William DeWitt, assistant general manager of the New York Yankees, was selected to the newly created office of baseball coordinator today.

He will administer funds set aside by the major leagues to help the financially troubled minors.

DeWitt's appointment was announced by John Quinn of the Milwaukee Braves, chairman of a special committee to work on the major-minor aid fund.

The 16 major league clubs have anted up an original ½ million dollars to set the program in action.

NCAA Blasted For TV Control

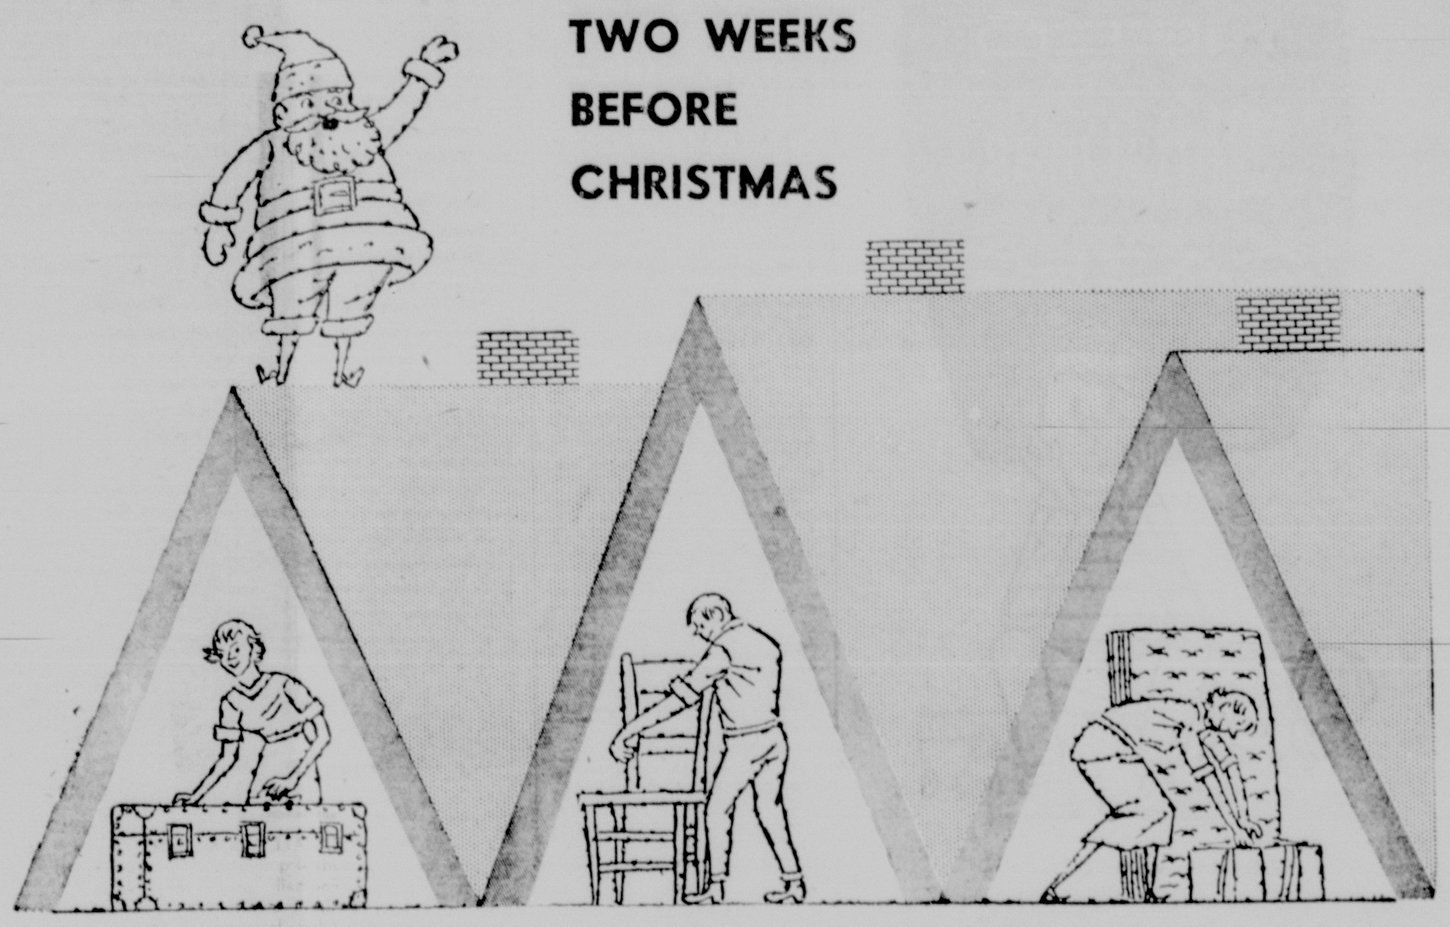

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Big Ten athletic publicity directors today blasted the NCAA for "creating an undesirable monopolistic control of football television."

Kicking off the annual winter meetings of the conference, the publicity men unanimously agreed to recommend to the athletic directors that they present a "strong resolution" to the NCAA convention in St. Louis next month for limiting NCAA control of football TV.

Eagles Ink Peaks For 1957 Season

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7 (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles announced today the signing of Clarence (Hi) Peaks, 20, Michigan State back who was the National Football League club's first draft choice this year.

Vince McNally, Eagle general manager, made a flying trip to East Lansing, Mich., and signed the star Negro breakaway back.

Inspection Team To Visit ESSTC

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7—A survey of the plant facilities at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will be conducted Monday by a team of four state educators appointed by the Department of Public Instruction.

The purpose of the survey is to inspect the physical plant, review the possibilities of expansion and examine the need for new buildings.

Report

The team's report to the Department of Public Instruction will indicate which important facilities are lacking and whether requests for further building and expansion are justified.

Members of the survey team are Dr. Lewis Rathgeber, of the Department of Public Instruction; Dr. George A. McCormick, superintendent of schools, Norristown; Dr. Medill Bair, supervising principal, Pennsburg Joint Schools; and Jesse N. Roeder, superintendent of schools, Palmerton.

Training Program

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (AP) — The Manufacturers' Guild of Toronto has announced it will subsidize a plan to train Hungarian refugees who want to learn garment industry crafts.

Sales Of Christmas Seals Running Slightly Behind Comparable Period Last December

CHRISTMAS SEAL sales are running slightly behind last year's returns, the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society reported yesterday.

This year's total to date is $7,376.60, which is still $4,123.40 short of the $11,500 goal. The returns are from 4,127 letters.

For the comparable period a year ago, returns totaled $7,552.42, TB Society records show. While this is only $275.82 more than received to date in the current drive, society spokesmen pointed out that Christmas Seals had been mailed to 900 more homes this year than last, and an increase rather than a decrease in receipts was expected.

Christmas Seals provide the society with its only means of support during the year. The money contributed locally is devoted to the organization's continuing fight against tuberculosis.

This program covers chest x-ray surveys for county residents at regular intervals, chest surveys for food handlers, x-raying of pregnant women, chest x-rays for school seniors, athletes and faculty members, cooperating with the Medical Society in chest x-ray surveys in diagnosis when the patient is unable to pay, and placing the mobile unit at two local industries which require chest x-ray surveys during general physical examination of employes.

Store Supplies Inflater Squads

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP)—A big London toy store is supplying squads of balloon inflaters for breathless party-givers at Christmas time.

"Thousands of balloons are blown up each holiday season," said the store's spokesman. "Unquestionably this is a troublesome chore. We're doing something about it this year"

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, substract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. A numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your name.

Ronson Means 'Tomorrow's Lighter Today' For Millions Of Users Around The World

Top Quality Product, Performance Give Ronson World Leadership

"TOMORROW'S LIGHTER TODAY" best conveys the attitude of millions toward Ronson lighters.

Because a Ronson is looked upon in this way, its slogan — "World's Greatest Lighter" — has long ago graduated from an advertising phrase to an accepted fact.

By occupying this lofty perch in the minds of people all over the world for over a quarter century, the corporation has become the world's leading producer of cigarette lighters.

Reputations as unique as this do not happen by mere chance. Ronson has earned this international leadership in the lighter field through top quality product and performance. A Ronson lighter combines reliability and precision, beauty, styling, and fashion, and rich jewel-like feel and look.

Evidence that a Ronson is "tomorrow's lighter today" is found in such exciting new lighters as the "new look" Essex and Capri ultra modern silhouettes . . . the patented "Swivel Base" that makes Ronson the world's easiest filling lighter . . . the handsome, sleek Adonis line . . . the fashionable table lighters, like Royal Crown Derby, Decor, Fleetwood, Nordic, Fantasy, and many others.

Resricted Field

Until 1950 Ronson had been engaged almost exclusively in the production of cigarette and cigar lighters and lighter accessories. Its lighters include numerous types for every taste and need, ranging in price from $3.95 to as much as $200.

Ronson quality of workmanship and materials has always been maintained at the highest possible level. As a result, the Ronson trademark for many years has been a symbol of precision workmanship and reliability of performance. The corporation not only turns out top quality products, but also backs them up with service. Today there are 16 Ronson service subsdiaries covering all the major areas in the country.

Outdoor Windlite

Ronson's increasing sales leadership in the lighter industry can be credited in part to the success of the relatively new "Windlite" in the less-than-five dollar market.

The Ronson "Windlite" is designed for outdoor use, featuring an effective windshield of exclusive design. In addition, it has a large fuel capacity and removable base for easy filling, with a self-expanding rubber gasket for sealing in the fluid.

This model has contributed, along with other new Ronsons, in racking up domestic lighter sales that for the first half of 1956 are approximately 10 per cent ahead of 1955.

The corporation's product research and development division is persistently seeking out new and more exciting lighter styles and models to meet new trends in consumer demand. In 1957, Ronson lighter sales should be further aided by the efforts of this section of the corporation, when important new lighter models will be introduced.

The new Delaware Water Gap plant and the radically new products, along with the attractive modern designs and varied forms of the latest Ronson line, should increase sales to new high.

Personal Gifts

For years Ronson lighters have ranked among the most popular personal gift items. Surveys consistently indicate that Ronsons are among the top three choices of gift buyers—for birthdays, Christmas, anniversaries, graduations, wedding gifts, and other gift occasions. Millions have come to accept the fact that a Ronson effectively solves most any personal gift-giving problems.

Business management throughout the United States and abroad utilize Ronsons to meet business gift-giving obligations. As a consequence, the corporation's industrial and business gift division has rapidly evolved into a major business-getter.

The phenomenal world-wide acceptance of a Ronson is dramatically attested to, when surveys reveal that a Ronson lighter ranks second behind a Coke bottle in recognition tests. These tests were conducted throughout the United States and in many countries of the world.

Ronson features the greatest array and selection of pocket and purse and table lighters ever marketed by one company, in the history of the industry. There is a Ronson for every possible personal need, ranging from the Windlite lighter for rugged outdoor use to the distinctively fashioned Capri and elegant Essex for men and women.

Table Sets

For every room in the house, there is a suitable Ronson table lighter, from the individual lighter to a complete set—lighter, ash tray and cigarette boxes or urns. Among the individual table lighters are the fashionable Ronson Nordic, Fleetwood, Decor, Royal Crown Derby, Trophy, and Colony.

Distinctive Ronson table lighter sets include: the Crown, Queen and Scandia sets. In addition, there is a Ronson table lighter for the office and den.

Included in the versatile line of Ronson lighter products are such specialty items as lighter and cigarette case combinations for men and women. Among these are the Adonis Cigarette Case Set, the popular "His & Hers" set of matching Essex and Capri lighters, and the Ronson "Smart Set," consisting of an Adonis lighter, with smartly styled and matching tie-clasps and cuff links.

Besides the inherent quality and precision workmanship of the Ronson lighter, its world-wide recognition and acceptance is also due to the corporation's consistent advertising campaign over the past quarter of a century. Ronson has invested in advertising in all major media: newspapers, magazines, radio, television, and trade publications.

Dramatic Series

This October, Ronson embarked upon its biggest television advertising campaign in its history. This drive kicked off with sponsorship by the corporation of "Playhouse 90," a 90-minute dramatic series, bringing to more than 30 million Americans what critics call the best in dramatic plays, on Thursday evenings of each week.

"Playhouse 90" advertising is powerfully supplemented by heavy 4-color Ronson promotion in the nation's leading consumer magazines. This gigantic advertising drive is already pushing the sale of Ronson products to new highs.

RONSON POCKET LIGHTERS featuring the exclusive, patented "Swivel Base" make them the world's easiest lighters to fill. As shown, just flip open the base . . . fuel with "Ronsonol" . . . snap swivel base shut . . . and light up!

RONSONOL is an accepted trade-name wherever Ronson cigarette lighters are sold. It's the world's largest selling lighter fluid. Ronsonol does not have the unpleasant benzine odors of many other lighter fluids.

Park On Island

ISLAND PARK, located between the Lackawanna Railroad station and the New Jersey shore, was a heavily partonized amusement center at Delaware Water Gap from 1890 until 1936. Swimming was a major attraction and the park boasted nearly 200 bath houses for the accommodation of visitors.

Products Serviced By Ronson

FOR THE convenience of owners of Ronson lighters and electric shavers, Ronson Corporation maintains 16 service subsidiaries and branches throughout the United States.

Service activity for Ronson is headed up by Harold J. Block, service manager.

Each of the corporation's service branches and subsidiaries is staffed with skilled factory - trained technicians. These stations are equipped to offer complete and efficient service on all Ronson products —pocket and purse lighters, table lighters, and Ronson Electric Shavers for men and women.

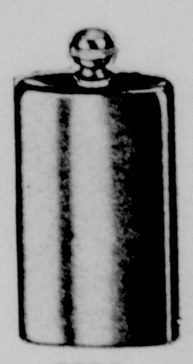

Service subsidiaries are located in Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Los Angeles, Newark, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Seattle.

Dates Back To 1793

THE SETTLEMENT which is now the incorporated borough of Delaware Water Gap was hewn from dense forest in 1793 by Anthony Dutot, a cultured, wealthy Frenchman. The town was first called Dutotsburg.

RONSON through the years...

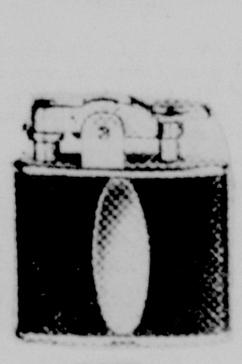

Think back to 1919, when the first Ronson Lighter appeared. "Wonderliter" is was called, and a wonder it was! This first Ronson was the forerunner of a whole procession of constantly improved Ronsons that make up what is now the largest selling line of lighters in the world.

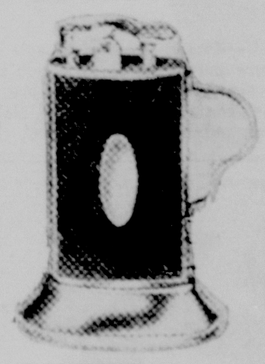

1919. Wonderliter—first advertised.

RONSON

SID COHEN, Quality Control Manager, holds a mechanical engineering degree from Pratt Institute (1949), and a Master's degree in industrial engineering from New York University (1954). Born in 1928 in Brooklyn, Mr. Cohen joined Ronson five years ago, after working as a machinist, research engineer, quality control engineer and process engineer. He started with Ronson as a methods engineer and developed, among other things, the assembly line methods that are being used in the Delaware Water Gap plant today. Mr. Cohen was promoted to quality control manager in 1954, and in this capacity has responsibility for the high quality of all Ronson lighters sold in the United States. The youngest Delaware Water Gap executive is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the American Society of Quality Control.

Ronsonol Is World Leader In Sales Of Lighter Fluid

RONSONOL IS NOW the world's largest selling lighter fluid. And no wonder—Ronson's development of a special formula eliminates the unpleasant benzine odor marking most other lighter fluids. Passe is the sealed lead spout, which has been replaced by a patented switch spout that automatically opens when in an upright position.

Ronson Flints and Ronsonol Fluid today are used in overwhelming volume by owners of every type of lighter throughout the world. Their sales account for a substantial share of overall company sales and are continuing their steady yearly growth independent of lighter sales or general economic conditions.

All lighter flints are manufactured synthetically by a process developed in 1880, by Baron Aver von Walsbach of Austria, who also invented the Thorium gas mantle.

World War I cut off supplies of flints to the United States. Result was the formation of an American company in 1915 to produce lighter flints by the Welsbach method. World War II caused another flint shortage, and several American companies entered the field.

Ronson Leads U. S. Production

Today, only a few companies manufacture flints throughout the United States and Ronson's New Process plant is by far the largest of these.

Cerium, or misch metal, is the main ingredient of lighter flints. Until 1946, all flints were made by the cast method, as they had been in Europe, which gave the flint a distinct ridge on one side and required a substantial amount of machining and careful inspection. In 1946, New Process invented and patented a seamless casting tube which produced a truly round flint. However, these flints still needed grinding and inspection to control quality.

New Extrusion Process

The company in 1954, obtained from a German firm license rights to a U.S. patent on semi-automatic extrusion of rods which are cut into lighter flints. This new extrusion process has increased production capacity and improved quality. The company also makes many other types of flints, sold under the "Liberty" trade name, which are used for lighters, welding torches, blow torches, and many other applications.

SEYMOUR RAPPAPORT is Ronson's youthful product stylist, responsible for many of the new lighter designs coming off the company's production lines today. He has been with the firm's Product Styling Department since joining Ronson in 1949. Mr. Rappaport, 31, was born in Perth Amboy, N. J. After graduating from the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts, he served with the U. S. Navy Pacific Fleet from 1943 to 1946. He is a member of the Designers Guild of New Jersey and is currently in Italy with his wife, where he is studying art and design. Mr. Rappaport's studies on the Continent should be invaluable in the styling of Ronson's future products.

Fourth Course Built At Gap

THE FOURTH golf course in the United States was the one laid out in the early 1890s by C. C. Worthington for the Brodhead people, who operated the Kittatinny Hotel at Delaware Water Gap.

In 1924, a second one was built in the community when the Wolf Hollow Country Club was formed. The Eastern Open Championship Tournament was played on the Wolf Hollow course seven years in succession dating from 1930.

The 12th hole was named Walter Hagen's Folly for it was there that he "blew up" in a tournament play, taking a 13 score on the hole.

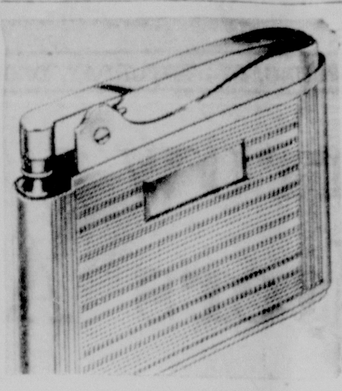

Eighth Wonder

Capri And Essex Pocket Lighters Among Most Popular Of Ronson Models

NOT ONLY is there a Ronson lighter for every personal need and occasion . . . and for every room in the house . . . but there is even a Ronson to fit most any desired price range—from a $3.95 Ronson Windlite to this beautiful 14K gold Ronson Adonis, priced at $200 (plus tax)!

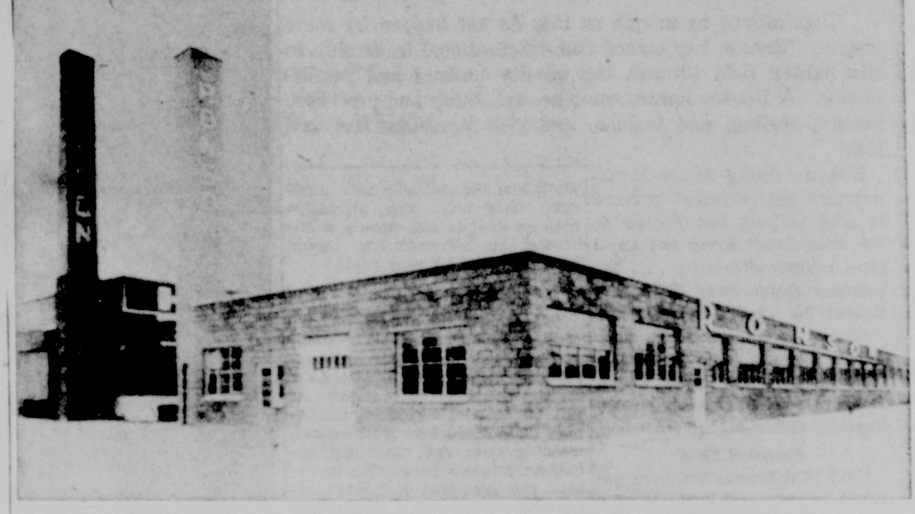

ESSEX—The Ronson Essex represents the new-look in lighters, showing sleek styling and modern silhouette. The Essex lighters feature the last word in elegance and fashion, and feature the new easy-fill "Swivel Base" that makes possible "snap-open-snap shut" fueling. The Essex comes in seven styles: Top, left to right: engraved design, genuine brown lizard, tortoise, engraved design. Left: gold plate in engraved design.

AS GENERAL MANAGER of New Process Metals, Inc., Isadore S. Hirschhorn is responsible for the production of more than 70 percent of the lighter flints manufactured in the United States. For of the handful of companies manufacturing flints in the U. S., this Ronson subsidiary is by far the largest, and the only one to also do a sizeable business in other products made from rare earth metals. Mr. Hirshhorn has steadily guided the growth of New Process since he was appointed general manager in 1950, after a one year tenure as the company's technical director. Mr. Hirshhorn came to Ronson after an extensive teaching career at Drew University and Madison High School. He has also been a chemical engineer at Hercules Powder Co. During World War II, Mr. Hirschhorn was a V.H.F. electronics instructor at an American Air Force technical training center. The 41-year-old native of Prague, Czechoslovakia, holds a Masters degree from Columbia University, and also studied at New York University, the University of Wisconsin, and State Teachers' College, Montclair, N. J. He is a member of the Chemists Club, the American Chemical Society, the Electrochemical Society, and the American Society for Metals. Mr. Hirschhorn is married and has a son, Robert E., and a daughter, Susan B.

THIS MODEST RONSON plant at Cologne, West Germany, was purchased this year as a Continental subsidiary of Ronson Products, Ltd., England. The plant, under the management of R. Allen Forrest, produces Ronson lighters and accessories. Most of the parts are supplied by the English parent company.

RONSON ART Metal Works Ltd., Toronto, Canada, produces lighters and accessories for the growing Canadian market. A new plant site has been acquired for this 25-year-old subsidiary, and a new 32,000-square-foot plant for producing shavers as well as lighters will be completed in 1957.

Many Testimonials For Ronson Goods

UNSOLICITED testimonial letters endorsing Ronson products—electric shavers and lighters—come in the mail daily to Ronson Corporation executive offices at 31 Fulton St., Newark, N. J.

While it is little known that the corporation receives thousands of such letters over the years, these communications continuously confirm how well regarded Ronson products are among American consumers.

"On my desk I have a Ronson 'Senator' which bears the date 1953. This lighter was given to me by our druggist and was filled one time with lighter fluid. Since its receipt, it has been used for a total of almost three years on that one filling and though I do not smoke, it has been used daily by my patients. Now in my estimation this is a remarkable record, and it is small wonder the flame is a little reduced in size by now; but if this does seem to be an indication of the excellence of Ronson lighters, let me point out that this same lighter went through a fire in this office in 1954 . . . It probably seems strange to have a non-smoker so enthusiastic over Ronson lighters, but watching this lighter day after day continue to function in spite of lack of filling and the fire makes me feel that Ronson is a definitely superior product . . .", Reynolds L. Emerson, M.D., Brentwood, Mo.

* * * * *

"About three years ago I was given a Ronson Whirlwind lighter as a gift. I would like to express my appreciation to you for the fine and dependable service it has given me . . .", John T. Myers, Yonkers, N. Y. . . . "I have a lighter about 2½ ~~years~~ old that accidentally I threw into the washing machine in the pocket of some coveralls. They went through the entire automatic washing process and when I found it in the pocket and removed it, it worked better than it has for months and I could light it immediately. I thought this was really something . . .", Mrs. Dorothy Clemens, San Rafael, Calif.

* * * * *

"May I thank you and your company for the wonderful Ronson Whirlwind that I was able to purchase and have never regretted. I am proud to tell every one that I come in contact with about your product . . .", Calvin Kaul, New Orleans.

* * * * *

"I am writing to congratulate you in a fine lighter put out by your company, Ronson's 'Triumph.' During a 23-inch snowfall, I lost my lighter in a drift. Two and a half days later I found it lying in snow and water. I flicked it and it immediately gave a flame much to my surprise, and has been working excellently to this day . . .", Roger Coulambe, Fall River, Mass. . . . "I was a flood victim, water over three feet in my home. Four days later I fished my Ronson 'Adonis' lighter out of mud, washed it off and filled it (with 'Ronsonol', of course!) and it lit at once and is working perfectly . . .", Mrs. Phyllis Hancock, San Francisco, Calif.

* * * * *

"I am the proud owner of your Ronson 'Windlite' lighter, it is without doubt in my opinion the finest and most dependable lighter made today . . . While duck hunting I recovered my lighter in six inches of water. After shaking it a couple of times, it lit at the first turn of the wheel. I know from this experience I have a lot of dependable service coming from this lighter . . .", Sherill T. Coats, Coats, N. C.

What They Say About Ronson Shavers

"Not until I bought a Ronson did I find a shaver that really gave me a close shave, and last week I bought a Ronson '66', now I have a shaver that does everything a shaver could do and more . . .", Otto C. Falck, Layfayette, Ind. . . . "I have used a Ronson in my barber shop for nine months, and find it wonderful for myself and the customers . . .", William DeZern, Alexandria, Va.

* * * * *

"I have used it to date with excellent results, taking into consideration I shave daily and have a tough stubby beard, which is hardly visible yet very rough. This is without doubt the finest shaver I have ever used . . .", Michael Denyko, Des Moines, Iowa. . . . "There is no comparison between the new Ronson '66' and any other shaver. Its effectiveness is beyond description. I have tried them all. The last was a - - - - - - but took it back in a few days. I can shave in 2/3 the usual time . . . my shave is as close as with a safety . . .", Raymond Baden, Hamilton, Ohio . . . "Received the Ronson '66' Shaver and am delighted with it. I can shave quicker and closer than I can with my - - - - -", Edgar W. Earle, Madrid, N. Y.

* * * * *

"I am 61 years old and used an old style razor until last December . . . I got a Ronson and have been using it every day. It sure gives a clean shave. I am so sold on it that I am not taking any chances, so I got another Ronson . . . A Ronson is the best there is . . .", Hugh Wilkersan, Terre Haute, Ind. "When you use a good product, a person can't help writing about it. That goes without saying about your lighters, too . . ." Werner Weuckrong, Chicago.

* * * * *

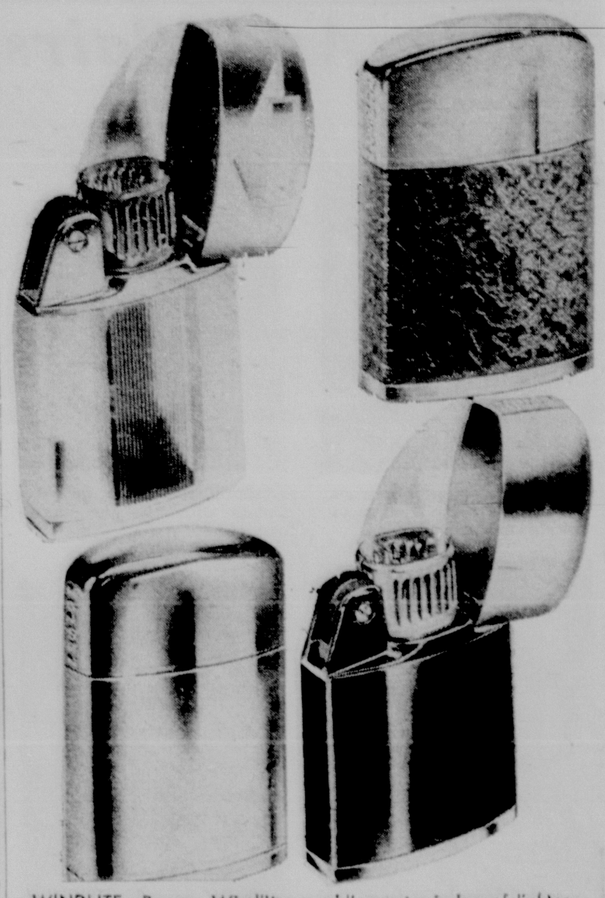

"I am so enthused about the Ronson that I just had to sit down and tell you what a tremendous shaver I think it is . . . it is the finest on the market . . .", Dallas Baird, Canton, Ohio . . . "Have been using another type of electric shaver for years, but Ronson beats them all. I got the smoothest, closest shave, and it is wonderful . . .", Fred Cowern, Marlboro, Mass.

JOHN P. FERGUSON is the Supervisor of Buildings for the entire Ronson organization. He has been spending two to three days each week in East Stroudsburg since the acquisition of the Delaware Water Gap site in August of 1955. His function here is supervision of new plant construction. In addition, he is responsible for all alterations and additions to all company buildings as well as the co-ordination, relocation and installation of new equipment.

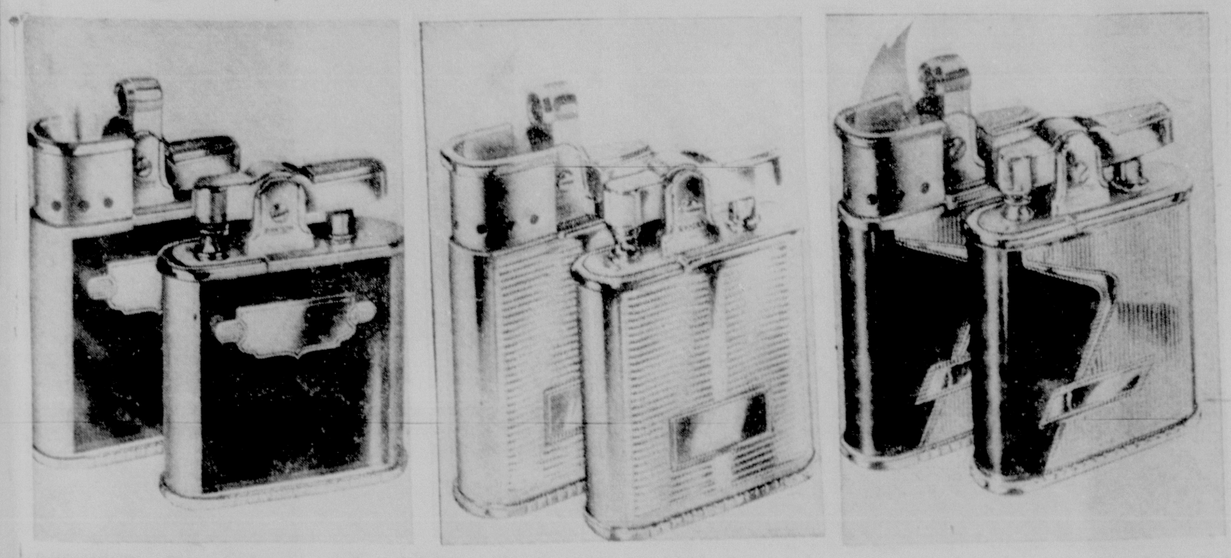

He started with Ronson in Newark in 1947 as an electrician. Later he became Maintenance Foreman and in 1954 was advanced to Supervisor of Buildings. He joined Ronson after accumulating eight years experience as an electrician and a service man for electronic equipment with Western Electric.

John is married, the father of two children, and lives in Clifton, N. J. His chief outside interest is pistol and rifle target shooting, at which he is quite adept.

Gap Formation Scene Of Beauty

DELAWARE Water Gap is the name given the section where the Delaware River flows between Mt. Minsi and Mt. Tammany of the Kittatinny Range in the Blue Mountains.

Geologists offer various explanations for this "traverse dislocation," as they term it. Some believe the Kittatinny Ridge once was the shore of a vast lake, the waters of which broke through at this point.

RONSON

Good products have a way of outgrowing their birthplace, and RONSON lighters are no exception. Once again the old adage, "if you build a better mousetrap, etc." is proven, only in this case it happens to be a "better lighter."

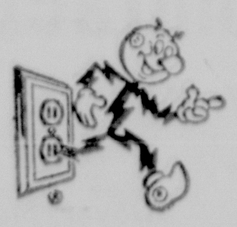

We offer our congratulations to the RONSON organization as they move into their new 100,000 square foot headquarters at Delaware Water Gap. It will be the largest and most modern production center of lighters in the world.

In the past ten years your electric company has spent $15,000,000 in the Stroudsburg-Easton area for improved and enlarged service facilities.

The new Portland Generating Station now under construction is evidence of our faith in the Northern Delaware River Valley. The cost of the first 165,000 KW unit will be more than $25,000,000.

Because of this continuing program of planning and building, MECO is ready to serve RONSON and other new or expanding industries with plenty of low cost electric power . . . and to aid in the development of new uses of that power for product betterment and increased production.

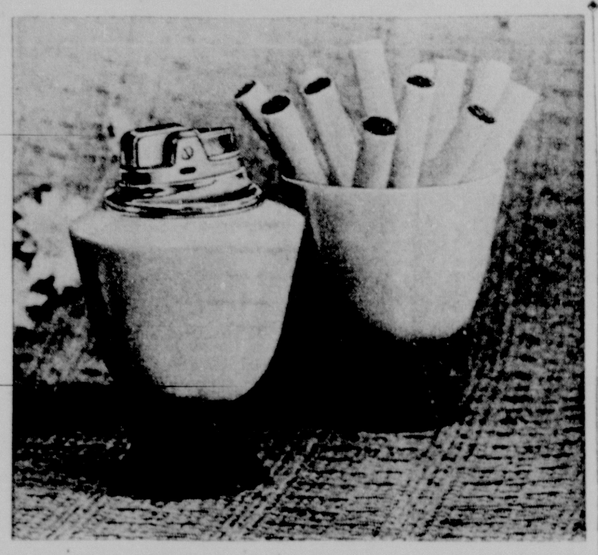

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we welcome RONSON to their new location in to MECOLAND.

We are "Experts to the Experts"

Everything which goes into the moving parts of a RONSON LIGHTER must add up to a full precision instrument.

This is the reason, we assume, why the spiral springs of delicate steel spring wire which go into every lighter at the Ronson plant comes from the plant of the Orange Spring Company.

Orange has specialized for many years in the manufacture of small springs using wire diameters from .010" to .072". We are experts particularly in producing helical compression, barrelshape, conical and all types of extension springs.

Our Hearty Congratulations

It's very simple!

They make a lighter that really works.

And it has become so popular that they have now expanded into a new building that gives them ten times the space they had previously.

We congratulate them on their new building. We hope they outgrow it soon. And we hope they'll choose us again next time—to do the plumbing and heating in the new one!

Six Features Make Ronson 66 Shaver Fastest Seller

Supertrim One Of Many Advances In Design Found Exclusively On 'Complete' Ronson 66

NAMED THE "Ronson 66" because its exclusive design is actually ten years ahead of its time, Ronson's new shaver has been hailed as the only "complete" electric shaver on the market.

A major advance has been the exclusive "Supertrim" feature which accurately squares-up sideburns, clips mustaches,— trims beards, and neatly disposes of the most elusive neck hairs. Engineered for a long, trouble-free life the "Ronson 66" operated faultlessly throughout laboratory tests which were equivalent to thirteen years of service before it was introduced to the public this year.

And the public's response has been overwhelming. Ronson's 40,000-square-foot Stamford, Conn., shaver plant has been turning out thousands of shavers every week to keep up with the demand. The outlook for 1957, when the Stamford plant will be running at full capacity for a twelve-month period, is even better.

RONSON "66" ELECTRIC SHAVER—Ronson's "66" electric shaver for men. Features "Super Trim", which effectively shaves wiry, every-which-way whiskers and all those fine, wispy hairs ordinary shavers can't get at. "Super Trim" actually cuts in a perfect straight line, trimming sideburns and moustaches with master-barber precision and finesse. The "66" features micro-thin, flexible power-glide shaver head—world's thinnest shaving head, meaning the closeset, quickest, cleanest shaves ever. Other features: power cleaning (by snapping off head and flicking on the switch); self-sharpening, lubricated for life; and really quiet. Also it causes no radio or TV interference.

Best Designed Head

According to Beverly B. Bond, vice president of the Ronson Corporation and the Ronson Electric Shaver Corporation, the following six features have made the "Ronson 66" the fastest selling electric shaver in America.

First, it has the best designed shaving head of any shaver.

Fourth, the shaver is the only one which is self-cleaning. The head plate is easily removed, the power turned on, and it simply shakes out all the cut hair.

Fifth, it is the only shaver that will not interfere with other delicate mechanisms such as radio and TV sets, radar and gyrocompasses, on the same electrical circuit.

Sixth, marked improvements have been effected with the hand gripping surface and the cord connection. All materials included in the shaver are the finest obtainable. The plastic tenite, body of the shaver is virtually unbreakable and all tolerances are held to 2/1000 of an inch.

Lady Ronson

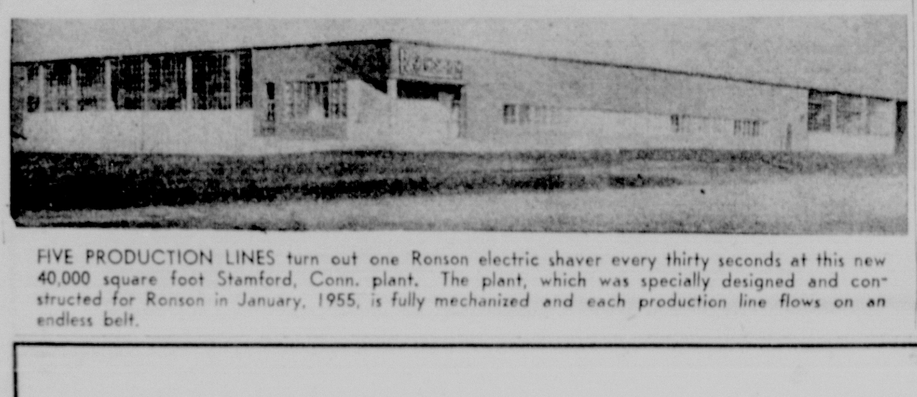

"Lady Ronson comes up to the same high standards of quality as the "Ronson 66", the major difference being that it does not have the Supertrim feature.

"Lady Ronson's" special head is ingeniously designed to permit super-smooth shaving on the side marked "for legs" and a very gentle yet close shave on the side marked "for underarms." The "Lady Ronson" shavers come in four colors—turquoise pink, blue-heaven and desert yellow—and are adorned with a stunning rhinestone.

Among the other features of this new "personal appliance" for women are its quiet operation lack of annoying vibration, sealed-in lubrication, cool and comfortable "feel", and wide head which facilitates quicker shaves.

NEW LADY RONSON Electric Shaver — offers American women the new, luxurious way to feminine good-grooming. It features two cutting sides — one "for legs"; another "for underarms." Lady Ronson prevents nicks and scrapes, giving super-smooth, safe, gentle, yet close shaves. Elegant looking in Turquoise, Blush Pink, Blue Heaven, and Black Magic color selections, each adorned with a brilliant-cut rhinestone. Each Lady Ronson comes luxuriously packaged, with a practical storage drawer for cord and brush. Other features: quietest ladies' shaver ever; no vibration; convenient finger-tip design. Lady Ronson Electric Shavers are popular as self-purchases as well as for gifts.

FIVE PRODUCTION LINES turn out one Ronson electric shaver every thirty seconds at this new 40,000 square foot Stamford, Conn. plant. The plant, which was specially designed and constructed for Ronson in January, 1955, is fully mechanized and each production line flows on an endless belt.

TO BEVERLY B. BOND, vice president of the Ronson Corporation and the Ronson Electric Shaver Corporation, go the thanks of every really smooth-shaven man in the United States. For it is Mr. Bond, 56-year-old dynamic chief of Ronson's Electric Shaver Division, who was responsible for making the ideal shaver—the Ronson "66"—a production reality. It was he who took the original Braun shaver, planned and piloted the huge Stamford, Conn. shaver plant that has produced the finest shaving instrument of our times. Mr. Bond came to Ronson in 1954 after 26 years with Remington Rand, where he was a senior vice president in charge of production for all domestic and foreign plants. Previously, he was an engineer for E. I. DuPont and Autolite Corporation. During World War II, Mr. Bond was the general manager of the Sangamon Ordnance plant, one of the ammunition plants in the United States. He is a member of the American Ordnance Association, Shore Haven Golf Club, and the Norwalk Rod and Gun Club. A licensed amateur radio operator for 36 years, Mr. Bond—who also plays "a fair game" of golf and is an ardent fisherman and hunter—likes to relax by talking to fellow "hams" all over the world on the high-powered short-wave radio station he has installed in his home. The Bonds have one son, a 26-year-old ex-Marine now studying for his Masters degree at Florida University.

KENYON W. J. JONES, Managing Director of Ronson Products, Ltd., London, England, is vice president of the Ronson Corporation in charge of the English operations. Mr. Jones has ably served as managing director of Ronson Products, Ltd. since he joined the organization in 1950. He is a graduate of Oxford University where he was a star rugby player on the Oxford varsity team. Mr. Jones has served the Military Intelligence in Egypt throughout World War II, and also served with distinction at the Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Forces (SHAEF) under General Eisenhower. Before coming to Ronson, Mr. Jones was associated with Lever Brothers. Mr. Jones is married and has one daughter.

TWO NEW RONSON accessory products recently marketed—Ronson "Fire-Starter", igniting fuel for barbecues and log fires. Ronson "Pre-Shave Lotion", for use before electric shaving.

THIS SPRAWLING 100,000-foot Ronson plant at Leatherhead, Surrey, England, was expanded in 1955, and is now one of the largest contributors to Ronson's overall sales total. Ronson Products, Ltd. was first established in the late 1920s. Today, it manufacturers electric shavers as well as lighters and lighter accessories. Its managing director, Kenyon Jones, was recently named a vice president of the parent American company.

FORMER MAIN Ronson manufacturing plant at Aronson Square, Newark, N. J., prior to the corporation consolidating operations in East Stroudsburg, Pa. in 1953. New Delaware Water Gap plant, with all manufacturing operations on one floor, relegates multi-storied manufacturing, as represented by the old Newark plant, to the passe' and inefficient in modern production thinking.

RONSON CORPORATION'S occupation of its new Delaware Water Gap plant makes it possible to abandon old, out-dated East Stroudsburg plants, such as is represented by this Spruce Street structure.

THE NEW PROCESS METALS, INC. plant pictured above is the largest producer of flints in the United States. Prior to World War II, it was the only American producer. In 1954, as a result, of the merger of Penn-alloys with New Process, the plant facilities were increased by 10,000 square feet. At the same time, the parent corporation provided funds for a research and development program.

KEEPING THE RONSON flame burning bright from Vancouver to Quebec, is Arthur B. Johnson, 34-year-old general manager of Ronson Art Metal Works, Ltd., of Toronto, Canada. Within a year Mr. Johnson will move the 26-year-old Canadian subsidiary to a new 32,000-square-foot plant which will assemble both lighters and shavers. Mr. Johnson joined Ronson's Toronto offices as an accountant in 1951, and rapidly progressed to positions as office manager, assistant general manager, and his present job as Ronson's top Canadian executive. Prior to his career at Ronson, Mr. Johnson, a graduate of the University of Toronto and a Certified Public Accountant, was with the tax division of the Provincial Government, a stock brokerage firm, and a private firm of certified public accountants. During World War II, he was a navigation officer in the Royal Canadian Air Force, Pathfinder Squadron, and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross in England, 1944. He is a member of the Certified Public Accountants' Association, Pathfinders' Club, and Progress Club of Toronto. Mr. Johnson is married and has three children.

Thousands Of Displays Boost Ronson

"DON'T HIDE your light under a bushel," might well be the motto of Ronson's display department which is charged with presenting the fine line of Ronson consumer products to the public.

Thousands of Ronson point-of-purchase displays are offered free or as part of "merchandise units" every year, according to Richard Rosengarten, who heads the display department.

These displays which are offered to drug stores, tobacco shops, jewelry stores, department stores, gift shops and other appropriate retail outlets. Displays range from simple cardboard advertisement reproductions to large permanent display showcases.

The display department is also responsible for creating, planning and setting up trade show display booths. These booths, which must attract dealers and distributors, have won two first prizes in recent years for Ronson, from the National Association of Tobacco Distributors, despite competition from such formidable competitors as the major cigarette manufacturers.

The New RONSON Factory In Delaware Water Gap

The name "Ronson," made famous because of its lighters and, more recently, shavers, is now moving into the largest Lighter Plant in the world!

While "Ronson Lighter" is a household word, new styles are constantly being added to an already long line — for example, the wafer-thin Adonis, with matching classic tie clasp and cuff links. The new "Ronson 66" shaver now features self contained . . . self cleaning, self sharpening and lifetime lubrication. Quite handsome, too!

New Ronson Delaware Water Gap Plant Lighter Center Of The World

Ronson Lighter Production Now Centralized In New Ultra Modern Delaware Water Gap Plant

Million Dollar Structure Provides Manufacturing And Warehouse Facilities

WITH THE opening of the giant new Ronson Delaware Water Gap plant, Monroe County now takes title as the largest lighter production center in the world, according to Louis V. Aronson, II, president of the Ronson Corporation.

The new structure, built at a cost in excess of $1,000,000 is located on a spacious, 55-acre park-like site in the Cherry Valley section of Monroe County. The new one-story building, constructed of brick and steel, provides over 110,000 square feet of production, warehousing, and administrative office space.

Featured in the new plant are the most ultra modern cigarette lighter manufacturing facilities, equipment, and production flow lines to be found anywhere in the industrial plants of the nation.

The building will centralize under one roof, all Ronson lighter production for pocket and table lighters. In addition, there is full provision for the complete packaging processes of the company's line of accessories, including Ronsonol lighter fluid (except filling), Ronson flints and wicks. Production and research facilities now available in the new plant have been designed specifically to meet the challenge of mounting demand for Ronson products.

Little Interruption

Ronson lighter production and accessories packaging are currently conducted in six widely separated East Stroudsburg plants and warehouses. On November 7, the move of warehouse facilities to the new quarters was started. The complete occupation of the new plant will be accomplished in a three month period, without any appreciable disturbance or interruption of production and other activities.

Of the new plant, Mr. Aronson said: "It gives us a great deal of pride that Ronson is now able to achieve the ultimate in lighter manufacturing facilities, as well as in working conditions for our employees. The new building will culminate modernization plans which we have had under development for two years."

Milton Pohl 30-year-old industrial engineer is the general manager of the new plant. Mr. Pohl joined Ronson eight years ago. Prior to his appointment as general manager of the Stroudsburg manufacturing operations, he had been assistant controller. In this post he played an important role in the big move from Newark to Stroudsburg three years ago.

Modern Working Conditions

The up-to-date aspects of the plant's equipment and facilities are matched dramatically with the provisions made for the comfort and well-being of Ronson's employees. The company takes special pride in the congenial atmosphere it creates for its employees.

Among the features advantageous to employees are a modern, fully appointed and well-equipped cafeteria that seats over 300 persons. Vending machines dispensing a variety of popular products will be conveniently located throughout the manufacturing, warehousing, and administrative working areas of the new plant.

An air-conditioned and fully-equipped dispensary has been provided for employees in the new building. Parking facilities adjoining the employee's entrance to the plant can handle 420 cars. In addition, a baseball field is contemplated. Full locker facilities have been provided for all Ronson employees.

Among many other employee advantages found in the new building, is the plant's close location to former company facilities, thus working no hardship on employees. The new plant will also be accessible by a new bus line, which is expected to be put into operation in 1957.

New Production Facilities

The new plant will house administrative offices and research and development facilities for lighters and accessories, in keeping with the increasing national demand for Ronson products. In the manufacturing sections, the latest equipment is being installed for metal finishing, plating and enameling. Included, for example, are new Swiss engine-turning machines, recently purchased by the company.

Other modern features of the new plant include:

1. A receiving department that can unload four trucks at one time, with a floating dock to accommodate trucks of any size.

2) An up-to-date industrial waste disposal system comprised of six neutralizing tanks with a total capacity of 8,000 gallons.

3) A 100,000-gallon water tower providing top fire protection service.

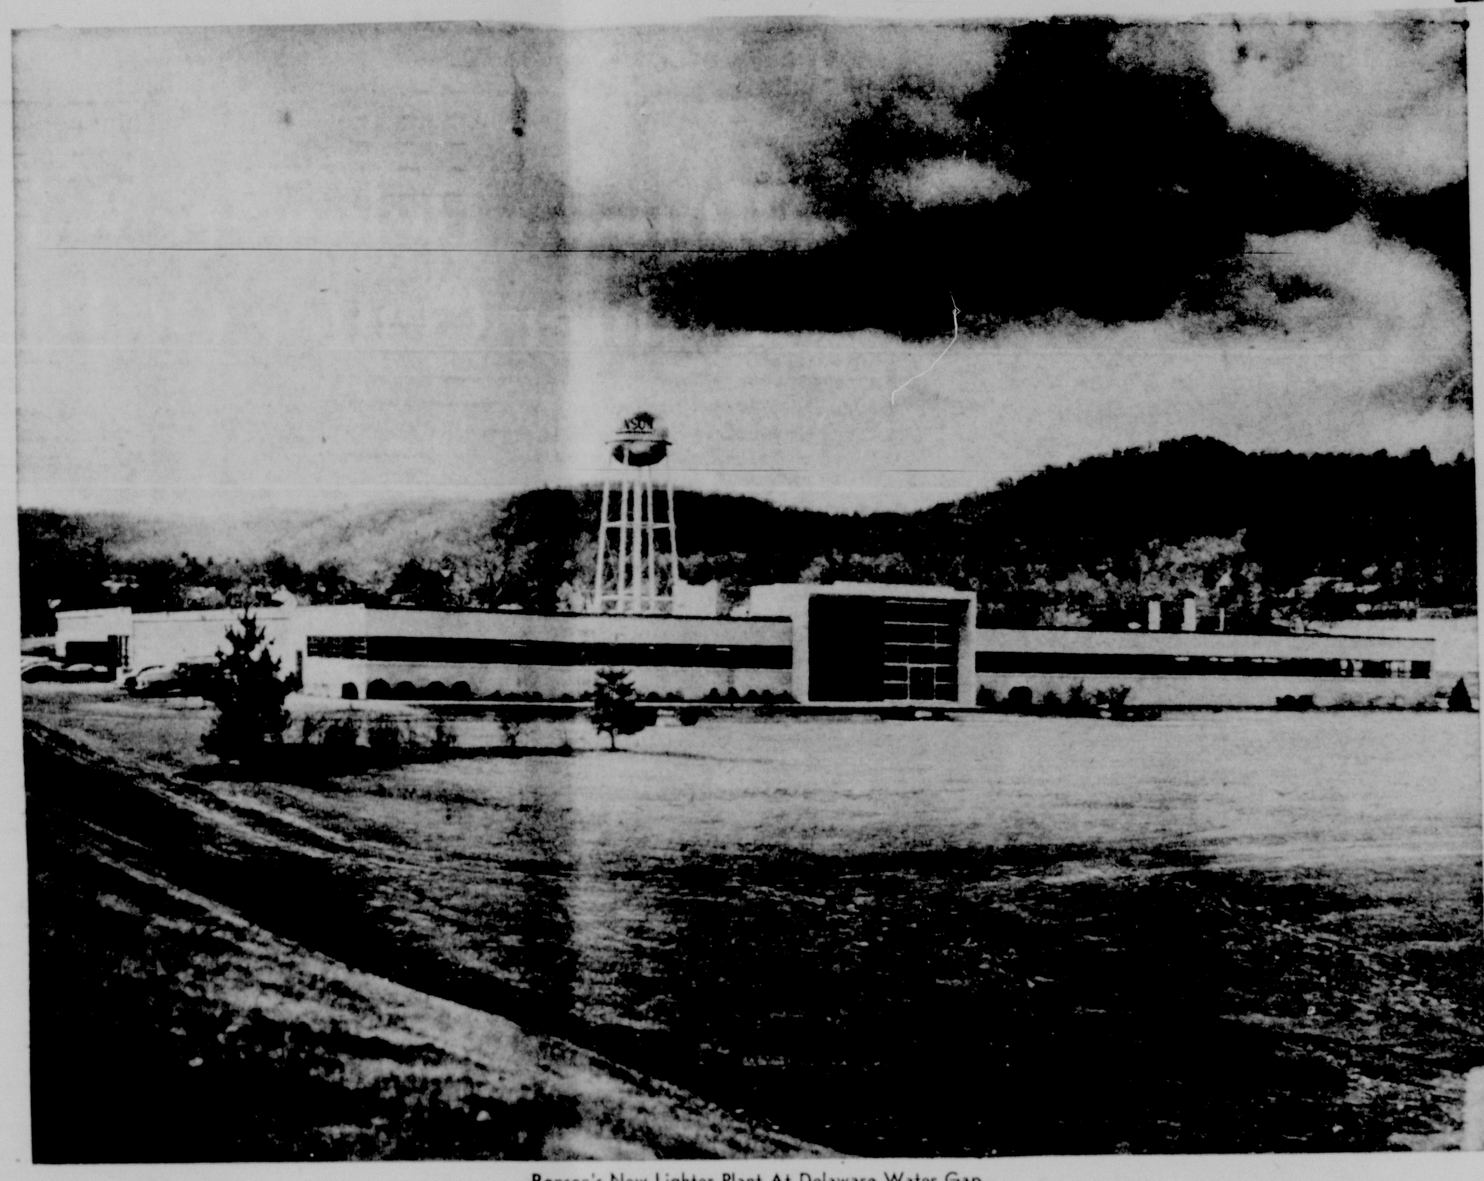

4) A modern heating and ventilating system, to provide top comfort for employees.

5) Highly mechanized soldering, polishing, and assembly lines.

7) Extra space has been provid-

Ronson's New Lighter Plant At Delaware Water Gap

National Park Would Center At Water Gap

A 12,000-ACRE national park with the Delaware Water Gap as its hub may become a reality someday.

The park has been endorsed by the Edison Pioneers, a group of persons who were associated with the late Thomas Edison and his son, Charles, former New Jersey Governor.

It would encompass 6,000 acres on the New Jersey side of the Delaware and 6,000 on the Pennsylvania side. The park would be developed by the Federal Government as a monument to the famed inventor, would be called "Edison National Park."

A former operator of the Penn-Stroud Hotel in Stroudsburg is the promoter of the plan—Walter von Broock, who was associated with both the Edisons.

Von Broock has won strong support of his proposed park. A roster of those who have endorsed the project is a who's who of national American scientific, industrial and educational leaders.

State groups have also backed the plan, including the four-state Interstate Commission on the Delaware Basin (Incodel.).

Von Broock thinks that such a park should include food services, shelter for camping and lodging, land and water sports and other recreational facilities, at least one big lake in each half of the park, as well as a large swimming pool on each half, a zoo, game preserve, bird sanctuary, museum, auditorium, amphitheater, police protection, fire and ranger service.

Trail Enters State At Gap

DELAWARE WATER GAP—The world-famous Appalachian Trail, stretching 2,050 miles from Mt. Katahdin, Me., to Ogelthorpe, Ga., enters Pennsylvania here.

A large granite slab with a bronze plate marks the beginning of the trail, stretching up the step side of Mt. Minsi, one of the highest points in the Blue Ridge Mts.

RONSON reaches into the future!

Louis V. Aronson, II, President, Ronson Corporation

It is gratifying to us all that after two years of planning and a year of construction, all personnel of the Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania are now crossing the threshold of our new lighter manufacturing plant—the world's largest and most modern.

From the outset, we of Ronson have had two basic objectives:

1. Improvement of manufacturing efficiency through the modernization of plant and equipment, and
2. Betterment of the working conditions in the plant for the Ronson employees.

This up-to-date 110,000 square foot building provides the framework for the fulfillment of these two objectives. The Delaware Water Gap plant has been designed to consolidate under one roof three separate manufacturing plants now located in East Stroudsburg. In this consolidation, manufacturing processes have been streamlined to provide a steady flow of production.

Where in the past we had two widely separated assembly departments, today we have one. Where in the past we had production on different floor levels, today it is all on one floor. Where in the past the wash and rest rooms were small and outmoded, and there was just no space left for eating facilities, today we have more than adequate rooms with a locker for each employee, as well as a modern cafeteria to feed 310 people at one sitting.

Furthermore, in the Spring, when the weather will permit, a baseball diamond will be completed on the northeast side of the new plant.

Briefly, the above indicates some of the improvements. But even with these, it is people who actually produce the result. People, whether they make management decisions or assemble lighters on a conveyor line should remind themselves, from time to time, of the aims behind their new building. By keeping these aims in sight, now and in the future, the company, its employees and the community in which they live will benefit.

In addition to the tens of millions of flint packages this new plant will produce, during the next five years alone we plan to produce in excess of twenty million lighters. These products will illustrate the quality of workmanship produced by the people of Monroe County, and the quality for which the Ronson name stands.

I feel the quality of workmanship and community relations which will be demonstrated in this new factory—along with other reasons—will in time encourage other industries to come to Monroe County.

As with all good things, there is always a proviso. Along with the growth of industry in Monroe County comes the responsibility of the community and of the companies within Monroe County to maintain cooperation and proper human relations with one another in order to make possible profitable manufacturing operations. For without these, growth is not possible.

We are proud to be the first manufacturer in over twenty-five years to build a large new factory in Monroe County. I am certain there will be more.

On behalf of the Board of Directors and myself, I wish to thank all who shared in the planning and construction of our new factory, and the employees and community itself—all of whom helped provide the incentive to construct the world's largest lighter factory.

State, Local Officials Congratulate Ronson On Completion Of New Plant

Gov. Leader Expresses State Pride

Gov. George M. Leader

PENNSYLVANIA takes pride in putting out the welcome mat for another Ronson plant in the Commonwealth. As Governor, I extend sincere congratulations for your many past achievements and best wishes for your continued success.

While we recently initiated a program to attract new industries to Pennsylvania, the growth and prosperity of our present industries continues to be of utmost importance. Their value to the State cannot be overemphasized—their expansion is constantly being encouraged.

You and many persons working together have made this newest Ronson plant possible. To all of you we are deeply grateful.

Sincerely yours,
Governor George M. Leader
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

GERRY BRODSKY, as Chief Purchasing Agent for the Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania, is responsible for the procurement of all components, supplies and services not manufactured at the Ronson plant. Mr. Brodsky, who holds bachelor's and master's degrees in mechanical engineering from Newark College of Engineering, has been associated with the Ronson organization since Aug., 1950. He was the plant engineer prior to assuming his present position. Mr. Brodsky is a member of the National Association of Purchasing Agents and Tau Delta Phi, fraternity. The 30 year old engineer served as a U. S. Navy electrical technician in the Pacific Theatre of Operations during World War II. The Brodsky's have two children a boy 3, and girl, 6.

Delaware Water Gap People Extend Sincere Welcome To Employes Of Ronson Corp.

ALL RESIDENTS of the Borough of Delaware Water Gap and surrounding communities extend a hearty welcome to the management and employees of the Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania as they prepare to move into the handsome and modern new plant in our midst.

We are highly pleased and flattered to think that Ronson Corporation, the world's foremost manufacturer of cigarette lighters, shavers and many other products, chose to concentrate all its production of lighters in the Delaware Water Gap plant.

Famed the world over for its scenic beauty and friendliness to tourists over the years, Delaware Water Gap welcomes the new industry as another mark of progress in stabilizing the economic welfare of our community and feel confident that the Ronson Corporation will continue its steady growth even as the Borough of Delaware Water Gap grows in size and importance.

Delaware Water Gap is also the home of another internationally known organization, the Fred Waring Enterprises, and we all know that our prosperity has expanded as the Waring fame has spread.

Further success seems assured for both Ronson and Waring, we feel confident, so we say the future looks bright indeed for Delaware Water Gap.

May your new plant prove profitable and, as the years pass, too small to accommodate the growing acceptance Ronson lighters will meet with the American public.

Congratulations to the entire Ronson Corporation on the opening of the new plant here. We pledge our cooperation in any way possible and look forward to Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania as a permanent resident of our community.

Pocono Area C Of C Lauds Forward Step

Keenly and profoundly, we of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce share with you and your colleagues the just pride and the very real and personal satisfaction that must be yours on this occasion.

Our pride is virtually as possessive as yours. You are one of us. Your milestone is our milestone. Your progress inevitably bears our progress. Your vision bolsters our confidence and is an unusual bloom of our inseparable aspirations. Your forward step, we like to believe, is exemplary of the very life of the Poconos.

However, the very repetition of the many facets of our pride merits them but passing mention: "largest industrial operation in the county" . . . "the first major construction since the 1955 flood" . . . "the county's biggest payroll" . . . "one of the most modern and efficient single-level installations in the East" . . . along with many other superlatives.

When the ever-increasing demands of the lighter industry ultimately made cumbersome and uneconomical your tri-plant operation in East Stroudsburg, you had been among us many years. You had for many years worked with our people and their various institutions, you had come to know our inadequacies as well as our resources, our drawbacks as well as our advantages, our failings as well as our facilities and fortes.

Against that background of promotion-proof knowledge a decision was being made. Already determined was the complete modernization program, taking literally the concrete form of a vast new plant in an entirely new location.

The cardinal decision then in the making revolved around two questions: (1) Should the new Ronson stay in the now familiar and accustomed-to Poconos? or (2) should Ronson move to the ever-apparent "greener pastures" that now beckoned from many corners of the Hemisphere?

Walter S. Peeney

You decided to cast your new lot with us; and that is one of the most significant reasons we point to the new Ronson with more pride than we could afford even a spanking new industry.

As we reflect on the events leading to this occasion, there is another source of pride that has more than the usual depth. At a time when the results of the disastrous flood of 1955 found their ultimates in fear, doubt, confusion, defeatism and actual retreat, you held firm to the moorings of your dream from which, as though blessed for your fate, there blossomed the greater fait accompli we now witness. The confidence you so restored among us has been immeasurable.

Lastly, there is a most significant and yet the least known, of the many facets of our enthusiasm. This great new structure represents not the end but rather the means. This is not the acme of progress—it is simply the launching. It is not the omega but rather the alpha of the alphabet of your industrial history.

This structure is simply the keystone of ever-growing, ever-expanding industry thriving compatibly in the picturesque Poconos where the grandeur and limitless vistas of new horizons are not unknown.

By your inspiration are we awakened to the realities of these new horizons. By your confidence, decision and election are we your proud compatriots on a high road to a new era of progress and promise. We salute you.

New Facilities Appreciated, Says Davlin

Secretary William R. Davlin

I am delighted, on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to congratulate you and your organization upon the completion of your new million dollar plant in Delaware Water Gap, near Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania. This outstanding addition to your manufacturing facilities is complimentary to your corporation and to Pennsylvania's growing industrial family.

Since your newest facility is not the first Ronson plant to be located in Pennsylvania we are, of course, cognizant of the economic benefits which your company provides for its employees, for the communities in which you have manufacturing operations, and for the Commonwealth. We want you to know that the jobs, payrolls and community citizenship of Ronson are sincerely appreciated and welcomed by all of us in the state government.

The continued sales growth of your products and your decision to locate another plant in Pennsylvania testify to the skill and productiveness of your employees—to the creative ability and foresighted planning of your technicians and management—and, above

Louis V. Aronson II Guides Ronson In Era Of Prosperous Expansion And Diversification

THE OPENING of the Delaware Water Gap plant marks another important milestone in the career of Louis V. Aronson, II, president of the Ronson Corporation.

For in the three short years that Mr. Aronson has been Ronson's chief executive officer, he has revitalized the 61-year-old company with a series of bold new projects that have boosted sales to a new high.

When Mr. Aronson was elected president at the annual stockholders meeting in 1953, he faced two major problems: the original basic patents on Ronson's famous "single motion" lighter mechanism had run out, and the U. S. market was being flooded by cheap domestic and Japanese imitations. Though the company was still the world's largest manufacturer of lighters and lighter accessories, Mr. Aronson saw an imediate need for new ideas and broader production plans.

With all the energy of his 33 years, he made seven important decisions which once again secured the company's leadership in the lighter field, and laid the foundation for future expansion and diversification.

Seven Decisions

Second, it was decided to centralize the policymaking, financial and sales phases of the company's business, but to decentralize manufacturing facilities and operational responsibility.

Third, a new policy of diversification—which had begun with the establishment of the Ronson Air Products Division in May, 1952—was expanded. Fourth, it was decided to add new models to the Ronson lighter line, and to patent all new features — such as the swivel base which makes it easier to refuel lighters.

Fifth, it was decided to have all manufacturing facilities completely modern to boost efficiency.

Seventh, it was decided to expand and diversify in fields where the Ronson name for precision products and service, both to the public and to the industry, could be used to the fullest advantage.

Company Enters New Fields

The most dramatic result of Mr. Aronson's new policies were Ronson's entry into the electric shaver field. In 1954, Mr. Aronson signed an agreement with the Braun Company, a West German firm for the manufacture and marketing rights to an electric shaver, developed and patented by them. In January, 1955, Mr. Aronson cut the tape on a specially designed shaver plant in Stamford, Conn., and Ronson began rolling out the famous shavers that have established a new standard in the industry.

As a further part of the company's diversification plan, Ronson purchased Hydraulic Units, Inc., of Pasadena, California. Hydaulic Units, Inc., producing hydraulic aircraft parts, complements Ronson's own Air Products Division, established 1952 in Newark. To complete Ronson's aircraft parts activities, the Ronson Hydraulic Units (N.C.) Corporation was reorganized and now occupies a new 21,000 square foot plant in Charlotte, N.C.

Consolidates Flint Production

The third outstanding event of Mr. Aronson's administration was the merger of Pennalloys with New Process Metals, Inc., consolidating all flint manufacture in the Newark plant of New Process. The facilities of this plant were increased by 10,000 square feet in 1954, and is now the principal manufacturer of lighter flints in the United States.

The opening of the new Delaware Water Gap plant culminates Mr. Aronson's new expansion program. Since 1954, the company's lighter operations have been centralized in East Stroudsburg, Pa., where several comparatively small plants have been turning out millions of shiny new Ronson lighters each year. The new plant, however, will once again bring operations together under one roof and provide the most up-to-date facilities for lighter production.

Aronson, the Man

Who, one might ask, is Louis Aronson, the man? What's he like?

Louis V. Aronson II exemplifies the new crop of young executives that have replaced the old-time autocratic corporation magnates who used to be caricatured in cartoons and movies. The people of South Orange, N.J., where he lives with his wife Joan, and their three children, James, 10, Robert, 7, and Kathryn, 4, still remember him as the curly-haired youngster who played football and tore over the rolling countryside on the fastest bicycle in town.

Studiousness was combined with athletics later when he attended Newark Academy, where he was a member of the school's football, basketball, and track teams.

After graduating from Newark Academy in 1941, Mr. Aronson entered the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1945, and after a two-year hitch in the U.S. Navy, was honorably discharged in June, 1947. When he came to Ronson, immediately after leaving the Navy, Mr. Aronson spent two years in the production control department and one year in the company's engineering department.

Mr. Aronson still keeps his spirits high and his body in trim by enjoying a fast game of tennis or softball in the summer, and skiing in the winter—when he has time. He also pilots the company's Beechcraft "Twin Bonanza", which speeds him on his frequent tours of Ronson plants and calls on "trade" distributors throughout the U.S., and gives him the necessary first-hand knowledge of airplanes in line with Ronson's aircraft parts subsidiary companies. He is also a member of the Newark Athletic Club and a trustee of the Newark Boys' Club.

Sense of Teamwork

Louis Aronson at 33, immediately impresses people with his quiet confidence, his sense of responsibility and his duty to his job and his employees. Today's fluid economy demands a man whose personality fits perfectly into the streamlined operations of modern industry; a man whose sense of teamwork reflects the sincere friendly atmosphere of twentieth century business.

Mr. Aronson has fully demonstrated his ability to overcome problems, inaugurate bold new policies, improve efficiency, and select new and appropriate products to market.

The new plant at Delaware Water Gap is another milestone in his fight to make Ronson an example of the best elements in American business. In reviewing the results of his new policies recently, Mr. Aronson stated that, "these changes are just beginning to be felt—and the future should fulfill the great promise it holds for all of us at Ronson."

Louis V. Aronson II

Ronson's Colorful History A Pageant Of Metal Working From Lamps To Lighters

THE OPENING OF the new Delaware Water Gap plant culminates a 61-year history of the Ronson Corporation that spans ten U.S. presidents and two World Wars.

Back when the "nineties" were gay, a new company was established by Louis V. Aronson I, grandfather of the present Ronson president, on the windy west bank of the Passaic River at Newark, N. J.

During those early years, Louis V. Aronson I and 40 workmen worked long hours to produce art metal goods—jewel cases, lamp and wall fixtures, radiator ornaments for automobiles and similar products. Little did they dream that some day their old Art Metal Works would become the modern Ronson Corporation, whose famed lighters would be traded by natives in New Guiena, used to light whale oil lamps by the eskimos, and sold across thousands of jewelry and department store counters on five continents.

Flint Produces Lighter

Then, in 1910, a new metal alloy called "ferro cerium" — known simply as "flints" today—changed the course of the company's history. Louis V. Aronson I came up with the first practical lighter, a "striker" type having a metal match with a wicked tip that produced sparks and a "light" when struck against the "flint" side of the box. It was used extensively during the first World War and was called "the trench match" by American troops.

However, these cumbersome "two-handed" forerunners gave way to the first modern lighter in 1927, when the elder Mr. Aronson invented the "one motion" lighter that changed smoking habits throughout the world.

Invents One-Motion Lighter

True, a one-handed lighter operation had been invented by a British tobacconist, but it required the ordinary smoker to have the dexterity of a concert pianist. Though it took only one hand to make a "light", smokers still had to make several motions—open the case, strike the flint, and snap down the lid.

By combining the three operations into one "press it's lit—release it's out" thumb motion, Mr. Aronson revolutionized the industry and rocketed Ronson to world-wide fame.

Soon after patents were applied for, the first "single-motion" Ronson lighter came off the assembly line and hundreds of tobacco store buyers and jobbers lined up outside the modest Newark plant to fill their orders. The new lighter had "caught fire."

Patents Granted

When the lighter patents were granted in 1928, Ronson dropped most of the metal work business and concentrated on lighter production. Soon Mr. Aronson was adapting the "one-motion" lighter mechanism to table lighters, cigarette case lighters, cane lighters, smoking stand lighters, and a hundred other novel items.

Soon it became a national pastime for Ronson owners to challenge other lighter owners in "consecutive light" duels. Amazing performance records were set by Ronson owners who carried the "word" to every smoker in the land.

Sales Reach $3 Million

The year 1928 saw Ronson's sales amount to $3 million, and stock was offered to the public for the first time. The money was used to expand the Newark production facilities.

This era also saw the end of Ronson's famous toys and novelty hardware. Some years before, Mr. Aronson had invented the "mama voice" for mama dolls — which he marketed profitably until the successful imitations flooded the market. Ronson also produced a hundred varieties of sparklers for the Fourth of July and other merry making. Had the lighters not been so successful, the Ronson Corporation might also still be making cigar stands, pipe stands, and fancy ornamental figurines for automobile radiator caps.

Patent Problems

Ronson's original patent on the "one-motion" lighter mechanism was to expire in 1945 under the 17-year patent limit. However, late in 1943, Ronson applied for a patent extension on the grounds that the company had been deprived of its patent rights for seven years—from 1932 to 1929—by a fraudulent judicial decision. Congress recognized the truth of the matter and passed a private bill extending the patent protection until June, 1952.

The domestic sales drop after the expiration of patents was sharper than the drop in foreign Ronson sales. England, where there had always been competition in lighters and where the excise tax makes prices higher, hardly felt the impact of the patent expiration as the British were accustomed to having the choice of many qualities of lighters. Domestic sales of lighters continued a slight decline until the last half of 1955 when the trend was reversed. Competition in the lighter field has remained keen and will continue so, both in qual-

a progressive manufacturer

It is a fitting tribute to this area that the great Ronson organization has chosen to concentrate all of its lighter activities in a spanking new plant at Delaware Water Gap. We at the East Stroudsburg National Bank join with thousands of area residents in welcoming this progressive step in the life of the Ronson Corporation.

Always a vital part of the community, it has now demonstrated most conclusively that Ronson considers Monroe County the one place on the Eastern Seaboard where they can do business on a community level while carrying on the manufacture of a nationally known commodity.

lity and on a price basis. However, the new management was quick to apply proper policies and the necessary funds to correct this dangerous situation.

New Era

The new era of Ronson Corporation began in May, 1953, with the accession as president of Louis V. Aronson II, grandson of the founder, who directed the Corporation safely through its most difficult period. Management realized that not only were sales dropping, but lighter production facilities were badly outmoded. Manufacturing costs were so high, that in effect, the cheap competition was enjoying the advantage of having an umbrella held over its profits, with Ronson providing a large measure of the industry's advertising budget, although its own operations were in the red. As a result, management took a number of steps which markedly improved the Company's competitive position and in so doing laid a firm foundation for Ronson's future.

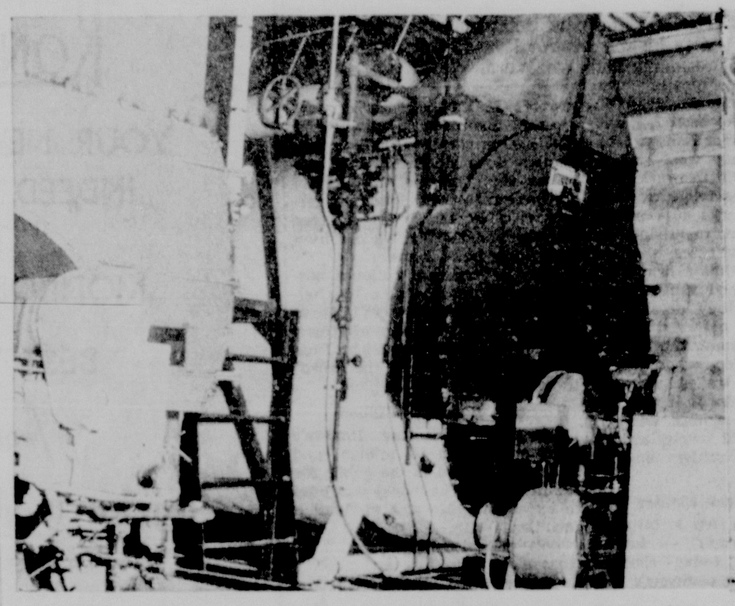

The most dramatic results of management's new policies were Ronson's entry into the electric shaver field in 1955; the purchase of Hydraulic Units, Inc., of Pasadena, Calif. and the reorganization of Ronson Hydraulic Units (N. C.) Corp. in Charlotteville, N. C.; the merger of Pennaloys with New Process Metals, Inc., consolidating all flint manufacture in the Newark plant of New Process Metals, Inc.; and the opening of the Delaware Water Gap plant, bringing all Ronson lighter production under one roof.

Mr. Aronson has also announced that a new 70,000-square-foot executive office building, which will house the executive offices, accounting, industrial relations, design, and advertising departments, as well as warehouse facilities, is now being planned for December, 1957 occupancy.

By the end of 1957, the Ronson Corporation and its subsidiary will have a total of approximately 400,000 square feet of modern office and production space valued in excess of $3.5 million.

The total includes: the 110,000-square-foot Delaware Water Gap plant; the 10,000-square-foot Stamford, Conn. shaver plant; the 47,000-square-foot facilities of Hydraulic Units, Inc. of Calif.; and Ronson Hydraulic Units, Inc. of Calif.; and Ronson Hydraulic Units (N. C.) Corporation of North Carolina; the 10,000-square-foot New Process Metals, Inc. plant in Newark; the 10,000-square-foot Cologne, Germany, lighter plant; the 32,000-square-foot plant in Toronto, Canada; the 100,000-square-foot English plant; and the 70,00-square-foot executive office building being planned for Woodbridge, N.J.

New Plant Features Special Facilities For Employees' Comfort And Efficient Production

The ultra modern lobby reflects the efficient operations of "straight line" manufacturing techniques used for producing lighters.

Mr. Pohl is a member of the American Management Association, and is on the Industrial Committee of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce. He is also an active member of Ronson's bowling team.

He now lives in East Stroudsburg with his wife and year-old son. The Pohls also have an English setter, Cosmo.

"Ronson will have better working conditions, better operating conditions, increased quality, cost reductions, and produce better products in its new modern plant," says Mr. Pohl.

WALTER MIKOS is the Delaware Water Gap Plant Superintendent for Ronson. He has been with Ronson three years. The 45 year old native of Chicago came to Ronson from the Norge Corporation where, in 1942, he was the youngest plant manager in the company's history. He also set up plants for Norge in Easton, Pa., and Canada. Mr. Mikos is a member of the Elks and the Knights of Columbus. He has four children. An ardent boating enthusiast, Walt spends most of his weekends on Lake Wallenpaupack. He also enjoys fishing, golf and bowling.

JIM GILFILLAN is Chief Manufacturing Engineer, responsible for all manufacturing processes used by the Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania. A Pennsylvanian by birth—he was born in New Holland, Pa. 43 years ago—Mr. Gilfillan joined Ronson in Nov., 1953 as a senior methods engineer, and was promoted to chief manufacturing engineer in April, 1954. He is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College. Mr. Gilfillan lives in East Stroudsburg with his wife, Dorothy, and their two teen-age children. He divides his spare time between his family, golf, photography and the Stroudsburg Eagles.

Employes Aided By Fund

THE BOARD of Directors of the Ronson Corporation set up an emergency fund to aid Ronson employees of the Stroudsburg area when they suffered hardship in the 1955 flood.

The money for the emergency fund, originally allocated for Ronson's annual picnic, was placed in a joint company-union fund to aid Ronson flood victims. The local union made a considerable contribution.

Overtime contributions were received from the Supervisors Club and from many other employees. An overtime day was also set aside, and many employees who worked contributed their over time earnings to this fund. The emergency fund totaled about $10,000.

The company also set up another fund for contributions to flood victims. In addition to this aid, Ronson provided interest-free loans to employees to aid them in their long-range plans for recovery, and the International Association of Machinists also set up a special flood relief fund for its members of the IAM.

The combined contributions for flood victims from these two funds ranged from $50 to $550 and was distributed to 87 employees.

FRANK GIMBEL is in charge of the Production Control department of the Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania. It is his responsibility to see that work schedules are planned and executed with the greatest efficiency. Mr. Gimbel joined Ronson in Oct., 1954, after 14 years of experience in both the quality control and production control departments of SKF Industries. Mr. Gimbel, 39, attended Villanova College and Temple University. A former Philadelphian, he is married and has three teen-age youngsters. He is a sports enthusiast and a staunch supporter of the East Stroudsburg Cavaliers.

Congratulations on your new plant in Delaware Water Gap

For, in addition to new job opportunities, Ronson brings to the Delaware Valley a nationwide reputation for quality products. In turn, the Delaware Valley affords Ronson a home rich in tradition, and a dynamic spirit which is making this area one of the world's leading industrial centers.

As good friends, and suppliers of tailor-made packaging to Ronson for many years, we of Continental are happy to congratulate all of you at Ronson on your new plant in Delaware Water Gap.

Total Sales Of All Ronson Products Reflect New Expansion And Diversification Policies

ACCORDING to estimates based on sales during the first half of 1956, this year's volume should surpass last year's mark by 15 per cent. The sales figures, of course, include the sale of all Ronson products — shavers, lighters, lighter accessories, and aircraft parts—both here and abroad.

While the major portion of the company's earnings still accrue from the sale of lighters, lighter accessories and men's and women's electric shavers, the sale of aircraft parts has become an important contributor to Ronson's overall sales volume.

According to Herbert M. Stein, Ronson's general sales manager, six reasons have been primarily responsible for Ronson's impressive sales record this year:

Variety of Lighters

1. The variety of new lighters—which are designed to fit every pocket, and grace every table in every home and office.

2. The new Ronson "66" electric shaver with its unique Supertrim feature.

3. The new machines and production facilities which assure a continuous flow of products to meet the growing consumer demand.

4. The growth of Ronson's world-wide dealer-distribution network, including about 3,000 firms covering the United States and Canada handling sales to well over 100,000 retail outlets.

5. The dramatic advertising and publicity programs inaugurated this fall which have brought Ronson's name for quality and its lines of fine consumer products to more people than ever before.

6. The important contributions of Ronson's aircraft parts manufacturing subsidiaries to the general sales total.

BEHIND THE FLOOD of orders for lighters, shavers and lighter accessories that come in to Newark from all corners of the nation every day lies the personal initiative of Herbert M. Stein, Ronson's dynamic general sales manager for consumer products. As chief of sales and head of Ronson's Marketing Division, Mr. Stein has made an important contribution to this year's estimated 20 percent increase in Ronson's total sales volume. The 41-year-old executive came to Ronson in 1952 and was assistant sales manager for two years. He brought considerable experience in consumer product sales with him, having been an executive vice president of the Hollis Company from 1945 to 1949. Previously, he had been an account executive with Lewin, Williams & Saylor, Inc., a New York advertising agency. Mr. Stein is a native of Elizabeth, N. J., and was graduated from Yale University in 1936. As a Lt. Commander in the U. S. Navy during World War II, he was the first officer assigned to the battleship U.S.S. Missouri, and was in Tokyo Bay when the Japanese surrendered to General MacArthur. Mr. Stein now lives in West Orange, N. J. with his wife, Nancy, and their three children, Nancy (Bunny), Gene, 13, Thomas Lewis, 12, and Herbert M. Jr., 6. He is a trustee and vice president of the Child Care Association of Essex County, and a member of the Mountain Ridge Country Club, West Caldwell, N. J.

PHOTOGRAPHED ABOVE are Ronson's executives and sales force which met last May for a week-long conference at the Hotel Algiers in Miami Beach, Fla. At this meeting, Beverly B. Bond, Vice President of Ronson's Electric Shaver Div. unveiled the new Ronson "66" shaver, the companion "Lady Ronson," and the new pocket and table lighters. The sales representatives were also briefed about Ronson's greatly expanded merchandising, promotion, and advertising campaigns. Top row (left to right): Arthur Halpert, Donald Roberts, Jack D. Playhouse 90 To Up Sales

"PLAYHOUSE 90", Ronson's new 90-minute weekly CBS-TV dramatic show series is expected to accelerate the sale of Ronson products, according to Herbert M. Stein, general sales manager for Ronson Corp.

He indicated that Ronson "66" Electric Shavers, "Lady Ronson" Shavers, Ronson pocket and table lighters, and the corporation's accessories products, including Ronsonol and Ronson flints—all are being heavily promoted on the big show emanating from Hollywood, Calif.

'Playhouse 90" commercials are substantially supported by printed advertising in such leading consumer magazines of general circulation as Life and Look.

Trade Campaign

Backing up this big consumer promotion drive in magazines and newspapers, is Ronson's advertising campaign in trade magazines in the jewelry, drug, tobacco, variety, food, hardware, appliance and department store fields.

"Of course," Mr. Stein said, "our best advertising of all is still in the Ronson product itself—the lighters, shavers and accessories. Their quality, dependability, service and performance encourage continuance of 'word-of-mouth' advertising conducted daily by satisfied American owners and gift-givers of Ronson products."

$150,000 Sales Contest Spurs Retail Salesmen To Ring Up New Christmas Season Record

RONSON CORPORATION'S $150,000 shaver sales contest for retail sales personnel, which ends December 31, has given the company's Christmas sales movement a healthy boost, according to Herbert M. Stein, sales manager.

Considered in trade circles the largest of its kind in the electric shaver field, the promotion provides such grand prizes as 1957 Chrysler Sedans, all-expense paid Bermuda trips, and console color TV sets.

The contest, (which began Oct. 15th), coincided with the Ronson "Playhouse 90" weekly television show, biggest dramatic program in CBS history, providing powerful backing to contest participants' shaver sales. The promotion (judged by Reuben Donnelly) awards Ronson Essex or Capri lighters to every sales person selling six Ronson "66" or Lady Ronson shavers betwen Oct. 15th and Dec. 31st. Selling the minimum six, participants are automatically eligible, by completing a statement in 25 words, for any of the grand prizes.

To heighten interest in the shaver contest, duplicate grand prizes are awarded to winners east and west of the Mississippi. To win the grand prizes, eligible retail sales personnel must complete, in 25 words or less, the expression: "I prefer to sell the Ronson '66' (or Lady Ronson) electric shaver because . . ."

This contest is one of many merchandizing devices which Ronson has successfully used to promote the sale of its shavers and lighters. It is typical of Ronson's progressive marketing policies which have earned the company its position of leadership.

Ronson's Sponsorship Of Playhouse 90 Brings Products To 30 Million Viewers

Production Spearheads Ad Program

WITH RONSON'S signing of the multi-million dollar contract with CBS-TV for "Playhouse 90" last Spring, Ronson rocketed to the number one spot as the top advertiser in the jewelry and gift product field.

The hour-and-a-half Thursday night dramatic series has steadily increased its audience in the 128 CBS network metropolitan areas since its premiere Oct. 4. According to estimates by CBS statisticians, "Rendezzvous in Black"—a nerve-tingling story of a young lover's revenge—televised on Oct. 25—was watched by 30 million viewers.

Top officers at both Ronson and their advertising agency, Norman, Craig & Kummel, feel that the tremendous audience of "Playhouse 90" has been an important factor in increasing sales of Ronson's new "66" shaver and new lighter models.

Reasons for Choice

According to the agency, Ronson was extremely satisfied with the Douglas Edwards news program which they sponsored last year. After the success of the Edwards show convinced everyone that television was a "paying" media for Ronson, it was decided to sponsor CBS's "Playhouse 90" for the following reasons:

1. As the first hour-and-a-half dramatic television show to be televised weekly, "Playhouse 90" — with its carefully developed plots, characterizations, and direction — was in keeping with the dignity, prestige and quality of the Ronson name and its line of fine products.

2. There was strong indication that a dramatic show would "hold" the audience and provide a suitable background for the dramatic Ronson commercials.

3. A long television show with a single theme allowed more than one demonstration of Ronson products and a score of opportunities to effectively put the name "Ronson" visually and audibly before the television audience.

4. The program appealed to both men and women, as do Ronson shavers, lighters, and lighter accessories.

5. "Playhouse 90" immediately follows "Climax" — another CBS Thursday night dramatic show that has held top audience ratings for a long time.

Printed Media

Bernard Dwortzan, Ronson's advertising manager, stressed the fact that Ronson's sponsorship of "Playhouse 90" has not encroached on magazine and newspaper advertising — the largest print media advertising program in Ronson's history. Full page four-color ads in Life and Look, as well as additional ads in other magazines and newspapers, have constantly stressed the newness and excitement of Ronson products to the nation. The ads are constantly bringing home the idea that Ronson products are important items for the home, office and person.

"In developing an advertising program for Ronson," said one of the advertising agency's top executives, "we have opened the way for other Ronson products that will make giving and living easier."

NEW "PLAYHOUSE 90" TV SERIES—Representing the multiple-star casting of Ronson's CBS new "Playhouse 90" series, are the performers sketched above, who appear in full-length Thursday night productions of top plays.

Perle Mesta and Shirley Booth, center, will be seen in "The Hostess with the Mostes'," when Miss Booth stars in the life story of Mrs. Mesta, former U. S. Minister to Luxembourg. Kay Thompson, at top, has written a musical score for her appearance in the hilarious play about her literary brain-child, "Eloise"; Boris Karloff, who starred in the thriller, "Rendezvous in Black," overlooks Peter Lorre, who was seen in the comedy "Sizeman and Son," with Eddie Cantor (right).

IN TWO STATES

County Named For President

MONROE COUNTY, in which Delaware Water Gap is located, was named for the fifth president of the United States.

It was erected in 1836 from parts taken from Northampton and Pike Counties.

The Delaware River forms the eastern boundary of Monroe County. Most of the scenic Pocono Mountains are within the county's borders.

Delaware Water Gap, because of its easy access by train from New York and Philadelphia, was the center of the Pocono resort area for many years prior to the advent of the automobile.

Show Is Produced By Manulis

ALTHOUGH Martin Manulis has had more than 21 years of directing and producing on Broadway and in television, he refers to Ronson-sponsored "Playhouse 90" as his "most exciting venture to date."

And to prove his point, he gave up producing "Climax" for the CBS network and turned down many lucrative movie offers. His reasons—

"Ninety minutes of drama not only opened up important new sources of dramatic material, but afforded a real opportunity for rich character delineation—something we have not always been able to attain in shorter time periods. Because of this, many fine stars who have refused to appear on television have been anxious to play on "Playhouse 90."

Habitual Viewing

Although he has produced several ninety-minute dramatic plays televised at different intervals when he worked on the "Best of Broadway" series in 1954, Mr. Manulis was confident that this new every-week scheduling of "Playhouse 90" opened the way to habitual viewing.

Last February the network gave Manulis the formidable task of producing the hour long weekly "Climax" show in Hollywood. Following his belief of tightly-woven productions designed to heighten and maintain interest from the beginning right through the end, Manulis brought "Climax" to its number one position among hour long dramas.

"But if I were to be asked, 'Martin, what is the perfect arrangement for a television dramatic program,' I would have to answer, 'Give me a top writer, talented stars, enough time to show off both their work, a steady audience' . . . he sighed contentedly. "What more could any producer ask for?"

What more could any sponsor ask for?

Ronson's expansion program is in keeping with good business practice. It is axiomatic that a manufacture of such nationally-recognized products as Ronson Lighters should and does take a long look into the future. Ronson's new and modern plant at Delaware Water Gap is the answer to long range plans and spells out graphically this concern's determination to keep abreast of the market for its products through modern processes of manufacture.

We, as one of Ronson's suppliers are proud to be among those to extend our best wishes for a prosperous future.

World-Wide Public Relations Program Ushers In Ronson's Unique TV Commercial For "66" Shaver

TO BERNARD DWORTZAN, Ronson's amiable 32-year-old advertising manager, falls the task of coordinating Ronson's huge advertising and publicity programs with the various sales and merchandising methods for all consumer products. Mr. Dwortzan, who came to Ronson Aug. 1, 1946, started as an assistant in the advertising department, and quickly advanced to sales promotion manager, assistant advertising manager, becoming advertising manager in 1953. He is a native of Newark, N. J., and a graduate of Rutgers University. In June, 1953 he completed his evening studies for an M.B.A. degree at New York University. Graduated School of Business Administration. Mr. Dwortzan was a master sergeant in the U. S. Army during World War II, and served as regimental communications chief in the Pacific Theatre of Operations. He is a member of the Advertising Club of New Jersey, plays tennis and "enjoys watching good television productions, such as 'Playhouse 90'". Mr. Dwortzan and his wife, Laura-lee, have two boys, David, 3, and Alan, 4 months.

Publicity Campaign Snowballs As Thousands Of Bearded Men Apply For TV Shaves

TO PUBLICIZE Ronson's sponsorship of "Playhouse 90", the new 1½-hour CBS weekly dramatic show, a unique public relations program was developed to focus national attention on the commercial and the show to promote the Ronson "66" shaver.

It had been decided by Ronson and their advertising agency, Norman, Craig & Kummel, to shave bearded men "live" from Television City, Hollywood. Purpose was to demonstrate dramatically the "66" shaver's Super Trim feature which can shave off whiskers of any length.

1. Create a dragnet to find men with beards willing to part with them on a television commercial.
2. Focus national attention on the new Ronson TV show, "Playhouse 90".
3. Publicize and assist in the marketing, merchandising and advertising program for Ronson shavers, lighters and other products.
4. Close the door to publicity by competitors who might copy the Super Trim feature of the Ronson "66" shaver.
5. Help to increase national distribution of Ronson products through distributors, by creating news and excitement about the products.

Beard Campaign Born

It was Joe Sicari of Asher B. Etkes Associates, public relations counsel to Ronson, who created the nation-wide campaign to find bearded men by advertising: "Wanted — Men with Beards", which was prepared and placed in 28 cities throughout the country.

(Please turn to page 11—A)

Below are some of the hundred bearded contestants who appeared in answer to the ad entitled "men wanted" which appeared in 36 newspapers throughout the country. Measuring one of the beards is Joseph L. Sicari, associate, Asher B. Etkes Associates, public relations, who directed the beard publicity project.

Million Dollar Structure Built

Designed for Expansion

Extensive research which has developed new and important lighter improvements has resulted in increased consumer demand. Ronson is now laying the groundwork for expanded production, to be accompanied by the largest advertising and promotion campaign in the company's history.

While the plant is designed to accommodate present production needs, it has been so located on the site as to permit expansion south and west. Large open area sections have been made available for immediate future needs. All manufacturing machines are specially mounted, in order to maintain easy flexibility for expansion purposes.

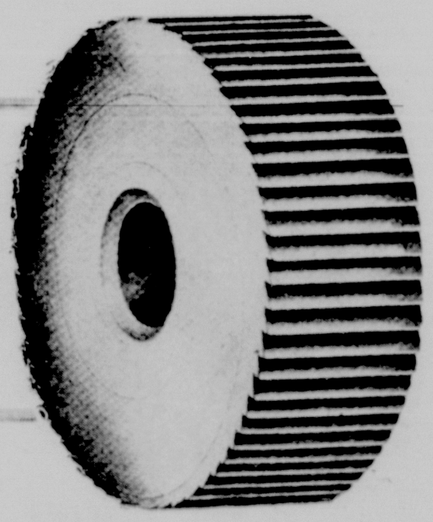

Color motif of the new building, which possesses an imposing frontage of 2,000 feet, is buff brick, contrasted with green trim and sash. Front facade is dramatic in its inherent modernity and suggestion of up-to-date manufacturing facilities, featuring white cast stone in combination with green zourite aluminum and glass exterior paneling.

Labor Leaders Praise Ronson

The following statements were issued by the local and national officers of the International Association of Machinists in conjunction with the opening of the Ronson Delaware Water Gap plant.

"IT IS A great privilege, as president of our union, to express the views of our membership who look forward with the greatest pleasure to the move into the new plant.

"We feel that the construction of this new plant is a big step forward in providing the best type of production facilities and the most modern working conditions for all of us, and will prove to be a great asset to the community.

"We feel that the opportunities for success of the Ronson organization will be greatly enhanced by the new plant and we will cooperate to the fullest extent to further that end.

"The setting of the new plant should prove to be an incentive for the continuation of our working together to obtain ever increasing harmony and happiness for us all."

(Signed)
Paul S. Albertson,
President
Local Lodge 1724
International Assoc. of Machinists

"OUR ORGANIZATION is always pleased to note the expansion of the facilities of any of the employers with which it has contractual relations and, especially, when these changes embrace new buildings in which our members will be employed.

"It is, therefore, a special pleasure to note that the Ronson Corporation is about to take possession of its new plant at the Delaware Water Gap and we sincerely hope the embarking on this new venture will prove beneficial to the company in the way of increased business.

"Naturally, this will reflect beneficially upon the economy of our membership and will also reflect in a similar manner upon the community.

"We all have a responsibility to our respective communities and I know that is the feeling of our membership of Lodge 1724 of the International Association of Machinists which represents our people.

"Therefore, I join the many friends of the Ronson Corporation in extending my best wishes for the future success of the company and our people."

LOCAL LODGE 1724 of the International Association of Machinists has been bargaining agent at the Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania plants since June, 1943.

The following are a list of the officers of Local Lodge 1724: President, Paul Albertson; vice president, Edith Antonacci; recording secretary, Joseph Andress; financial secretary, Catherine Fish; treasurer, George Court; conductor, Frank Sidlosky; sentinel, Harry Mader; trustee, Minnie Beckler; trustee, Kenneth Werkheiser; trustee, Margaret Hagerty; Shop Stewards, Raymond Catudal, William Bolcar, Joseph Rosso, Paul Strunk.

DONALD SMITH, who is Chief Research and Development Engineer at the Delaware Water Gap plant, is responsible for the design and development of all new lighters and allied products. His department puts ideas on paper and makes working models of them. Eventually, many of these models are mass-produced. Mr. Smith recently joined Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania, coming here from Philco, where he was a project engineer. He brings to Ronson a broad background in experimental engineering. He received a B. S. degree from Lafayette College in 1940. The 41 year old designer was born in Easton, Pa. He and his wife, Lou, have two children.

Publicity Campaign

by Norman, Craig & Kummel.

The advertisement offered $5,000 an ounce "for the privilege of shaving your beard" on the "Playhouse 90" commercial. In addition to payment for the beards, successful candidates were to receive an all-expense-paid airplane round-trip to Hollywood and a two-day stay at the luxurious Beverly Hills Hotel.

Campaign Snowballs

The response to the Ronson advertisement and the attending publicity was sensational. Bearded men from all points of the nation and all corners of the globe wrote, telegraphed and called in person at Ronson headquarters in Newark offering their beards for sale. Messages were received from Saudi Arabia and Australia, submarine crews and other shipboard stalwarts on three oceans and half a dozen seas. Youthful applicants about to take their first shave consulted Ronson before proving their maturity. Artists, hoboes, a professional Santa Claus, writers, learned scientists and musicians — all turned their eyes to Newark for a chance at the most profitable shave in history.

Then, on Oct. 1, after Ronson switchboards had been tied up for days, fashionable shoppers and communications executives on New York's plush Madison Avenue were startled by more than 100 bearded men who showed up in the lobby of the Look Building for the first regional screening. From the scores of beards surveyed, was chosen the four-inch bright red bush of Edwin James Glover, 26-year-old carpenter from Gladstone, N. J.

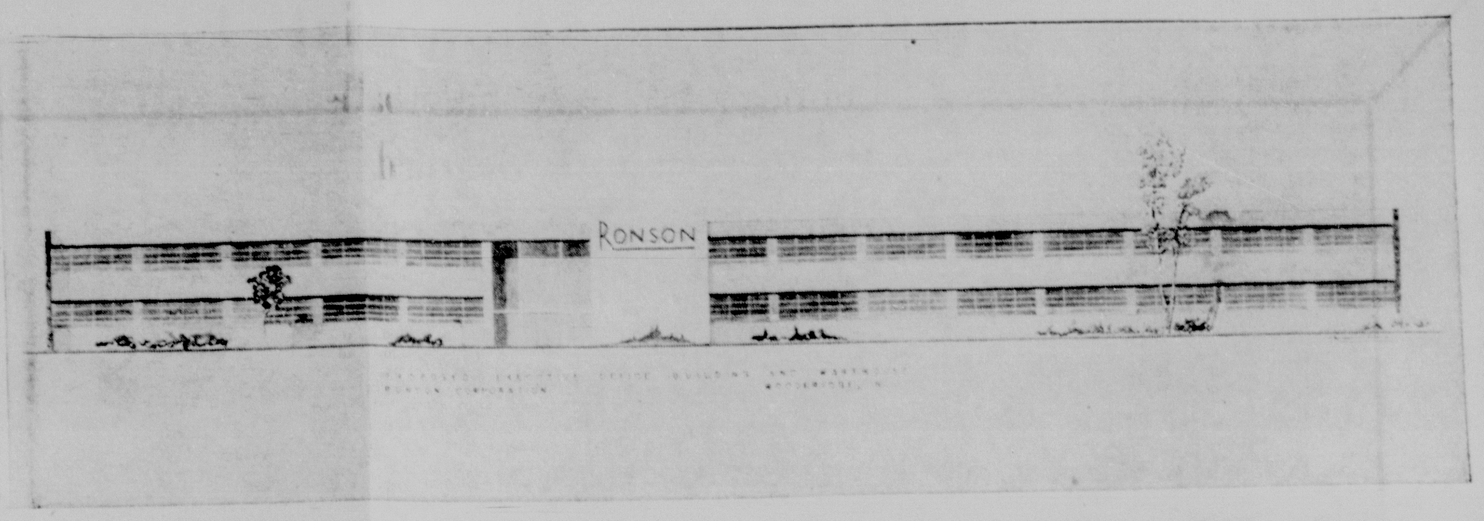

Mr. Glover was followed in succeeding weeks by Joseph Mituzas, a gas and electric service maintenance man from White Plains, N. Y., and William Robert Smith, a Glendale, Cal., policeman.

Reviewing the success of the Ronson publicity program recently, Bernard Dwortzan, Ronson's advertising manager revealed that letters from beard applicants continue to pour in from all parts of the nation.

Creek Forms Giant's Foot

TWO MILES west of Delaware Water Gap, Cherry Creek takes a meandering course through a field of clay. The natural pattern resembles a large shoe; hence the name given to the spot—the Giant's Foot.

The course has remained unchanged for many years, demonstrating the resistance of clay to the ravages of water.

LOUIS V. ARONSON II, president of the Ronson Corporation, has announced that the company is now planning to build a modern 70,000-square-foot executive office building in the near future. The new building—which will house the executive offices, accounting, industrial relations, design, and advertising departments, as well as warehouse facilities—is now being planned by R. S. Noonan Company, architects, for a 59-acre site located at the junction of the Garden State Parkway and U. S. Route 1, in Woodbridge, N. J. Occupancy is scheduled for December 1957, when all office and warehouse operations currently in Newark, N. J. will be transferred to Woodbridge, N. J.

MORTON CHABER, Supervisor of Industrial Engineering, was born 30 years ago in Brooklyn, and holds a degree in Industrial Engineering from Syracuse University. In Feb. 1955, Mr. Chaber joined Ronson as an industrial engineer, and was recently promoted to industrial engineering supervisor. He is responsible for all production standards, production methods, and special engineering projects. Mr. Chaber is a member of the Society For The Advancement of Management and the American Institute of Industrial Engineers. He served in the U. S. Navy aboard a destroyer in World War II. He and his wife, Carol, have two children, a boy, 4, and a year-old daughter.
